By REVEALON

Table Rock—We were quite elated over the idea of getting items from Table Rock, written some 46 years ago, and using them for our column. They would have been interesting and would have given a true picture to our newcomers of the social doings here in the by-gone days. But after searching the back issues of the M.T. and watching with tired eyes the film spin around for an hour or two, and finding everything but what we were looking for, we gave it up for the time being.

The clean-up day held by the Table Rock Sunday school last Thursday was well attended, and much was accomplished, but there is much more to be done, as the building and grounds are in a rundown condition with leaks in the roof, faded and scaling paint, and fences in some places having been torn down and needing repair.

Much of the equipment in the building was put there by donations, including a 1,000-pound bell in the belfry, a piano, six dozen chairs, wiring for lights, curtains and wings for the stage and smaller items. Most of the money was raised by a local organization, the Arrowhead Literary society, who gave box socials, entertainments and plays. At one time $400 was taken in, but those buying boxes got them free, as they got war savings stamps for the full amount of the purchases.

A considerable amount of money was made with the play, "What Happened to Jones," that was given in many towns and communities of the valley, including Sams Valley, Eagle Point, Gold Hill, and Willow Springs.

One of the new California members of Sams Valley Grange thought our new name for Bill Duggan's Land of Many Oaks was very appropriate—Homes for Smog-Stricken Californians.

The report of livestock theft cases in Tuesday's M.T. reminds us of old times here in the valley when a horse thief would just about be hanged, and more fuss would be made over the stealing of a hog than is made now over a bank robbery.

One of these hog stealing cases was being tried in the court at Jacksonville, and the accused's lawyer was trying to prove that his client thought it was his hog, and there was some discrepancy about which ear the swallow fork mark was in.

Ed Wilkinson, an Englishman living in Medford, had seen the hog and was called to the witness stand. He was asked in which ear the mark was. Not to be trapped by an oily-tongued lawyer, he answered, "If you was looking 'im in the eye, hit would be in the right ear, but if you was looking 'im in the hind end, it would be the left."

It took several raps of the gavel to restore order and proceed with the trial.

Several local people attended the Dell Morrison funeral in Medford Tuesday. Mr. Morrison was a long time resident, of the east side of the community, where he and his wife, with diligence and hard work, built up a farming enterprise from scratch. A good neighbor, ever-ready and willing to help out a fellow farmer in the pinches, he will be missed by many. We tender our sympathy to the bereaved members of the family.

The beautiful forsythia are in full bloom in many yards of the valley, but the wild turnip is fast coming into competition with the same color of bloom.

We understand that several dairy herds and quotas in the valley are for sale. Some of the would-be sellers claim that there is too much regulation, and requirements are so stiff, that dairymen are being driven out of the business.

Reports indicate that Straus brothers, Sams Valley dairymen, have leased the Ed Taylor farm land to grow corn for ensilage.

Mrs. J. S. Richardson returned Tuesday from several days spent in Portland, where she attended a retired teachers' meeting as a delegate and visited with son Donald and family. On her way to take the bus for her

Deuel to Run for School Board Spot

HALBERT S. DEUEL JR. Accepts Nomination

By MARY KELL
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill—Halbert S. Deuel Jr., well known Gold Hill resident and Jackson county orchardist, has filed a petition accepting the nomination as candidate for a five-year term as director on the District 6 school board.

C. Norman Gail, present board chairman, is retiring as director. Charles A. Meyer, superintendent of District 6 schools, made the announcement. He said deadline date for filing is April 1. The annual school election will be held May 2. At that same time, he said, patrons will vote on the rural school levy and the District 6 budget.

Deuel has had active experience in conjunction with school board activities. He served the past two years on the budget board for District 6, the last year as secretary. Prior to this he was on the district's citizens' advisory committee for one year.

His association with school board affairs the past three years has given him an opportunity to work with Meyers and to know all principals of the different schools in the district personally, as well as to gain knowledge of the school system.

Deuel was born in Medford. He served in the Navy 1944-46, including 14 months on overseas duty in the Pacific area.

Upon his return from the service, he entered the University of Oregon at Eugene in 1946. He was president of his living organization for two years and during his senior year at the university was president of the association of Greek students. He graduated

Rural Reflections

By MAUDE ZIEGLER
Applegate Valley—There are those that say everything is over-civilized these days, and that there isn't much freedom left—restrictions are everywhere, etc.

But at Mt. Shasta ski bowl several valley people driving there Sunday enjoyed products of civilization interspersed with the true freedom of the wild. Who could deny enjoyment of the automobile and paved highway that takes them into the very snowy base of the majestic Shasta? There, by the mechanical invention of man, thousands of skiers were lifted in a fantasy of fairyland to frightening heights from whence they scattered over the gleaming whiteness into mere specks like ants busy with nest building. Who could not enjoy from the sundeck of the lodge the close-up of the skiers in sleek and colorful array as they made their home landing?

Then a few miles below the ski area and after the last traffic officer had been passed, there was room to park in provided areas, nestled against the cozy confines of high snow banks, and get out the contents of the "chuck wagon" and make the coffee from melted snow.

Family dogs could plunge body deep into the soft crust of snow, and oldsters could squeal to the top of their voice with the pain of a toboggan upset. The very young adults were free to explore the far snowy slopes, sometimes sinking over their heads into the branches of trees buried in the snow.

homecoming, she was held up for some time on account of a man on the ledge of a high building who was threatening to jump off. He finally decided to walk down.

Farmers here are going full blast with cultivating of the soil and seeding of grain.

Thought for the day: There is nothing so fair as a day in June—except one like it in March.

in 1950 with a bachelor of science degree. Following graduation, he returned to southern Oregon and became a partner and assumed the position of operation manager of the Del Rio orchards, growers, processors and shippers of pears.

Besides his business interests, he has been interested for several years with promoting opportunities for children and youth here in the Rogue valley. He was a member of the group in 1951 that helped form the Jackson county council for children and youth to promote gainful employment for high school students who seek work after school hours, on Saturdays and during the summer months.

Deuel has been director of the board for Jackson County Fruit Growers league two years and director of the Gold Hill Lions club for the past two years.

He assisted the Rogue Valley Memorial hospital fund raising committee by taking charge of the drive in the Gold Hill area.

Deuel and his wife Barbara moved from Medford to the historic ranch home at the Del Rio orchard north of Gold Hill about four years ago. They are the parents of three youngsters, an eight year old daughter, Melissa, who is a second grade pupil at Patrick elementary school of District 6, another daughter, Dianne, age 4½, and an infant son, Halbert S. Deuel III.

Eagle Point Boys Brigade Gets Charter

By DOTTIE HARBISON
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Eagle Point—Don Pulley of the Eagle Point Community Church presented the original Boys Brigade charter to the Captain, the Rev. Joseph Munshaw, at a special ceremony here Monday night with the Boys Brigade and a group of parents and friends in attendance.

Munshaw stated that at present he is the only qualified councilman but he has the help and cooperation of David Kahl and Donald Pulley, who are taking the necessary training required to become councilmen.

Before the observer achievement awards were presented, Munshaw explained the organization for the parents with each of the following boys taking part and explaining a phase of the requirements for the award: Richard Short, observer requirements; Pete Wallis, test of strength; Bobby Ottoson, scripture memorization; Dwane Whaley, brigade salute; Ricky Chamberlain, motto; Dick Ayres, watchword; and Don Charley, signals.

Willard Webster, Gary Webster, Ricky Chamberlain, Joe Munshaw, Pete Wallis, Dwane Windham, John Munshaw, Bobby Ottoson, John Linder, Rick Ayres, Victor Eccleston, and Richard Short received observer awards.

John Linder explained the hike, Joe Munshaw the requirements of God and Dwane Windham sports and craft and explorer's checkup before receiving explorer awards.

Munshaw said the boys are divided into squads with a corporal and a lance corporal for each squad and an overall sergeant in overall command.

Each meeting is opened with a prayer before the boys their group work on achievements. Achievements are accompanied by many scripture memorizations and reading of Bible chapters.

A surprise meeting known as the "captain's specialty" follows and may include a pie-eating contest or other games. A council ring with each boy once again in his own squad ends the weekly meetings.

Munshaw has made arrangements to take the boys to the Elk's Circus in Medford next week and arrangements are being made to play some of the church boys in basketball and baseball.

At present the boys are gathering points from their attendance, Bible readings and other activities in the hopes of totaling 175 before July so the group can attend the ball game between the San Francisco Giants and the Milwaukee Braves.

Applegate Valley—Russell Elmore, student at Grants Pass High school and an FFA member there, received a state farmer's degree at the FFA convention in Pendleton last week end.

EP Couples Open Plant to Make Barbecue Sauce

Eagle Point—Articles of incorporation have been filed by Bob and Mary Jane Sanderson and Darrell and Carol Copeland for the Old Southern Barbecue company. Old Southern barbecue sauce is being manufactured at present with a sister sauce Old Barbecue smoke sauce being planned for the near future.

The recipe is one Bob Sanderson has been using for putting on large barbecue dinners the past 10 years. He is a retired school teacher and has used this recipe both in Mississippi where he came from and here in southern Oregon. The sauce has created such a demand from people who attended the dinners and by others who tasted, he says, that it has led to the opening of a factory.

Copeland said sale of the sauce was started last week in Medford, Ashland, Eagle Point and Central Point and would be handled through the Wholesale Distributors. Promotion in Klamath Falls and throughout Oregon has started with Pacific Fruit being contacted to help distribute it.

Friends of Sanderson who live in Idaho have requested the sauce and, as the company grows, more territory will be included.

At present, Copeland says, the two couples are handling the manufacturing and bottling themselves but will employ help as orders are received and the need for help arises. The sauce has a tomato base and all ingredients are natural food ingredients. The business itself is located at 540 Holly st. in Ashland and a 60 gallon capacity steam cooker is being used. They have their own automatic filler and labeler. The sauce is being bottled in 11-ounce bottles.

Applegate Valley—The Rev. Earl Best, pastor of Ruch Community Bible church, received a broken nose and facial injuries when he was thrown from a horse he was riding Monday. He received treatment at a Medford hospital. The animal was a colt which Mr. Best was breaking to ride for his children.

Copco Gets Permit To Use County Land for 3 Years

By KATHERINE CHAPMAN
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Hornbrook—At a meeting of the Siskiyou county board of supervisors Tuesday, a use permit was issued to the California Oregon Power Co. for a period of three years at the rate of $1 a year on county-owned land on a railroad spur at Hornbrook.

The land will be used for equipment unloading and storage during construction of the Iron Gate dam on the Klamath, eight miles above Hornbrook near Copco. Copco will level and improve the land and, if finished with it before three years, will relinquish the lease.

In other business, the board voted to fence the city dumps at Hornbrook, Grenada and Gazelle. The work is to be done by jail labor. The fencing is to prevent the blowing of trash over the landscape, and will reduce the fire hazard.

Also the Siskiyou county road department announced Monday that effective immediately the Copco road will be subject to closures for as long as one hour in duration. These closures will be caused by construction going on up the Klamath river and will not be a regular schedule. They will continue until further notice.

Hornbrook Resident Renamed to Board

Hornbrook—Gov. Edmund (Pat) Brown Wednesday reappointed Ed Smith of Hornbrook to the board of the 10th district agricultural association, which is the board of control for the Siskiyou county fair.

Smith has been a member of the board for 17 years. His appointment is for a four-year term. He is the owner-operator of the T. Jones Co. here.

Lone Pine—Fifth and sixth grade boys at Lone Pine school have begun baseball practice under Coach Ralph Monroe. They will open their season April 4 at Howard school.

Applegate Valley—The Rev. Earl Best, pastor of Ruch Community Bible church, received a broken nose and facial injuries when he was thrown from a horse he was riding Monday. He received treatment at a Medford hospital. The animal was a colt which Mr. Best was breaking to ride for his children.

Realty Firm Buys Property

Eagle Point—The White City Realty company purchased 4.85 acres of land at the intersection of Antelope rd. and the Crater Lake highway in White City Wednesday morning at public auction for the minimum acceptable bid of $5,000. Several thousand acres of the same land sold in 1940 for $10 an acre.

Dale D. Hill of the property management section of the Oregon State Highway commission sold the property at the minimum bid when no other bids were offered by the other men present.

Laden purchased the land for the realty company and stated that plans have been made for use of the corner lot but no statement could be made at this time. The land purchased is approximately 70 feet in depth.

Four points of access, 40 feet in width, unrestricted as to its use, will be allowed to the Crater Lake highway for safety reasons since it is a highway frontage and part of it is located on a curve.

Yreka—Three persons were arrested by Yreka police Monday on charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.
