Senators Have Pascual Plus Muscle; Little Else

(This is the sixth of the dispatches on the 1960 prospects of the major league clubs.)

By LEO H. PETERSEN UPI Sports Editor

Orlando, Fla. — (UPI) — The Washington Senators have muscle and Camilo Pascual. They have little else.

But that muscle and Pascual could combine to get them out of the American league cellar, a spot on which the Senators have had a lock in recent years.

"We should play .500 ball," says Manager Cookie Lavagetto. "I don't know where that would place us, but it would be out of the cellar."

With clubs like Kansas City and Boston in the league, no one would fault Lavagetto on that thinking.

4-Man Muscle Trust He has that muscle in four men-third baseman Harmon Killebrew, who hit 42 homers last season; outfielders Jim Lemon, who drove 33 out of the park and Bob Allison, who hit 30 jackpots, and Roy Sievers, probably the best long ball hitter of them all.

He wound up with only 21 homers in 1959—not bad for the average player but substandard for Sievers. Roy was hampered by injuries last season, but looks like the old Sievers this spring.

Put these four men with Pascual, whom many baseball men regard as the best pitcher in the business, and you can understand why the Senators think there are better times ahead.

Every club in the league is making overtures for Pascual, but President Calvin Griffith, who has been known to change his mind when the checkbook runs low, says they are wasting their time.

"They'd run me out of Washington if I traded him," he explains.

Pascual won 17 while losing 10 with the Senators last season. Among his victories were six shutouts. The batters he pitches against say he has the best curve ball in the league.

Lavagetto doesn't have too much back of Pascual except Pedro Ramos, a 13-game winner last year. Cookie is high on rookie Jim Kaat, a left-hander who won only eight games with Chattanooga.

Right now Washington's catching is hurting with both Clint Courtney and Hal Naragon, the No. 1 and 2 men, benched with injuries. That left Lavagetto with rookie Steve Korcek, who probably won't make the grade, as his only receiver. So he put 42-year-old Clyde McCullough back to work. He's done so well that he may be kept.

Snead Triumphs In DeSoto Golf

Bradenton, Fla. — (UPI) — With a victory under pressure in the $40,000 DeSoto open golf tournament Sunday, 48-year-old Sam Snead served notice he will be a strong contender to become the first four-time Masters champion April 7-12 at Augusta, Ga.

Snead, winner of more tournaments than any golfer in history, took his 104th victory in his 28-year career when he defeated little Jerry Barber in a duel that wasn't decided until the final hole.

Barber was two strokes ahead of the field at the beginning of Sunday's final round, but Snead shot a three-under-par 68 while Barber was shooting par 71.

Other team scores were Marshfield 74, Roseburg 48, Crater 30, North Bend 20 and Douglas 2.

Giants Sparkle Against Bosox

Phoenix, Ariz. — (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants played like the pennant was at stake Saturday as they defeated the Boston Red Sox, 6-3, in an exhibition baseball game.

Everything was fantastic — the fielding, the hitting and the pitching.

In the fielding department, Orlando Cepeda made his greatest effort as a left fielder as he climbed the wall to spear a long drive by Lou Clinton. Willie Mays robbed Haywood Sullivan of a 400-foot smash to right-center; and Felipe Alou took a high fly deep in right — and threw out Eddie Sadowski on an attempt to score from third.

Eddie Bressoud sparked the Giants' hitting attack with a homer, a double and a single. Orlando Cepeda homered and Manny Alou doubled as San Francisco had nine hits.

In the pitching department, Mike McCormick went five innings allowed only one hit and no runs. The Red Sox got to Billy O'Dell for seven hits and three runs in two and one-third innings — but Billy Loes came in for the final inning and two-thirds to give Boston nothing but zeros.

Wilkins Shines For East Quint

United Press International Coach Pete Newell thinks his college All-Star team faces a "rough" job in this week's Olympic basketball tryouts — and that the absence of amazing Lenny Wilkens will make it even rougher.

"Wilkins is terrific," said Newell after watching the slender backcourt star from Providence College pop in the winning goal for the East with five seconds left in Saturday night's 67-66 game against the West before a sellout crowd of 18,496 at Madison Square Garden.

Wilkins shared "most valuable" honors in the game with East teammate Jerry West, who led the scoring with 23 points.

Wilkins hit four jump shots in the last 2½ minutes to save the game, climaxing his spree by stealing the ball from Michigan State's Horace Walker and swishing a short one-hander for the winning basket.
