California Said Nearing End Of 12-Year Battle With Smog

Los Angeles—UPI—California, armed with legislation, a technical breakthrough and a promise of strict enforcement, is nearing the end of its 12-year battle with smog, say the air pollution experts.

"If everything goes as it now looks like it will," said Paul Grimes of the Los Angeles Air Pollution Control District, "it should be about four years before we whip smog. Smog and the accompanying eye irritation then would be a rarity here."

Not only Los Angeles, but most of the larger cities in the country would benefit, according to these experts, who say almost any large urban area will have air pollution problems as the number of cars increases.

Official studies show that almost 600 tons of unburned gases a day are released in the air in Los Angeles alone from cars and trucks. Autos are the last remaining cause of air pollution, the APCD says, since industry is using cleaner fuels, filters and new methods to cut down on the amount of industrial pollution in the air.

Breakthrough
The technical breakthrough that makes that four-year estimate seem valid, Grimes said, came from UCLA researchers who found a way to oxidize 90 per cent of the oxides of nitrogen from exhausts.

The APCD said the nitrogen oxides react with the unburned hydrocarbons in the air, which also come from cars, and form ozone.

Ozone, according to the APCD, causes gases that produce eye-irritating smog, damage vegetation, cracks rubber, and irritates the linings of the nose and throat.

The UCLA device to be effective will have to be used in conjunction with an approved afterburner or muffler in the air.

Gardens Developed
Memory Gardens was established in 1954 by Ferris and Carroll W. Smith, who is now president of the corporation. Since it was established, six gardens have been developed, four with a central memorial.

"The Last Supper" memorial has been visited by more than 10,000 persons, Ferris said, including youth groups from several valley Sunday School classes and churches.

A mausoleum is nearing completion, he said. The next major development at Memory Gardens, he added, will be construction of a museum to house items of interest which have played a part in the development and settlement of southern Oregon. Special emphasis will be placed on items that will relate the progress of the valley, and will be a memorial to those who contributed most to that progress, Ferris said.

Ferris, a native of Utah who received his education in Salt Lake City and Long Beach, Calif., moved to Medford in 1950 from Santa Rosa, Calif. He operated a business here until 1954, when he became associated with Smith and organized Memory Gardens.

Special Easter music is planned at Memory Gardens between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. Sunday, Ferris said.

Rock Exhibit to Aid Building Fund
Eagle Point—John T. Ross, 1522 Minear rd., Medford, will exhibit his collection of fluorescent rocks at the Eagle Point Grange hall, Saturday, April 16, following a potluck supper at 7:30 p.m.

Shown in major West coast cities, the collection of transparent and rare Iris or Rainbow agates was 25 years in the building. No admission charge.

A freewill offering will be taken for the Seventh-day Adventist church building fund. The public is invited to attend.

GUEST SPEAKER
Elder Harry Ruehberber, Grants Pass, will speak for the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday at Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Tenth and Ivy sts. Following the service a potluck luncheon will be served in the church annex.

EASTER BASKETS
The members of the Salvation Army Home Leagues are preparing an estimated 300 baskets for distribution at the various area hospitals, rest homes, and other institutions. Each member will receive one of the Easter baskets.

ler that would take out most of the hydrocarbons and burn excess gasoline not consumed in the engine.

Its costs would be roughly $15 per car. By injecting cool air the device would make the engine run cooler and produce a more complete combustion of nitrogen, it was said.

The California Highway Patrol is ticketing cars and trucks that are emitting enough exhaust that can be seen. Some 7,000 citations for excess exhaust were given out last month, mostly to trucks.

Lt. R. D. Millican of the patrol has begun testing devices to determine the amount of exhaust gases being emitted. He said enforcement of a bill passed by the legislature recently would be a major problem, but not insurmountable if the lawmakers would put a policing statute on the books.

The law calls for all new cars sold in California to be equipped with anti-smog devices by 1961. All cars and trucks in the state would have to have such equipment two years afterward.

The Detroit automakers have been consulted by the state and also are working to find an effective, and inexpensive way of curbing exhausts. They have said they could install the devices, whether their own or someone else's, on the new autos without any trouble.

"If this all comes to pass our eye-irritating haze will become a rarity, happening only where there are very rare adverse meteorological conditions. The APCD then probably will become a small policing group, we'll have worked our way right out of a job," Grimes said.

Open House Planned At Memory Gardens

Open house will be held today, Saturday and Sunday at Memory Gardens Memorial park, where Memory Garden Mortuary will officially open tomorrow, William S. Ferris, general manager, has announced.

The new mortuary, which will be managed by Richard Frey, will be known as "The Chapel of Memories."

Open house at Memory Gardens will continue until 10 o'clock tonight, and is scheduled between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. tomorrow and Sunday, Ferris said.

Opening of the mortuary, Ferris said, now makes available complete funeral and cemetery services in one location and under one management at Memory Gardens.
