Track Rout Anticipated Saturday

By HAL WOOD
 San Francisco—(UPI)—It's about time somebody started hollering "Break up the Trojans."
 Their track and field team, that is.
 Coach Jess Mortensen brings his terrible Trojans to the University of California on Saturday—and this may turn into one of the greatest dual-meet routs of all time.
 But Cal can't be faulted on that.
 The Trojans will be gunning for their 36th dual meet without a loss. And this time they bring into action some of the greatest stars of the athletic world—men who will be making headline history in the 1960 Olympic summer games at Rome.
 The last time California defeated USC in track and field was 1943 and the Trojans have whipped them 17 straight times since—including twice in the war year of 1945.
 Down through the years track and field men have flocked to the sunny climes and coaching staff of the University of Southern California. The team has won 20 of the 28 NCAA track and field championships staged. They finished second five times and third last year. A total of 48 USC-trained men have either equaled or bettered world records since 1912. USC track and field men have won 13 gold medals at Olympic Games and won 63 places on U.S. teams.
 Such men as Clarence Hauser in the weights; Lee Barnes, Earle Meadows and Bill Sefton in the pole vault; Frank Wykoff, Charley Paddock and Mel Patton in the shot put and the history books of track and field.
 And now comes the greatest of them all: Dallas Long, the 19-year-old sophomore powerhouse who may be shooting for 70 feet by the time he gets rid of all his baby fat.
 His heave of 64 feet, 6½ inches last week will be recognized as a new record. He'll probably do well over 65 feet by the time the Olympic Games roll around.
 But he isn't the only man on the USC squad. They have others who are the best in the intercollegiate ranks. Jim Brewer has the top outdoor pole vault by a collegian this year at 14 ft., 9 inches. Bill Jackson and Luther Hayes, both of the Trojans, are tied with Jim Tate of Arizona for the best broad jump at 24 feet, 11¼ inches; Jim Wade has the best discus heave at 177 ft., 3 in., and Bob Sbordone tops the javelin tossers at 250 ft., 2½ inches.

Spreaders Stickers Are Permissible
 The use of spreader stickers in spray materials by orchardists is apparently permissible and is a desirable practice, C. B. Cordy, county extension agent, said today.
 Assurances have been received, he said, that materials coming under the new Food Additives law such as spreaders may be used provided a request has been made for an extension of the effective date of the amendment.
 Cordy said in view of this, growers may now use 1½ to 2 ounces of X77 per 100 gallons. Other spreaders for which similar application has been made could likewise be used with the same assurance, he added.
 Cordy noted that there has been some question as to whether or not spreaders were included under the Food Additives amendment. As a result, some manufacturers have requested an extension of time and other manufacturers have felt that the product was not covered and could be used without restriction.
