

Champion Will Keep His Putter

(Editors Note - Arnold Palmer won the Masters golf championship Sunday by sinking birdie putts on the final two holes. He describes how he won it in the following exclusive dispatch for United Press International.)

By ARNOLD PALMER
1960 Masters Champion
(As Told to UPI)

Augusta, Ga. - UPI - I take it back - I'm going to keep that putter of mine after all. After the third round when I took 33 putts, I was thinking about giving it away. No chance of that now. I'm quite satisfied with it, thank you.

My putting wasn't what you would call sensational in the final round, but those holes on the 17th and 18th holes made up for all the rest.

I think I looked at every scorebook on the course. By the time I got to the 14th I knew Ken Venturi already was in with a 283. I remember sighing with a bit of relief that he hadn't birdied any more holes than he did.

Probably the best break I got was when my long putt hit the pin on the 16th hole. I got my par on that hole and after my putt hit the pin, Billy Casper, who was playing with me, laughed and said, "Jeez, Arnie, you would've had a helluva put out of that trap on the other side."

That putt I made on the 17th got me well again. I didn't stop to measure it but I know it was around 30 feet, maybe a little more.

Thought of Birdie
Now I was all tied with Venturi. When I stepped on the 18th tee my first concern was to get a par. Naturally, I gave some thought to a birdie also.

I was rather careful with my drive. If anything, I made up my mind to go to the left where there is no trouble, rather than to the right where those trees can tangle you up. My tee shot was good and I then used a six-iron that left me about six feet from the cup.

Sure, I was a little nervous. I felt the tension. The putt was slightly uphill and I looked it over carefully. Man, I can't tell you how good it felt when I saw that Wilson Staff ball of mine rattle around down in the cup.

I've heard it said that once you win a championship for the first time, the second one is sort of anticlimactic. You can't prove it with me. Winning my second Masters title gave me just as much of a thrill as the first one.

I think I'll take a little rest now and I may pick up the tournament again in New Orleans. If not, I'll definitely play in Houston.

Right now, I just want to think about those last two holes awhile.

College Boxer Fights for Life

Madison, Wis. - UPI - San Jose State came from behind to capture five individual titles and win the NCAA boxing championship for the third straight year Saturday, beating host Wisconsin, 43-34.

Madison, Wis. - UPI - Priests, students and fellow athletes maintained a somber hospital vigil today when Charlie Mohr, of the University of Wisconsin, who hampered his way to an NCAA boxing title a year ago, fought for his life.

He remained in critical condition with a brain injury suffered in Saturday night's NCAA tournament finals here. Mohr suffered a massive brain hemorrhage.

Mohr's parents arrived from Merrick, N.Y., Sunday to join the young boxer's two sisters at his bedside. The sisters, Joan and Carol, moved to Madison recently to be near their brother.

Mohr, a 22-year-old Wisconsin senior, was knocked out by Stu Bartell of San Jose State in their championship bout at 165 pounds Saturday night.

Palmer Masters Winner With Championship Finish

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

Augusta, Ga. - UPI - It took a championship finish to do it and Arnold Palmer, who had been scrambling all day, was up to it, so he won the 1960 Masters golf tournament.

His victory wasn't easy. Going to the 17th hole, he was trailing Ken Venturi, sitting in a room adjoining the Augusta National golf course, by one stroke. Venturi, for nearly an hour had been accepting congratulations as the winner and as he said, "My jacket sure looked mighty green."

But then Palmer sank a 30-foot birdie putt on the 17th green, which meant he needed a birdie on the 18th to win, a par to tie.

"When he sank that putt on the 17th," said Venturi, "my jacket started turning from green to its natural color-gray."

A green jacket goes to the Masters winner and Palmer got his second one when he put his six iron second shot on the 18th hole six feet off the pin and sank the putt.

It was even a more dramatic finish than last year when Art Wall birdied five of the last six holes to win it.

"I thought I did a pretty good job," said Wall, who had to sit this one out because of injuries and illness, "but for drama I'll take what Arnie did yesterday."

"He came through under pressure - championship pressure. And only a champion can do that."

Even the down-hearted Venturi agreed.

"There's only one thing I like about it," Venturi smiled through his disappointment. "I blew this tournament in 1956 as an amateur, when I was a kid and didn't know my way around.

"I didn't blow this one. A guy simply beat me. My hat's off to him."

That back nine cost Venturi again. In 1956, he soared to a 42 - six over par - on it in the final round and lost the championship to Jackie Burke by one stroke. Sunday he shot it in a 37, but it wasn't good enough.

In all, Venturi took 151 strokes to negotiate the back nine on the four rounds of the Masters. Palmer took only 141. On the front nine, Venturi had a total of 132 strokes, Palmer 145.

Palmer, who picked up $17,500 for his triumph, had been scrambling all day. He was in all kinds of trouble, but somehow managed to stay in the running.

Palmer, who won his first Masters in 1958, was only the second golfer in history to win the tournament by leading all the way. The only other one who did it was Craig Wood in 1941.

His first prize money brought his 1960 money winnings to $44,200. His putter was the payoff. He had a total of 119 putts - 29 of them Sunday.

Venturi received $10,500 for his heart-breaking second and Finsterwald $7,000 for his third place finish.

Palmer carded a final round two under par 36-34-70 for a total of 282 - two strokes less than he shot when he won it in 1958. Venturi had a 33-37-70 for 283 and Finsterwald 34-37-71 for 284.

U.S. Open champion Billy Casper, the Master putter, lost his touch on the greens and finished with a two over par 74, good for fourth place and $5,250.

Ben Hogan slipped to a three over par 76, which tied him for sixth place at 289 with Walter Burkemo and Gary Player. Boros carded a 75 which gave him fifth place with a total of 288.

Sammy Snead, second choice to Palmer before the tourney started, shot a 73 for a total of 292. Another favorite, Mike Souchak, shot a 75 for 294.

U.S. Amateur champion Jack Nicklaus and Billy Joe Patton, who nearly won this tournament in 1954, tied for low amateur honors with aggregates of 293.

Zunker One Pin Short Of Leader

Toledo, O. - UPI - A 32-year-old Industrial Engineer from La Crosse, Wis. and two pin-plattering teams from Pennsylvania and Illinois shot new life into the American Bowling congress tournament here yesterday.

With the standings remaining fixed for days, Howie Zunker cracked out a second place in the singles as he rolled a 725-series, only one pin short of the leader.

And Preate Furniture club of Old Forge, Pa. rolled a 3,023 for seventh place in the open team standings and the John Plodzien Florals team of Chicago rolled a 3,012 total for ninth place.

This was only the second time in the first 37 days of the 79-day bowling marathon that two teams had cracked 3,000 on the same day.

It appeared that Zunker was going to oust Paul Kulbaga of Cleveland as the top singles man but ran into trouble in his final game.

278 Game
Zunker, no relation to the ABC hall of famer Gil Zunker, opened up with games of 235 and 212 and was working on a string of nine strikes in his last game. If he struck out it would have given him a 727 pin count and the lead. But the six pin hung and Zunker converted for a spare and a 278 game, one pin shy of a tie and two short of the lead.

Joseph Menzozpane Sr. and Joseph Jr., a father-son doubles team from Middletown, N.J. set a tournament mark with a 502 doubles game, the highest two-man effort in the tournament to date. But the Menzozpanes were unable to break into the top five in doubles standings as they bowled other games of 344, and 351 for a 1,098 total.

Captain Joe Merli paced the Preate Furniture team with a 693 series while Captain Larry Claeys was also high for the Chicago quintet with a 636.
