Opposition Hits Macmillan Over Missile Program

London—UPI—The Labor opposition and some Conservatives today turned their fire on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for his government's decision to drop its nuclear missile program. Britain abandoned its $182 million "Blue Streak" missile last week and was expected to seek new American rockets for its defenses. American Thors already are stationed here. But Macmillan faced attack from two sides on the Blue Streak program, which had been a symbol of prestige and independence among Britons. Labor made a motion of censure, charging the government with wasting tens of millions on the project and with general mishandling of defense. The motion will be debated April 27. At the same time, many government supporters were reported deeply disturbed that Britain may abandon its independent nuclear deterrent entirely and rely solely on American atomic and hydrogen weapons. A complicating factor was the demand to do away with nuclear weapons entirely, as expressed by the 100,000-strong rally in Trafalgar Square Monday, the biggest since the war.

Boy Drowned as Raft Capsizes

La Grande —UPI—An excursion on a makeshift raft constructed by four junior high school boys ended in the death by drowning of one of the boys Monday afternoon. Charles Wesley Schmittle, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Schmittle of Summerville, drowned in the Grande Ronde river about 11 miles north of here after the raft capsized. The four boys apparently launched their craft made of railroad ties nailed to two-by-fours after they had finished their day at the Imbler school. All but the Schmittle boy made it to shore safely after the raft capsized. His companions tried to pull him from the river but failed.

Explosion Rips Home of Negro In Tennessee

By United Press International
An early morning explosion today wrecked the home of a Negro attorney who has fought many anti-segregation suits in Nashville, Tenn. Police said a bomb apparently was tossed at or placed under the house of Z. Alexander Looby, a city councilman. The Negro lawyer and his wife, who were asleep in a back room, escaped injury. Windows Shattered The force of the explosion shattered windows for blocks around the Looby home and damaged two houses next door. Racial violence also erupted Monday night in Savannah, Ga., where Negro and white youths battled with knives and ax handles in a public park. Four youths were injured, one seriously. Police estimated 20 Negroes and 12 white boys took part in the brief, vicious fight in Forsyth Park near the downtown section. Two Negroes and seven whites were jailed. Made Him Mad Also in Savannah where Negroes have maintained daily picket lines and boycotts, Benjamin White, 18, a Negro student at Savannah State college, told police a white man, Marvin Crumpton, 29, slugged him. Crumpton said White had nudged a white woman at a lunch counter. "And it made me mad," Crumpton was charged with disorderly conduct and assault and battery, and White was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

DECLARE BOYCOTT

Tokyo—UPI—The powerful General Council of Japanese Trade Unions has declared a boycott of South African goods in protest against South Africa's racial policies. The law gave Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson authority to exempt some poultry processing plants from continuous supervision inspection until June 30, 1960, if he found it impossible to supply inspectors. Benson supplied inspectors for plants which slaughter and process poultry for interstate trade. But he exempted some 300 "further processing" plants which produce items like chicken and turkey pies and soups using poultry meat. 'Let Buyer Beware' The administration requested $11,296,000 for fiscal inspection in the fiscal year starting July 1 but it did not ask for funds for extending

'Public-Be-Damned' Attitude Charged in Inspection of Processed Meat and Poultry

Union Spokesman Raps Operation Of Federal Law

Washington—UPI—A union spokesman has accused the Agriculture Department of a "consumer-be-damned" attitude toward federal inspection of processed meat and poultry food products. Arnold Mayer, legislative representative of the AFL-CIO Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, made the charge at a closed-door hearing of a House appropriations subcommittee March 14. His testimony was made public today. Mayer's statement and several other complaints delivered to the subcommittee grew out of the Agriculture Department's operation of a poultry inspection law which was passed in 1957. The law gave Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson authority to exempt some poultry processing plants from continuous supervision inspection until June 30, 1960, if he found it impossible to supply inspectors. Benson supplied inspectors for plants which slaughter and process poultry for interstate trade. But he exempted some 300 "further processing" plants which produce items like chicken and turkey pies and soups using poultry meat. 'Let Buyer Beware' The administration requested $11,296,000 for fiscal inspection in the fiscal year starting July 1 but it did not ask for funds for extending

Fifth Salk Shot May Be Unneeded

Portland—UPI—The State Board of Health said today that Oregon residents who received a fourth Salk polio shot last year probably will not need a booster shot this year. The fourth shot may give two or three years of protection if all four doses have been given according to recommended schedules, according to Dr. Richard H. Wilcox, state health officer. But he said a final decision was up to an individual's private physician.

Young Republicans Slate Convention

Portland—UPI—Oregon Young Republicans will meet May 6-8 at a pre-primary platform convention here, it was announced Monday. Wesley A. Phillips of Gladstone, chairman of the Young Republican State Federation, said the convention call was not a matter of following an example of the Democratic state convention in January. He said Young Republicans have been holding these pre-primary platform conventions for years "which no doubt inspired the senior Democratic organization's convention at Salem."

Low June Draft Issued by Army

Washington—UPI—The Defense department has issued the lowest draft call since the start of the Korean war. It asked Selective Service Monday to induct 5,500 men into the Army during June. This was 500 below the draft call for each of the previous four months. The Defense department said the low June draft was caused by the Army reducing its strength to meet budget requirements.
