

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A GROUP of veterans of the automobile industry in Detroit fell to recalling advertising slogans of some of the early makes recently. Here are 10 they dredged up. How many—or, any?—can you identify?

1. The car of a thousand speeds.
2. You don't need a rope when you ride a —
3. All that the name implies.
4. The — can do it.
5. Built like a watch.
6. Swift as lightning and sturdy as an oak.
7. America's first car in America.
9. The car ahead.
10. The silent —.

Here are the answers: 1: Metz. 2: Thomas Flyer. 3: Peerless. 4: Jewett. 5: Elgin Six. 6: Dodge. 7: Haynes. 8: Graham-Faige. 9: Pilot. 10: Knight.

Library to Request Increase Of $18,475 in 1960-61 Budget

The Public Library of Medford and Jackson county will request an increase of $18,475 in its city-county budget for the fiscal year 1960-1961.

Omar Bacon, head librarian, said the increase would be used to start improving the branch libraries to the point where they will adequately meet the reading needs of county residents.

Of the total requested budget of $87,764, the county will be asked to give $46,264 and the city of Medford $33,700. The remainder will be made up of anticipated book fee revenues, which should increase from this year's $4,200 to $5,500 next year, Bacon said.

The state has already committed itself to donate $20,000 during the coming year for the purchase of books for rural use, but this sum is not counted in the budget, he pointed out.

Present Fiscal Year
For the present fiscal year the city gave $33,229 and the county $31,860 to the total budget of $69,289.

Bacon said that more will be asked for the coming year from the county than the city because almost all of the budget increase will be used for branch libraries.

The largest single budget increase in the requested budget is an additional $12,539 for salaries, which would make the total salary outlay $57,482, Bacon said.

The majority of this salary increase would go to librarians in the system, seven branches so they would be able to work more hours per week. It is the library board's hope that the branches will be able to stay open for longer periods of time during the coming year.

Minimum Hours
The board would like each of the seven branches to stay open a minimum of 20 hours per week and those in Jacksonville and Central Point, a minimum of 30 hours per week. All seven branches are now open for an average of from 5 to 11 hours each week.

Bacon said a recent increase in use of nearly all of the branch libraries warrants expanded services if they are to meet the needs of their respective patrons.

The increase in salary outlay would also be used to hire one new employee who would work at the main library, Bacon said. This employee would be a processing clerk who will be needed to help facilitate the movement of the increased number of books which the library has been acquiring lately through both gifts and purchases.

Employs 24 Persons
The library presently employ a total of 24 persons, of which four are students and nine are part-time branch employees.

A smaller budget increase will be asked for travel expenses. This increase would raise the total allotment for travel from $100 to $800. Bacon said it would enable main library employees to visit the branches once a week instead of once a month as is being done at present.

More frequent visits have become necessary, Bacon said, because library patrons are now permitted to return books to any library in the system, whereas until a few months ago, they had to return them to the same library from which they were borrowed.

This change has meant that library employees have had to distribute books, pick up used ones and take branch requests more often than before, he said.

Increased Purchase
The library board also plans to ask the city and county for a $1,500 increase in funds to be used for the purchase of books bringing the total allotment for this purpose to $10,000. The increase would mean an estimated 3,600 new books could be purchased during the year, not counting the 7,500 books which will be purchased for branch libraries with the $20,000 state grant.

Bacon pointed out that books, both new and old, do not usually remain in one particular library in the city-county system, but are constantly recirculated among all the libraries so that patrons of each will have the opportunity to read them.

The budget increase for books would not come from new monies, according to Bacon, but would be a transfer from an $1,800 budget item which has been used to rent books.

Abandon Rental Item
The library board plans to abandon this rental item because they have found that most of the books rented are eventually purchased by the library in the long run, and therefore they feel it would be more economical to buy them in the first place.

Another requested budget increase will be $2,300 for equipment. Bacon said the funds would be used: to purchase two signs for the main library so persons will be able to recognize it easier; to purchase and install a drive-in book return on the parking strip in front of the main library and to purchase a mimeograph machine, a calculator machine, two desks and a typewriter, all for use in the main library.

In addition to these they would purchase two large and several smaller filing cabinets, which, Bacon said, are needed in several of the branch libraries.

Penalties for Tree Damage Are Noted

With the advent of spring weather, Chief of Police Charles P. Champlin reminded Medford residents that penalties for damaging trees in the city can go as high as 50 days in jail and a $100 fine.

Champlin recalled that last spring police received numerous reports of malicious destruction to the downtown potted trees planted by the Medford street tree committee.

Although there have been few cases of damage to the trees reported so far this year, he said, the good weather could bring an increase in this vandalism.

He said there are two charges that can be brought against someone caught damaging the trees. They are disorderly conduct and the malicious destruction of property.

Ashland Metal Works Articles Filed for

Ashland - Articles of incorporation were filed in Salem this week for Tolliver Sheet Metal Works, located at 764 Oak St., Ashland. The articles were signed by E. G. Tischhauser, accountant, and Sidney E. Ainsworth and Sam B. Davis, attorneys.

Howard A. Tolliver will manage the firm, Davis said, and his wife, Nellie A. Tolliver, is the principal stockholder. The firm will begin operations immediately.

$306 Taken from Local Bargain Store

A burglar broke into the Home Appliance Bargain Store, 301 South Front st., Monday night and took an estimated $306, according to Medford city police. Entry to the store was gained through a skylight in the

Summer World Affairs Program Is Outlined

Eugene - Latin America, Western Europe, and South Asia will be featured at the Summer World Affairs Program at the University of Oregon between June 20 and July 15.

The program, of special interest to teachers and community leaders, is designed to acquaint students with the culture, society and development of foreign areas.

The emphasis upon Latin America is indicated by two seminar schedules. Gene Martin, assistant professor of geography at the University of Oregon, will give a seminar on the major problems of Latin America with emphasis on contemporary problems related to economic and social changes. A. M. Espinoza Jr., of Stanford University, will conduct a seminar on Latin-American culture and civilization.

Kenneth Lindsay, visiting professor of political science at the University of Oregon, will conduct a seminar on Western Europe. Lindsay has long been active in the British Parliament and in the European integration movement. Until recently he was Director of the Hague Conference on European Assemblies and is the author of many books on European integration.

Leo E. Rose of the University of California will handle the seminar on South Asia, which will be primarily concerned with India. Rose has spent many years in the Far East and has written extensively in his special field.

The Summer World Affairs Program, a part of the university summer session, is sponsored by the Institute of International Studies and Overseas Administration.

Local Man Picked Up On Check Charge

Medford police arrested Dennis William Smith, 29, of 717 West Jackson st., Medford, yesterday on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. He was confined in the city jail.

He admitted cashing the checks, police said. He is already on a six months district court bench parole for cashing bad checks in Jackson county last January, according to police.
