Plucky Coed Alerts Rescuers

Eates Park, Colo. — UPB — A party of expert mountaineers, guided by directions from a plucky 19-year-old Iowa coed, hurried cautiously up the slope of 14,255-foot Long's Peak today to rescue her two exhausted and nearly frozen companions.

Jane R. Bendixen, a University of Colorado sophomore from Davenport, left the two male students on the mountain, one of Colorado's highest, Wednesday to go for help.

She stumbled into the tiny community of Allenspark Wednesday night, more than 36 hours after the trio was caught by a sudden spring storm on the mountain.

She had crossed eight to 10 miles of treacherous terrain and arrived with her feet and fingers frozen. Her nose and hands were slashed by a fall from a rock ledge that knocked her unconscious.

The rescuers feared her friends — David L. Jones, 18, Webster Groves, Mo., freshman and graduate student, Prince D. Willmon, 23, Fort Smith, Ark. — were in worse condition. Although they, like the girl, were experienced climbers they apparently were too weak to follow her down.

Officers Installed By Toastmasters

Dr. John Welch was installed president of the Medford Toastmasters club at a meeting at the Jackson hotel this week. Installing officer was Jim Boyle, area governor from Klamath Falls.

Other officers installed included Wirt Schooley, executive vice president; Otto H. Kannaso, educational vice president; Myrtle Merriman, secretary-treasurer; and Richard Swan, sergeant at arms.

Dan Hull made the presentation of "Past Presidents wall plaque" to retiring president, Douglas A. Roach.

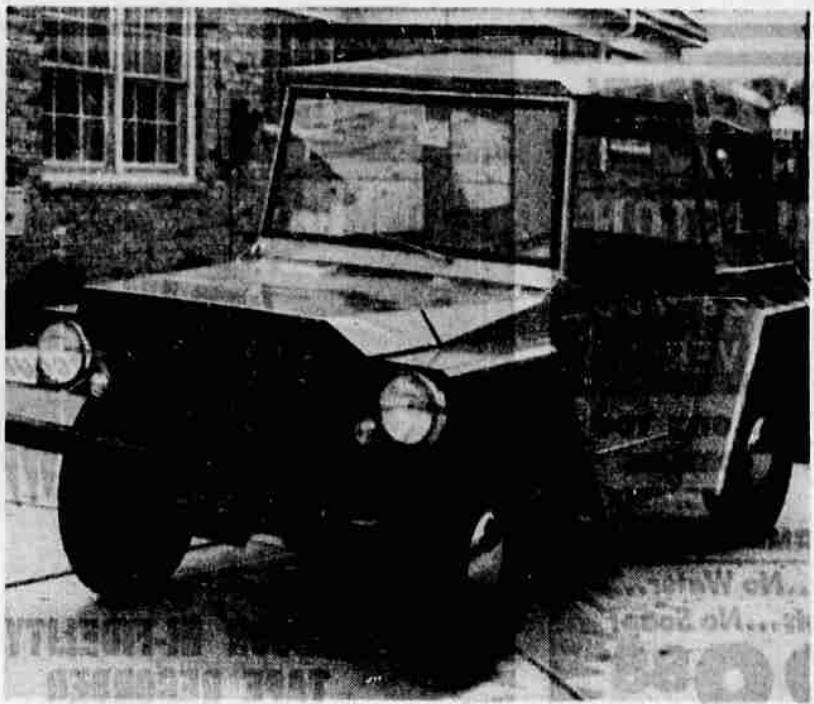

The evening's program included Dr. John Wiesel, toastmaster; Dr. Ralph Hibbs, table topics; and Schooley, table topic evaluator. Featured speakers were Dwight Wilson, "The Giants," with Dr. Welch, evaluator; and Roach, "Life in the National Park," with Hull as evaluator.

Merriman was general evaluator for the evening.

Washington — (UPI) — Rep. Walter Norblad (R-Ore.) today recommended the post office at Brooks, Ore., be made a classified branch of the Salem post office. He said it would save more than $500 a year.

Norblad also recommended that Mrs. Inez Cooley be named permanent postmaster at Juntura, Ore. The job pays $2,539 a year.

Nearly 104 Medford High school band students will march in the Pear Blossom parade April 23, I. A. Mirick, instrumental music supervisor, announced this week.

The musicians will redo their half-time routine done at the East-West Shrine football game in San Francisco on New Year's day.

Many MHS students were excused Friday afternoon in order to attend Good Friday services. Those excused were to have a signed request from their parents.

Southern Oregon college officials invite Medford seniors who are interested in attending SOC to visit them April 23.

The program of activities includes a morning session at which a "typical fall term freshman program" is to be discussed. An afternoon session discussing "College Problems" and "Student Leaders and Faculty Members," a campus tour, a concert by the SOC Populaires, and a dance held in the Susanne Homes hall complete the day of activities at the Ashland campus.

Students interested in attending this "Senior Week End" at SOC are asked to contact their dean at Medford High school.

Mike Phillips, junior class president, has announced the date of the junior-senior prom as May 14 in the high school gymnasium. The dance will begin at 8:30 p.m.

In keeping with tradition, the theme of the awaited affair will not be released until the night of the prom. Supervising the arrangements for the May festivity are the class officers—Jerry Gastineau, Nancy Hinman, Jo Dee Mc Duffee, Jim Stever, and Phillips.

Committee chairmen are Vanessa Welty, decorations; Linda Hess, refreshments; Roberta Willett, music; Mary Kay Harris and Diane Lewis, throne decoration; Jim Frake, publicity; Carolyn Finch, invitations; Fred Lorish, program; and Stan Dowson, cleanup.

DeVere Taylor, speech director, announced Friday that Medford High would produce its regular radio program on KYJC Saturday at 6:30 p.m.

Although the content of the program was not definite, Taylor said the program would be pre-recorded Wednesday afternoon.

"Oklahoma!" by Rodgers and Hammerstein is to be presented by the MHS choir April 21-23 in the school auditorium, Lynn Sjolund, director, reminded residents this week.

The story is set in the old West and is based on two young cowboys winning the hand of their sweethearts. A peddler and a hired hand try to thwart their goal.

Leads in the production are held by John Frohnmayer, Janet Myhre, and Barbara Tyler. Janet and Barbara will play on alternate nights. In other leading roles are Sara Hinkle, Linda Samuelson, Jim Lacy, Ros Randles, Keith Berg, and Ken Hall.

Accompanying the choir will be the Medford High special "pit" orchestra under the direction of John Drysdale.
