

Out on a Limb

By BOB WALTERS

Viewpoint

Writing a news story often is a matter of viewpoint. Usually the writer's style fits the story and the copy slips smoothly into its own particular section of the newspaper.

But let's suppose a few reporters, each with his or her own viewpoint, were assigned to cover the same story. We'll make it a sports story. Ordinarily it would read something like this:

San Francisco—Sam (Toothpick) Jones gave up only one hit, a pinch-hit home run to Walt Moryn in the eighth inning, to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 win over the Chicago Cubs here today.

Et cetera.

Now, here's the same yarn as it might be reported by a society writer:

San Francisco—Samuel T. Jones, a man who is very kind to his mother, gave a superb performance in a baseball contest here this afternoon when his team, representing the city of San Francisco, encountered a sporting group from Chicago.

Mr. Jones, his uniform neatly pressed and his cap perched jauntily atop his head, did seem to have one rather slovenly habit, however. He habitually chewed on a somewhat dirty toothpick. It also seemed that Mr. Jones, a former resident of Chicago who now resides in San Francisco, had not taken time to shave before the contest started.

Next we turn to the editorial writer's version:

San Francisco—Sam Jones won a baseball game for his team, the Giants, here today and proved once again that baseball is indeed the national pastime.

Baseball is not limited to professional teams. This wonderful sport is played in grade schools, high schools, colleges and on the streets of New York City. Which brings us to a vast problem facing our entire society.

Those children in New York need more baseball fields, so that they will not have to play in the streets. Lives are lost each year because unthinking motorists careen across these downtown infields and end the careers of numerous young men who might have achieved greatness in the major leagues. Citizens, hear me out!

Also on hand at the game was a church reporter:

San Francisco—Baseball pitcher Samuel Jones' fine performance in a contest here today was marred by an incident which occurred in the eighth inning.

Mr. Jones had thrown a ball to Mr. Walter Moryn. When Mr. Moryn hit what is called a "homer," Mr. Jones uttered a profanity which shocked everyone within hearing distance. Apparently this was the only safe hit given up by Mr. Jones during the game, but that certainly was no excuse for forgetting one's manners and Christian upbringing while performing before the American public.

We hope, Mr. Jones, that you will search your soul before you ever say "Shucks" again.

Last comes a story from The Cautious Reporter, the man who is so accustomed to attributing statements to official sources that he occasionally becomes too confused to write the basic facts:

San Francisco—Sam Jones, reportedly a pitcher for the San Francisco Giants, surrendered only one hit, according to a highly reliable source, when the Giants won, it was announced by Manager Bill Rigney, a baseball game from the Chicago team, allegedly known as the Cubs, it was announced here today.

The source confirmed that today was indeed today, he said, adding that tomorrow, barring unforeseen occurrences, probably will be tomorrow, he claimed.

Officials said, pointed out, cited the fact and stated that Jones' victory was his second this year, they stated and added, and that the pitcher reportedly has not lost a game, they asserted and claimed.

The score reportedly was 6-1 but, officials said, this is not official, they added, since a certified public accountant had not as yet checked the scorebook, they noted.

All in all, though, it certainly would be a dull world if we all had the same viewpoint, wouldn't it?

Canvassing Slated To Collect Funds For EP Building

Week-ends Spent on Construction Work

By DOTTIE HARBISON
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Eagle Point—Completion of the residential canvassing will get under way here this week in hopes of obtaining sufficient funds to complete the Scout Community Center building this summer.

More financial aid is needed to buy the remainder of the blocks and mortar needed for the building. All the lumber needed has been donated and the committee hopes to obtain enough money to complete the building structure as it was decided not to float a loan for the project.

Last week-end crews worked all day last Saturday and Sunday with the largest portion of the basement and supply room being constructed. A special meeting was called and 1,000 bricks ordered to complete the basement and start construction of the main building.

Saturday morning at 8 a.m., persons wishing to help with the construction are asked to meet at the building, according to General Chairman Harry Hanscom. Hanscom asked that his appreciation to the group who worked last week end and to the wives who furnished the potluck dinner at noon be expressed and that all wives of men working and their families be invited to bring potluck and join the crew in lunch at 12:30 p.m. this Saturday.

The lower part of the park from the entrance to the new building has been cleared of poison oak, leveled, disked and the ditch dug for laying the water pipe completed. This should be completed by the end of the week and water available for use. Anyone interested in planting shrubs is asked to contact Donald Kimmel, who is in charge of the park grounds at this time. It is hoped to have grass planted on the lower park area very soon.

Tentative meeting dates have been set up for the park and building committee for the second and fourth Monday nights of each month at 8 p.m. Anyone interested, either as an organizational representative or as an individual, is asked to attend the next meeting, which will be held at the home of Ed Kimmel on South B st. All previous canvass committees also are asked to report at that time.

Community Club To Elect Officers

Phoenix—Three persons have agreed to be nominated as officer candidates for the Phoenix Community club elections set for 7:30 this evening in the clubhouse, according to Mrs. Ed Howard, chairman of the nominations committee.

Those who have agreed to nominations are Bill Rombach, president; Mrs. George McRay, secretary; and Mrs. J. D. Lubbers, treasurer.

Also scheduled tentatively for discussion is a summer recreation program, a possible year-round recreation program and installation of a new wood floor in the main room of the clubhouse.

All persons interested in helping with the community club who live in the Phoenix area are invited to attend tonight's meeting. Official delegates to the board of governors are asked to call substitutes if they are unable to attend. Representatives of the community's churches are particularly urged to come.

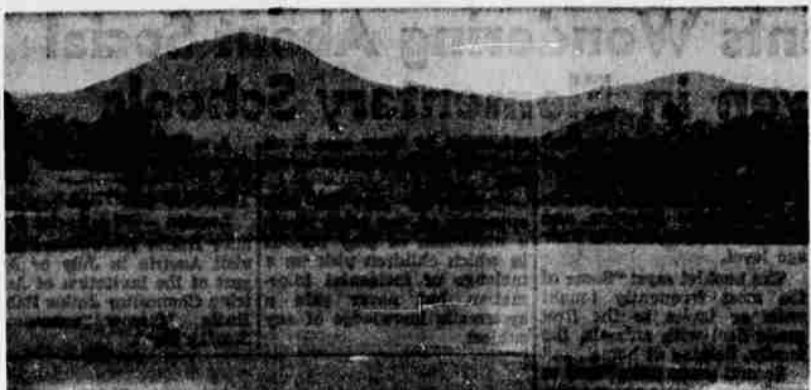

Following the election and installation of officers refreshments will be served in the clubhouse.

Burning Permits Required in Siskiyou

Hornbrook—Burning permits have been required in Siskiyou county since April 15, according to Ranger Roy Bengard of the California State Division of Forestry.

Permits are required by California state law until Dec. 1 as a fire prevention measure. Local residents may obtain permits from the Hornbrook division of forestry fire station, located on the hill across Highway 99 from the Henley Way motel.

"Now is the time to burn all trash and brush," Ranger Bengard stated, adding that the "state would like all property owners to get their premises cleaned prior to the beginning of the fire season."

IRRIGATION LAKE—This irrigation lake, located on Rob Cummins' ranch near Hornbrook, was formed last year when the soil conservation service built an earth-fill dam for that purpose. Cost of building the dam was shared equally by Cummins and the soil conservation service. The lake, with a capacity of 20 acre feet, also is used for boating by Cummins' grandson Loren and his friends. At left in background is Black Mountain. —(Photo by Katherine Chapman)

Annual 'Historical Trek' Set For Jacksonville on Saturday

By BETTE HOSKINS
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Jacksonville—Jacksonville's Odd Fellows lodge No. 10, instituted in 1953 and officially named Oregon's historical Shrine lodge in 1955, each year holds an "Historical Trek," usually on the third Saturday of each April. This year, because of Easter, the event will be held this Saturday.

At 4:30, there will be a tour of the town and visits to historical points. From 1:30 to 4:30, while lodge is in session, entertainment for the women will be provided by Noble Grands of the district in the IOOF hall. At 5:30 p.m. a fried chicken banquet will be held in the IOOF dining room.

The evening program, also being held at the Community hall, will be called to order for entertainment at 8 p.m. with Ellsworth J. Robinson, grand warden, serving as master of ceremonies. Colors will be presented by Canton Siskiyou No. 16 and the invocation by W. Robert Massey, followed by introductions and talks by Grand lodge officers and an introduction of the degree captain of Grand lodge.

Registration will begin at the IOOF hall at 9:30 a.m. The afternoon program will begin at 1:30 at Jacksonville Community hall with an opening address of welcome by Jack McDaniels of Jacksonville and response by Ed Vincent of Central Point. At 2 p.m. Grand Lodge officers from all branches will be introduced. Other highlights of the program include third degree, 2:15; unusual third degree conferred by Chemetka lodge No. 1 of Salem; degree in tableaux form exemplified by 32-man degree team. Closing of the Order, 4 p.m. and closing of lodge by Jacksonville.

Mrs. Riley Applegate of Medford, assembly vice president in charge of Rebekah assembly, will put on a skit. Grand encampment will present a drill sponsored by Merle Wright, grand high priest. The Grand Ladies Encampment Auxiliary program will be conducted by Mary Weaver, grand senior warden.

The Patriarchs Militant drill by various Cantons will have Colonel Bill Dyer of Medford in command. The Ladies Auxiliary Patriarchs Militant program will be conducted by Lady Francis Munsell, associate vice president. Theta Rho assembly will present comedy skits, and readings will be given by Beta Chi No. 70, Central Point. Retiring colors will be presented by Canton Siskiyou and the benediction by W. Robert Massey.

300 Participate in Talent Egg Hunt

Talent—Approximately 300 youngsters participated in the Talent Lions club's annual Easter egg hunt Sunday morning in Talent, according to Bill Young, Talent police chief and chairman for the event.

Lions club members hid 900 eggs which members of the Lions Auxiliary had dyed Saturday morning. The younger group of children hunted eggs near the Talent elementary school and the older ones at the Talent football field.

Prizes went to Mickey Noonechester, first prize, 1 to 3-year-old group and second to Carol Schmeizer, 1 to 3-year-olds; Pam Holder, first prize, 4 to 6 year olds; second prize to Judy Ann Young, 4 to 6 year olds; Tim Ray McGonagle, first prize, 6 to 8 years old, second to Terry Reh, 6 to 8 years old; Cliff Daugherty, first prize, 8 to 11 years old, and James Cutburth, second prize 8 to 11 years old.

Foreign Language Lab at Crater High Nears Completion

By DORIS HUGHES
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Central Point—Charles A. Meyer, District 6C superintendent, has announced the near completion of a modern foreign language laboratory at Crater High school.

The school's laboratory is designed to provide the materials and tools with which the student, with the guidance of the teacher, may build a foundation for understanding, speaking, reading and writing the language in question, and to further the modern approach to the teaching of the language.

Physical arrangement of individual booths and positions will allow students to work individually to perfect their aural-oral understanding of the language.

Equipment will include tape recorders and listening apparatus which will enable the student to record and listen to his own voice in practice. In speaking of the value of foreign language study, Meyer said, "I firmly believe that any means whereby world understanding and relations can be improved is justifiable.

GH Mayor to Attend Engineers' Meet

By MARY KELL
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Gold Hill—Mayor Milton Steinmetz plans to attend the gold and money session of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers conference in Portland next Friday.

A talk on "Gold in the International Monetary System Today" will be presented by M. A. Kriz, associate economist, First National City Bank of New York.

O. K. Burrell, professor of finance, University of Oregon will discuss "The Problem of Gold Convertibility." At the noon luncheon, Philip Cortney, president of Coty, Inc., New York, will speak on "Monetary Policy and the Price of Gold." He will be introduced by C. B. Stephenson, president of the First National Bank of Oregon.

The gold program will include a thorough discussion of the gold problem in the world today. The conference will be held April 28-30.

Mr. and Mrs. Steinmetz are owners of the Pine Creek placer mine at Halfway, Ore., and have gold mining interests at Weed, Calif. Steinmetz said he felt others in southern Oregon who are interested in gold mining might be interested in learning of the schedule and speakers.

Pierre Hines, Consulting mining engineer, Portland, and Evan Just, head of the mineral engineering department of Stanford university, will be co-chairmen of the section.

"The Gold Problem by World and Countries and Relationship to Gold Production and Reserves" will be discussed by Donald H. McLaughlin, president, Homestake Mining Co., San Francisco.
