

House Passes Bill To Admit 5,000 Refugees From Europe

De Gaulle Receives Royal Welcome On First Visit To London Since War

London—(UPI)—French President Charles de Gaulle donned the old rank of his wartime Free French command and returned to his former headquarters today with a welcome fit for a king. Back in this capital city 20 years after he first arrived here as a little-known brigadier general escaping from Gaulle was given a pageantry-rich royal welcome. It was his first visit since the war and de Gaulle wore his former rank. The last time it had been different. Then, he came unknown and unhalloed. This time he was met by Queen Elizabeth, Prince Philip, Princess Margaret and other members of the royal family, as well as by Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and leaders of the government. The latest round of pre-summit consultations began just two days after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev ended a similar state visit to France.

After Khrushchev's pointed bids for Franco-Soviet accord, Britain seemed especially intent on reminding de Gaulle of the traditional "entente cordiale" ailing London and Paris. The jet plane that carried de Gaulle from Paris landed at Gatwick airport and he was brought to London by train. There, the pomp and ceremony that are almost second nature to the British took over.

An 82-gun salute boomed out from batteries at the Tower of London and Hyde Park. He inspected an honor guard at Victoria Station, and then was off on a spectacular trip through the city in an open landau.

Thousands of persons lined the route to watch the all-austere Frenchman ride in triumph through the same streets he had stalked during the war trying to restore the glory of war-shattered France.

Senate Asked To Liberalize Terms Of Immigration

Washington—(UPI)—The House has passed a bill which would admit about 5,000 refugees in European camps to this country during the next 27 months. The measure was passed Monday by voice vote and now goes to the Senate. Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Immigration Subcommittee predicted relatively few of those eligible actually would enter the United States.

Legislation Asked
President Eisenhower has asked for legislation doubling present quotas, which limit the entry of immigrants to about 150,000 a year. He also called for special legislation to admit refugees from other parts of the world, not just Europe, as the U. S. contribution to "World Refugee Year," which ends June 30.

The bill had been in the House Immigration Subcommittee for nearly a year. It was revived by Walter, its sponsor, after the President sent his message to Congress.

Called First Step
Spokesmen for the United States Committee for Refugees said in a statement the House-passed bill was an "indispensable first step" toward the refugee legislation that is needed and called on the Senate to liberalize its terms. Walter has predicted, however, that Congress would not pass other immigration legislation this year. His conservative-dominated House Rules committee could block any attempt by the Senate to liberalize the bill.

Soldier Who Turned Criminal Believed Cured by Surgery

Vacaville, Calif.—(UPI)—Former Army Maj. Victor Hungerford, 39, has been released from the state prison-hospital here, presumably a cured man after undergoing a delicate brain operation to remove a tumor.

Hungerford, a war hero who rose from private to major during World War II and was awarded Bronze and Silver stars and a Purple Heart in Korea, was released on parole after serving a year's sentence for passing bad checks. Doctors believe Hungerford's troubles began when he was knocked to the ground by a shell explosion in 1950. He was checked, pronounced all right, and returned to his company.

But Hungerford soon became a changed man. He developed headaches, felt strange and occasionally suffered amnesia.

Transferred to his home state of Washington, the major commenced to drink, went on sprees, was AWOL and had more amnesia. In 1954 he was dishonorably discharged from the Army after 18 years service and sentenced to a year in military prison for desertion and larceny.

Last year he was sentenced in California for passing bad checks.

Physicians became interested and Dr. Hal Holland, a neurosurgeon at the division of medicine and surgery at Vacaville, finally determined that Hungerford had a cyst on the left frontal lobe of his brain. It probably was started by the shell concussion, he believed.

Condition Changed
The cyst was removed and the former war hero's personality and physical condition underwent a dramatic change, said Dr. David Owens, chief of the division. Headaches disappeared, Hungerford became much more relaxed and his criminal symptoms vanished.

The hospital is sending a complete record of the unusual circumstances to Washington, D. C., suggesting Hungerford's case be reopened with a view toward changing the discharge to honorable, thus restoring his civil rights.

Hearing Held on Discrimination In Sale of House

Portland—(UPI)—A hearing before the state labor commissioner involving a charge of discrimination in sale of a house continued here today.

The action was brought by Mark A. Smith, administrator of civil rights division of the State Bureau of Labor, on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Wiley, a Negro couple.

It was brought against a group of real estate, builders and mortgage firms, whose attorneys Monday denied any discrimination.

Mrs. Wiley testified she and her husband sought to buy a home in the old Troh airport area in southeast Portland. She said she went to the site and paid $500 earnest money on a house. Later, she said, she decided on another house and the sale was arranged. Ultimately, she said, the loan was not approved by the mortgage company and the deal was off.

Cash Said Offered
She also said that at one time they offered to pay cash but that in the end no deal was made although she and her husband wanted the house.

Under cross-examination she said no one in her dealings with the sales firm showed any discrimination against her personally. Her husband was to appear today.

Appearing for those named in the complaint were Paul O'Halloran, attorney for Homemaker Sales Inc.; Edward B. Twining, attorney for Brice Mortgage Co. and Retirement Inc.; and Floyd Hamilton, attorney for Curt-Craft, Inc. and Roach Homes, Inc. Twining testified that the Wileys did not qualify for the loan in their application.

London—(UPI)—Maj. Leonard Speight, chief of seven judges sipping 4,000 bottles of soft drink to find Britain's tastiest soda pop, said Monday "when this is over, I'll be ready for a good pint of beer."

Boardman Site Could Be Expanded, Hatfield Says

Salem—(UPI)—Gov. Mark Hatfield said Monday that if necessary the proposed Boardman industrial development site in eastern Oregon could be expanded to 150,000 acres.

The state is negotiating with the federal government for exchange of land at the Boardman bombing range so the state might develop it for private industry.

The Boardman land is 96,000 acres in Morrow county. Hatfield indicated adjoining lands could be bargained for if the need arose.

Hatfield, in answer to questions put by a panel of newsmen at a Salem Chamber of Commerce luncheon, said he is certain the area will be put to use by one firm or another.

Hatfield indicated his opposition to a suggestion that part of the Oregon Cascades be made into a national park. The Sierra Club of California is behind the plan. He said multiple-use of this area is best.

The panel, moderated by

Man Vents Temper On Wife's Automobile

San Mateo, Calif.—(UPI)—Jack E. Jensen, 29, in a fit of anger after an argument with his wife, got into his car and drove headon into his wife's from a distance of 200 feet.

Then he backed across a neighbor's lawn and attacked again, this time sideswiping the parked car and nearly peeling off one side. He completed the demolition with a final attack from a distance of half a block.

When police arrived he said contentedly: "I was mad, and now I feel better."

Band Boosters Select King, Queen

Ashland—The Ashland Band Boosters' "king and queen" were to be chosen at 3:30 p.m. today, with members of the Medford High School student body council as judges.

Winning candidates will be announced at a Smorgasbord dinner in the Lincoln school, from 5 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday, after all appear and are introduced. The crowning will take place after the announcement, and the "king and queen" will become the Band Boosters' candidates for king and queen of the Medford Pear Blossom festival the week end of April 23.

Band Booster members said $775 still remains to be raised to make the $1,800 it will take to sponsor an Ashland High School band float in the Portland Rose Festival June 11. Proceeds from the Smorgasbord Thursday evening will go for that purpose. A nominal charge will be made for admission, and two service tables will be in operation to speed serving.
