Clippers and the agile hands of barber Charles Bechtel changed this. "Today, at the age of 3½ months, he is their little brother. Michael's thoughts as the barber progressed with his work, probably went something like this: 'Yef, 'A bib and no bottle?' Center, 'Silly grownups, always playing games.' Right, 'That's me? Real sharp, man!'" (UPI Telephone)

Sweetland Accuses Howell Appling of 'Economy Stunt'

Portland—State Sen. Monroe Sweetland (D-Milwaukie), publisher of the Milwaukie Review and candidate for secretary of state, accused Howell Appling Jr., the incumbent Republican candidate, of "arranging a phony economy stunt" in concealing Oregon's membership in the National Association of Secretaries of State.
 At the same time, Sweetland charged Appling with "bungling and butchering" the publication of the 1959-60 edition of the Election Laws so badly that the entire 4,600 volumes of the 160-page book had to be reprinted and re-issued a second time. "Sound Investment"
 Sweetland said if he is elected secretary of state, one of his first acts will be to restore Oregon's membership in the national secretaries of state organization "as a sound investment in good government." Sweetland reported that Oregon's annual dues in the association is only $100 "in return for which Oregon secretaries of state have been exchanging valuable experience and knowledge on the intricate problems of their office since the turn of the century."

This is an Impala Sport Coupe. And for no extra cost this is what you get:

- 1 Sliding adjustable sun visors—on both sides—No matter what the angle of the sun, Chevrolet has fixed it so front seat riders receive sure protection from glare.
- 2 Separate anti-glare hoods for every instrument—No other car among the leading low-priced three offers this very practical feature. The instruments are shielded from stray flashes of light.
- 3 Automatic glove compartment light—No fumbling in the dark. As soon as the door catch is released the light snaps on.
- 4 Largest visibility area—The only full wraparound windshield among the leading low-priced cars gives you a generous area of vision where it counts most.
- 5 Constant speed electric windshield wipers—These are standard equipment in the '60 Chevy. Even when you accelerate, as in passing, the wipers do their job without interruption.
- 6 Enclosed steering column—Here's a bonus in neatness and eye appeal.
- 7 Convenient single key locking system—One key does the job. It fits all the locks—ignition, doors, trunk and glove box. No need for guessing which key to use.
- 8 And the glove box is longer, deeper—Chevy's glove box is big enough to be really useful. You have the room you need for a variety of small items.
- 9 Up to three inches more hip room—Chevy gives you more hip room by a comfortable margin than the second-choice car.
- 10 Crank operated ventipanes—Only Chevy among the leading low-priced three has vent windows easily adjusted by a turn of the crank. No tugging or pushing.
- 11 Keyless locking of all doors—After the button is flicked, you can lock any door from the outside. No climbing about to lock back doors after they're closed.
- 12 Longer, more comfortable armrests—Chevrolet designed them for the Impala to make you just a little more comfortable. They're located to feel natural.
- 13 Safety reflectors for protection when doors are open—Impala has them. Other cars in its field do not. This added safety feature, built into the armrests, warns traffic behind when a door is opened.
- 14 Slimline Body by Fisher—Only Chevy in its field offers the polish and craftsmanship of Body by Fisher. See how beautifully the interior trim is aligned, how tastefully the fabrics are tailored.
