

Benefits Denied Two at Hearings

Salem - (UPB) - The State Employment Department has denied unemployment benefits to a sawmill worker who took a trip East thinking he had been fired.

The Department's appeals board said the man had been ill for a week, returned, found his time card gone, assumed he had been fired and took the trip. The board said he should have consulted his employer; as it turned out, he had not been fired.

In another case, benefits were denied a lumber worker who quit because his foreman would not recommend him for a better job. The board said he had not shown a good cause for quitting.

Portland - (UPB) - The appointment of Dr. Walter Dyke, director of Linfield Research Institute at McMinnville, as chairman of the Science and New Technologies Committee of the State Department of Planning and Development has been announced.

Porter Poll Shows Dunes Opposition Not Too Strong

By A. ROBERT SMITH

Washington (Special) - A heavy majority of property owners in the Oregon Dunes area are not strongly opposed to creation of a national seashore park, Rep. Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.) has concluded from a poll of these residents.

From 398 questionnaires mailed to the property owners in the area proposed for inclusion in the Richard L. Neuberger National Seashore, only about one third sent

Russia Asked To Agree on Weapons

Geneva - (UPB) - The West has called on the Soviet Union to agree to an early cut-off of nuclear weapons production under international control and to start converting existing nuclear warheads for peaceful uses.

Chief American delegate Frederick Eaton termed "irresponsible" the Soviet counter-proposal that the nuclear powers merely pledge "never to be the first to use the atomic bomb."

The 10-national committee met for 2½ hours in the last session before the Easter recess. It was the 23rd session since the talks began March 15.

Relatives had estimated the estate at $4 million.

Frelinghuysen said the money will be held in trust until Joannah is 25. Until then, she will get what the money earns through investment. He estimated her annual income from the estate would be $40,000 to $50,000. The estate includes jewels and stocks.

Mrs. Whitney, the former Florence Dillon Wyckoff, was heiress to a railroad fortune. Her late husband was a stock broker, former state senator and Republican candidate for governor in 1925.

back replies conveying their sentiments on the park idea.

"It seems apparent that two-thirds have no strong feelings about the park either pro or con," Porter observed.

Of the one third who did reply, 85 said they opposed the seashore idea and 47 said they favored it, although 11 had some reservations which would have to be met to win their approval.

"Vociferous Minority" - The Western Lane Taxpayers Association, which has been a vocal opposition group located at Florence, amounts to a "vociferous minority," the Oregon congressman concluded.

"I found in going over the questionnaires that many who opposed the park listed what they felt were needed changes in the bill, such as 'ample money appropriated to purchase all private property required for the area and a new formula for life tenure.' I welcomed these ideas," Porter said.

"Many opposing the park as now proposed said they would withdraw their opposition if the park boundaries would include only the sand dunes west of Highway 101, excluding homesites and farm lands as now proposed," he noted.

"The primary objection to the park as proposed seems to center around the feeling of some property owners that they would not receive fair consideration," said Porter. "I don't think this will prove to be so. I think we can enact a piece of park legislation which will be generally acceptable and advantageous for years to come to the ma-majority both inside and outside the proposed park area."

A perusal of the returned questionnaires revealed a number of residents said they would be willing for the park to be established if the price is right. On the other hand, those dead set against it minced no words.

A "preposterous, idiotic idea," said a Gardiner resident. "You have had your say for awhile, but at the next election we can have ours," said a Westlake property owner to his congressman.

A Florence man said his comments could only be "written on asbestos." But another property owner of that city said: "In my opinion the majority of the loud protests seem to come from people who I know to be considered crackpots. There are many people who are in favor of the park, I am sure, but they would hesitate to publicly say so. I want you to know I think it is a wonderful thing and I commend your stand on it in the face of criticism."

Wants Fair Price - A couple in their fifties living at Florence who bought their property last year replied: "As long as we would get a fair price for our land and could live out our lives on it, I see no reason why the park shouldn't go in."

A Gardiner man who said he lived there for 50 years and owned more land in the proposed park area than any other individual said he favored the national seashore because "I realize the value it would be to this community." Porter said the answers contained many good suggestions. "Land tenure will be spelled out clearly. I have inquired to see what will be done if houses are built or enlarged or businesses erected after the date of enactment," he added.

Porter has said his bill is open to any changes that will help make the seashore a

College Girl Who Was War Refugee Inherits Fortune

Morristown, N. J. (UPB) - Pretty Joannah Clapton arrived in the United States during World War II as a forlorn infant refugee from Germany's bombing of London.

Today at 21, she is heiress to an estate estimated at from $1 million to nearly $4 million, left by the wealthy foster mother who came to love Joannah as her own child.

The girl whose full name is Joannah Felicity Touchet Clapton, secluded herself to day to escape publicity and curiosity-seekers who descended on her when her legacy became known.

Gets Estate, Servants - A senior at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N. Y., Joannah received the bequest from Mrs. Arthur Whitney of Mendham Township. Mrs. Whitney, who died in February at the age of 82, left Joannah a 115-acre estate, called Pleasant Valley Mills. A 20-room mansion, four cottages and seven servants to go with it.

Frederick Frelinghuysen of Newark, attorney for the estate, said Joannah will have access to a $250,000 emergency fund in addition to the other bequests, if her income is not sufficient to meet her needs.

As for the estate, "the amount she will get the income from, would be much nearer one million than four million after taxes and expenses," Frelinghuysen said.
