The word "spoon" comes from the Anglo-Saxon "spon," meaning chip. Spoons were originally made of wood.

The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine Mayo Clinic

A Vascular Accident

A number of people write saying they have had one or more little strokes. Suddenly, one day, the person felt very dizzy or woozy, and perhaps had a numb arm for an hour or two. Ever since then he has felt miserable, slowed-up, below par, and unable to work. He says he went to his doctor and told him he had a little stroke, such as I have described many times in this column. But the patient says his doctor maintained it wasn't a "little stroke;" the doctor didn't like that term; he said the proper scientific term was a "vascular accident," or perhaps a "temporary ischemia."

DR. ALVAREZ

I am sure that in doing this, the doctor meant to be kind and wanted to reassure and encourage the patient. But, as the man says, "Even with the nicer name for my little stroke, I am still sick, and I can't work." Sometimes the taking of two tablets a day of Lipoidine will help; and often, in a few months, some of the symptoms will clear up. I am sorry there is no good medicine that will quickly repair the damage to the brain.

I dislike the love so many of us doctors have for the long, the technical, and the Greek or Latin word, when we could so easily use the ordinary Anglo-Saxon, short and well-known word. A vascular accident simply suggests that a blood vessel in the brain either ruptured or plugged-up with a clot. A temporary ischemia means that the doctor suspects that a blood vessel went into a spasm for a few minutes. Many experts are not sure that such spasms take place; and expert students of the brains removed at autopsy from persons who died from a long series of little strokes, show me these brains speckled with scores of little black spots, every one of them made by a clotted vessel. Certainly when, after a supposed "temporary ischemia," the patient is never again able to walk comfortably, I know that whatever he had—it was anything but "temporary."

To the end of my days I probably will prefer simple English speech, even when I am lecturing to a large audience of distinguished physicians. As Hemingway once said, he knew all the long words, and he knew how and where to use them; but, like me, he likes the short words better.

School News

St. Mary's High School

All through the March 19 week end, members of the newly formed "Fix-It and Run-It" club were busy constructing two tennis courts on the school grounds. Mike Duggan brought a post hole digger, set concrete supports for the posts, then welded the pipes for the nets. Bill Smith supplied and manned the compressor and paint gun for lining the courts.

Almost before the paint was dry the courts were being used.

Members of the girls' physical education class were so appreciative of the club's labors that they treated the boys to cake and ice cream. Boys were Mike Duggan, Jim Dupray, Jim Valentine, Bill Smith, Don Rausch, Bernard Boat and Don Pruitt.

On March 22, 23 and 24, two American problems students, David Hanawalt and Thomas Hersant, conducted a survey that would compare the political knowledge of Medford to that of the average American city. The boys divided Medford into two districts, the west side to be surveyed by David, and the east side to be surveyed by Tom.

Each boy visited an average of 25 families for each of the three nights making a total of 150 families visited by the two students. Each family was asked eight questions dealing with politicians, the Civil Rights bill, and Medford's views on segregation. The results of the survey were presented to the class on Thursday after each student in the class was given the same questions that were presented to the families.

The survey showed that 82 per cent of those interviewed know the mayor of Medford; 88 per cent know the governor and his party; 69 per cent remembered Senator Wayne Morse; and 52 per cent knew of the recent appointment of Justice Hall Lusk. Congressman Porter was the most widely known representative, known to 45 per cent. Mrs. Edith Green was next with 31 per cent; Walter Norblad had 15 per cent and Al Ullman had 9 per cent.

The poll showed that 54 per cent are willing to accept a Negro family into their neighborhood. Only 18 per cent were definitely against such a family; 13 per cent were undecided; and the remaining 15 per cent offered no comment.

PASS NARCOTICS BILL

Washington —(UPI)— The Senate passed and sent to the House Monday a bill designed to bring the nation's narcotics laws up to date. The measure would provide a system of licenses and manufacturing quotas on both natural and synthetic narcotics for all U.S. producers.

EXCISE TAX-EXEMPT

Washington— (UPI) —The Senate passed and sent to the White House Monday a bill exempting tires and inner tubes on new bicycles from the manufacturers' excise tax. The measure was designed to make American bicycles more competitive with foreign imports, which are not subject to the tax.

Mother, Children Perish in Flames

New York — (UPI) — A mother and two of her three children died in flames in their lower East Side tenement home Tuesday. The father and a 6-year-old son escaped with serious burns.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Maria Loperena, 30, her daughter Yvonne, 8, and infant son, Dennis, 7 months.

Juan Loperena, 28, fled down a fire escape with his son, Milton, in his arms after the rest of the family was cut off by the flames, which apparently broke out in the Loperena apartment while everyone was asleep. Both were taken to Bellevue hospital for treatment of burns.

Twenty-three other families fled the blaze, which gutted the top two floors of the six-story brick building.
