

Senior Citizens in Area Plan Events for Week Observance

The Senior Citizens Week committee of the Rogue Valley Council on Aging Saturday discussed events for Senior Citizens Week next month.

The committee, headed by Edward Eick, 1215 East Ninth st., Medford, was named by Eick recently to plan events for the enjoyment of senior citizens and to honor them for their contributions to the growth of the area.

Clubs, churches, lodges and other organizations such as Granges will be asked to single out their own senior members for special consideration during May, which will be observed nationwide as Senior Citizens Month.

Members of the committee include Mrs. C. D. Thatcher, Center committee; John Gribble, secretary of the council; Mrs. Rilla Norris, president of the 50 Plus club; Mrs. Jud Greenman, Council of Church Women; Roscoe Roberts, Pomona Grange; Mrs. Rita Holmes, White City 50 Plus club, and coordinator of senior clubs; the Rev. R. H. Mathewson, ministerial association; Mrs. Edith Eden, Medford, park commission; Mrs. A. O. Floyd, Medford Garden club; Walter Hatch, Dr. Frank Roberts, Mrs. Fred Rankin of the recreation committee, and Mrs. Amanda Farris of the Ashland Sororist club.

Another committee of the council has been considering an application to the Ford Foundation for a grant. The Ford Foundation has designated $300,000 for a series of community organization experiments to improve or develop new programs for elderly people.

Eight different types of communities will be selected to receive grants after applications are screened by a committee headed by Miss Ollie Randall, vice chairman of the National Committee on Aging.

The local committee to present the application is headed by Mrs. Chester Guches, and includes Omar Bacon, William Hoxie, Mrs. Rankin and Frank Glonning.

The council outlined the greatest benefit to be secured for senior citizens by use of the grant would be to conduct a survey of the county to determine the need of low cost housing for both able bodied and those elderly persons who need nursing care. The survey could also determine other health needs, which would substantiate the belief of the council that recreation centers help elderly persons to remain ablebodied.

One of the determining factors for receiving the grant, council representatives said, may be the increasing number of retired persons in this area. According to social security records, there are now 6,476 persons receiving old age and survivors insurance or social security. This is a 20 per cent increase over last year, according to council representatives, and is almost 10 per cent of the population.

The council's executive board also has been discussing the Senior Activity Center, which was started in October, 1958, as a pilot program experiment. Continued use of the Center has proved its popularity, council members said.

The building is too small, they said, to accommodate more than 25 persons seated, and less than that when they are engaged in an activity such as painting, carving, dancing or playing in an orchestra.

The council noted that 2,752 persons have used the Center since it opened, with the number using it each month increasing. A drive for a larger center on the same location is being considered, council members noted.

Medford Youth to Get Danforth Fund

St. Louis—Robert Carl DeVoe, 823 Pennsylvania st., Medford, is one of 102 college seniors to receive an appointment as a Danforth graduate fellow, according to Kenneth I. Brown, executive director.

DeVoe was one of the group appointed out of 804 candidates nominated to the foundation by over 400 undergraduate colleges.

The appointment is given to young men who are preparing for college teaching in the subject matter field of their interest. They are expected to matriculate at the graduate school of their own choosing and continue on to their doctorate.

DeVoe will receive financial assistance (augmenting any other fellowships and his own resources) through to the completion of his doctor's degree, up to an annual maximum grant of $1,500 plus tuition and fees required of all graduate students, for a single man; and $2,000 plus tuition and fees required of all graduate students, plus an additional $500 for each child for the married man.

The Danforth graduate fellowships were established in 1951. About 80 of the fellows in the early classes have received their doctor's degree.
