

Mid-Air Collision Over North Carolina Kills Four

Private Craft 'Sits Down' on Top of Airliner

Hickory, N.C. — (UPI) — A fast private plane bounced off the top of a jet-prop airliner over the Hickory airport here Wednesday, and all four men in the private craft were killed.

The bigger Piedmont Airlines plane, carrying 40 persons, landed safely with only minor damage. Most of the passengers were unaware there had been an accident.

Started To Pull Up

Piedmont pilot Lee Cottrell said the twin-engine Cessna 310 "let down on top of me."

"I had already started to pull up to go around because we had been told there was another aircraft above and behind us," Cottrell said.

The Cessna, carrying a company pilot and three officials of Bergsma Brothers Furniture Co. of Grand Rapids, Mich., fell apart after the impact and plunged to earth about 300 yards from the end of the runway.

The victims were Frederick James Frieswyk, 37, pilot for Bergsma Brothers; Julius Bergsma, 44, a partner in the firm and president of Imperial Furniture Co.; Earl Gordon Krombein, 41, vice president of Imperial, and David Frank, 68, of Beverly Hills, Calif., West Coast representative for Bergsma Brothers. Bergsma, Krombein and Frieswyk were all residents of Grand Rapids.

Filled To Capacity

The airliner, Flight 50 from Cincinnati, Ohio to Fayetteville, N.C., was filled to capacity after stops at Lexington, Ky., and Bristol, Tenn. The Cessna was carrying the furniture company officials from Grand Rapids to Lenoir, N.C., for a visit to a firm owned by Bergsma Brothers.

The front nose wheel of the Cessna apparently hit the airliner's port propeller, and the right wheel hit the top of the airliner's fuselage.

Symington Sets Portland Speech

Portland — (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) is scheduled to make a speech here May 28 at a $25 per-plate fundraising dinner, Democratic Chairman Robert Straub said today.

Symington is on the Oregon primary ballot as a Democratic presidential aspirant but has said he does not plan to campaign in Oregon. His appearance is scheduled for eight days after the primary.

Stock Market Holds To Steady Course In Early Trading

New York — (UPI) — The stock market held to a steady course in the early trading today following Wednesday's sharpest sell-off in nearly six weeks.

American Telephone lost more than a point on top of Wednesday's decline of more than 4. The stock, which recently soared to a new 31-year high, broke sharply on news that a dividend hike is not an early likelihood.

Point added more than a point in the chemicals after losing heavily the day before. In the autos, Ford rose more than 1 on improved earnings, while American Motors firmed.

Appling Attacks 'Big Spending'

Portland — (UPI) — Secretary of State Howell Appling attacked "big government and big spending" Wednesday night.

Talking before the Reed college Young Republicans club, Appling compared American society today to the Roman Empire before it collapsed.

Appling said the Roman Empire collapsed because it refused to apply restraints to the demands of the people upon government.

Campaigning for election as secretary of state, Appling accused Democratic party members of adopting left wing partisanship, which, he said, "inevitably leads us toward socialism."

Kennedy Wants No Votes Because Of Religion

Washington — (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy said today he wants no votes just because he is a Catholic and that the Democratic party does not have to nominate him to escape a "Catholic revolt" in the 1960 presidential election.

Kennedy dealt with the "religious issue" in the 1960 campaign bluntly and at length in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Two other announced Democratic candidates — Sens. Stuart Symington (Mo.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) — also spoke before the organization.

Symington attacked the Eisenhower administration for what he called its "obsession" that the nation can build strength in one field only by sacrificing power in another.

Shuns Vice Presidency Kennedy reiterated that he is unimpressed with arguments that he should avoid religious controversy by withdrawing from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination and accepting second place on the ticket.

The Massachusetts senator said:

"Surely those who believe it dangerous to elect a Catholic as President will not want him to serve as vice president, a heart-beat away from the office."

"The alternative" he said "is to proceed with the primaries, the convention and the election. If there is bigotry in the country, then so be it — there is bigotry. If that bigotry is too great to permit the fair consideration of a Catholic who has made clear his complete independence and his complete dedication to separation of the church and state, then we ought to know it."

"But I do not believe that this is the case. I believe the American people are more concerned with a man's views and abilities than with the church to which he belongs."

Press Has Responsibility Kennedy said he was tired of being described as a "Catholic candidate" for the presidency.

"I am not the Catholic candidate for President," he said. "I do not speak for the Catholic church on issues of public policy and no one in that church speaks for me."

He said the press has a grave responsibility in dealing with the issue and must be careful of magnifying it or simplifying it.

Symington defended his decision not to compete against Humphrey and Kennedy in presidential primaries, which he said brought candidates before only "random fractions" of the voters.

"They tend to become personality contests," he said. "They embitter men of fundamentally similar views, who later must work together to meet our national needs. They are ill-suited to the systematic discussion of great issues."

Symington described his speech as the first of a series of related statements which would outline his views. He said building national strength called for:

—Gearing economic performance to capacity to provide faster economic growth to help serve domestic needs, support national defense and expand U.S. peace efforts.

—Use increased economic strength to combat problems of unemployment, poverty, inflation, care for the aged, education, farm income, slums and medical care.

—Full extension of justice and equality of opportunity in our political, civil and economic affairs.

—Redefine relations with other free peoples to make them aware of American moral purposes, to provide food because they are hungry, not to get rid of farm surpluses, and to help them live better lives, not just to resist Communism.

—Find a more workable way to live with totalitarian states without jeopardizing American freedom.

—Combat Social Problems

—Use increased economic strength to combat problems of unemployment, poverty, inflation, care for the aged, education, farm income, slums and medical care.

Legislature To Get Pay Proposal

Salem — (UPI) — Civil Service Director Melvin Cleveland says the Legislature next year will be presented a salary proposal which would put state workers on a par pay-wise with other workers in the same recruiting areas.

Cleveland noted that a survey last year revealed most state employees were under average industry pay scales. Pay for technical and appointive personnel was considerably below that offered by industry.

House Set To Pass Civil Rights Bill; Ike's Signature Certain

Washington — (UPI) — The House gave final and overwhelming approval today by a 288-95 roll call vote to a civil rights bill containing new Negro voting guarantees.

Washington — (UPI) — The House was ready today to pass the civil rights bill that provides new Negro voting guarantees and send it to the White House for President Eisenhower's certain approval.

One last hour of House debate was all that was allotted before a rollcall vote on final passage of the second major civil rights legislation since the reconstruction era. Democratic leaders arranged to end the long sectional battle over the legislation by calling up on a take-it-or-leave-it basis the 16 amendments written into the bill by the Senate. Approval by a top-sided vote seemed assured.

discrimination existed in the area, he could appoint referees to handle other complaints from would-be Negro voters.

House Foreign Aid Backers Brace for Revision Attempts

Washington — (UPI) — House backers of President Eisenhower's $4 billion foreign aid program braced today to fight a series of attempts to revise and scale down the plan.

Chairman Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa.) of the house foreign affairs committee said "we think we should be able to hold our position" against a flock of amendments from critics of the program.

Morgan, house floor manager of the bill, said he hoped for passage by nightfall although there still was the possibility final house action might be put off until Friday.

As it stood the measure fixed a $4,038,400,000 limit on military and economic aid to free world allies in the bookkeeping year which begins July 1.

This compared with Eisenhower's request for a $4,175,000,000 authorization bill and a $4,145,600,000 measure which was approved Wednesday by the Senate foreign relations committee.

Tape Not To Be Used at Hearing Of Mrs. Adland

Hollywood — (UPI) — Mrs. Florence Adland was told through her attorney Wednesday the district attorney would not use a secretly made tape recording in cases either against her or her daughter, Beverly, 17.

Mrs. Adland, 53, purportedly tells in the recording of romances-for-pay her daughter indulged in with Hollywood celebrities. The recording was said to have been made without her knowledge by a former friend of the family.

Attorneys Meet Marvin M. Mitchelson, Mrs. Adland's attorney, was allowed to meet with District Attorney William B. McKesson Wednesday after Mrs. Adland was refused a personal interview because she is a defendant in the case charging her with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

She must appear in court Monday to enter a plea. Mitchelson said McKesson told him the recording would not be introduced at Mrs. Adland's court appearance Monday nor when Beverly appears for a Juvenile Court hearing May 2. Beverly currently is confined at Juvenile Hall.

Newsmen asked Mitchelson if Mrs. Adland had admitted the voice on the recording was hers. "It might be," he said. "She really doesn't know one thing about it."

Showers, Wind Soak Midwest

By United Press International

Thunderstorms and powerful wind gusts rattled windows and soaked farmlands through the Midwest Wednesday night.

The midnight storms provided an interlude of April showers between two fine spring days that brought warm breezes and sunny skies to much of the nation.

Fair weather beamed on all but Florida and the Pacific Northwest Wednesday and showers were expected to be confined today to the Northwest, Florida and Georgia, and from the northern Gulf states into the Ohio Valley, lower Great Lakes and New York state.

The northwestern showers were expected to spread into the northern plains late today, with snow flurries forecast for the Rockies. Cooler weather was expected from California across the central plateau and from Lower Michigan into the lower Ohio Valley.

Rising readings were anticipated in the Midlands, the southern Rockies, New England and Virginia.

Woman Gets Help in Hike

Winnemucca, Nev. — (UPI) — A retired California electrician, who decided to carry cross-country hiker Dr. Barbara Moore's baggage, and the 56-year-old vegetarian met 36 miles west of here today.

Joseph T. Hodges, 62, set out from his home at Vallejo, Calif., Wednesday to rendezvous with Dr. Moore after it was learned her sponsor had quit and headed back east leaving her to carry a heavy pack containing her ration of health foods.

Hodges said he "wanted to make a trip anyway, so why not help Dr. Moore out." The woman, whose march out of Lovelock was hampered by a windstorm Wednesday, said she would be glad to have Hodges' help.

He was driving a pickup truck with a camping trailer. She started off today only about 40 - miles behind two British servicemen, Sgts. Patrick Moloney, 34, and Mervyn Evans, 33, who spent the night eight miles east of here on Highway 40.

ONIONS FOR TEXAS

College Station, Texas — (UPI) — Texas' onion crop, valued at $14,192,000, was the state's top income producer among market vegetables in 1959, according to Texas A&M College horticulturist Clyde Singletary.

All three hope to break the record of 79 days, 10 hours and 10 minutes between San Francisco and New York set back in 1926.
