

School Children To Participate in Forest Land Tours

Corvallis—Oregon's forests will become classrooms for thousands of youngsters during the annual school forestry tours in nine counties this spring. Ten more counties will hold tours in the fall.

The school children, mostly sixth graders, will visit forest management demonstration areas to see and study modern forestry practices.

The following counties will hold spring tours: Columbia, May 3; Coos, May 4, 5, and 6; Curry, May 4, east Lane, April 26, 27, and 28; west Lane, April 22; Linn, May 3 and 4; Marion, date not set; Multnomah, date not set; Tillamook, April 12; and Union, date not set.

All tours will be held in Benton, Clackamas, Clatsop, Grant, Jackson, Josephine, Lincoln, Polk, Umatilla, and Washington counties.

Adults interested in learning more about Oregon's forests are also invited to tour the sites. Details on times and places may be obtained from county extension agents.

Participation Increases

Participation in the tours has increased steadily since the first one in 1956. Gary Sander, Oregon State college extension forest products marketing specialist, reported, "Some 8,000 students went on the tours last year, and he expects the number to exceed 12,000 this year."

The two-hour tours give the youngsters opportunity to learn about fire prevention and control, pre-commercial thinning and pruning, Christmas tree production, seeds and tree planting, tree identification, 4-H forestry, soils, commercial thinning and forest products marketing.

Instructors include men from the state forestry department, timber and pulp companies, United States forest service, Soil Conservation Service, OSG extension service, Industrial Forestry association, bureau of land management, OSG school of forestry, and local woodland owners.

SOC Senior Wins Danforth Fellowship

Ashland—Robert DeVon, Southern Oregon college senior from Medford, has been awarded a Danforth Graduate Fellowship. Dr. Clifford Miller, professor of history, and SOC liaison officer for the fellowship program has announced.

The one-year appointments are given annually to approximately 100 men from throughout the United States, with the expectation of annual renewal through the years of graduate study. Selection, from students who are preparing for college teaching, is made on the basis of outstanding academic ability, personal congeniality to the classroom, integrity and character, including a serious inquiry within the Christian tradition.

De Von will receive his bachelor's degree in education in June, 1960, and plans to use the Danforth Fellowship to continue his study of the humanities at the University of California, Berkeley.

Wall Street Chatter

New York—The investment advisory services, rarely noted for their uniformity of opinion, disagree strongly on the probable course of the stock market.

Examples of the diversity: "Irregularity is likely near term, but a more persistent sustained rise should follow by summer or sooner" United Business Service.

"This looks like a swing in the midst of an uneven trend toward lower valuations in the market" Moody's Stock Survey.

"Continued pressure in key investment grade stocks of yesterday and the extremely small list of singularly strong issues, should have a profound effect on the bearish pattern developing in leading averages" Stock Trend Service.

W. F. Hutton & Co. calls Lionel Corp. a special situation that has been gaining quite a few followers. "One cannot help but be impressed," it says, "when reading Lionel's annual report which discloses about 20 new research projects in the works."

EXCHANGE MEMBER DIES

Little Silver, N.J.—Dr. William Brewster, 81, holder of the third oldest seat on the New York Stock Exchange and a former member of the Exchange Board of Governors, died Tuesday.

Duck Population Decline Reported In Winter Survey

Washington, (Science Service)—The total North American duck population this year is 20 per cent below what it was last year, the Department of Interior reports.

The information is based on the annual winter survey made by Interior's Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife. It includes the continent's four major flyways, or established air routes of migratory birds, the Pacific, Central, Mississippi and Atlantic Flyways.

The survey showed that in general the Arctic nesters, which were not affected by prolonged drought, were present in their usual numbers but that the prairie nesting waterfowl, which had been hit hard by three successive dry years, were in short supply.

1959 Poor Year

Those species reported to have "held their own" or to have "increased slightly" are not necessarily in good shape, however, because 1959 was one of the very poor years for migratory waterfowl.

The redhead population dropped 73 per cent below an already low 1959 level. Two other diving ducks, the canvasback and the leucypterus, were down 28 per cent and 16 per cent respectively. Other species showing decreases were mallards, down 22 per cent; greenwinged teal, down 32 per cent; bluewinged teal, down 44 per cent, and pintails, down 27 per cent.

The black duck population was not sufficiently high to get out of the "same as last year" category but wood ducks were up per cent.

Snow Geese Up

Canada goose numbers were slightly down but snow geese were up 13 per cent and the whitefronts up 10 per cent. Brant numbers were up 100 per cent on the Pacific coast and up 10 per cent on the Atlantic coast. All other species of migratory waterfowl retained their numbers of last year.

A total of 1,891 persons throughout North America registered 100,027 miles by air, 106,980 miles by car and 4,047 miles by boat.

Four Cars Crash in Dealer's Showroom

Syracuse, N.Y.—Police reported that a four-car accident occurred in the middle of a local automobile dealer's showroom.

Glenn Burdick, owner of the agency, said a mechanic was working under the hood of a car parked in front of the showroom.

The mechanic apparently crossed the starting wires and the car, parked to reverse, bolted through a plate glass window and into the other three cars.

Damage was estimated at $1,000. There were no injuries.

Churchgoer's Check Bounces Right Back

Huntington, W. Va.—"Mister, I sure would like to contribute to the offering but all I have is this $23 check," said a stranger plaintively to a church usher.

The usher obligingly accepted the check and handed the stranger $18 change from the collection plate.

The check bounced.
