

College Guidance Director Speaks At Yreka Meeting

Ashland—Guidance before problems arise is the most important help that can be provided for children in the elementary schools, Harold A. Cloer, Southern Oregon college director of guidance, told the Jackson school PTA in Yreka last week.

Guidance efforts are particularly effective at the elementary level, he said, because of the age of the student, the child-centered nature of the school and the closeness of parent, child, and teacher.

Teachers and guidance specialists in the schools can do much to see that the child has special experience, and can work with parents to help eliminate conditions that are productive of unwholesome development of adjustments, Cloer said.

Erroneous Concept
Cloer spoke of the erroneous concept that help should be focused on the problem, rather than on the cause. "This is done," he said, "despite what everyone who works on these problems knows about the relative costs and effectiveness of rehabilitation programs and the preventative programs."

For example, he said, the cost of a child per day in juvenile facilities is $6 to $7 whereas the cost of an elementary school guidance program is $6 to $18 dollars per pupil per year, the latter figure buying one staff member per 600 children, plus needed materials, clerical assistance.

These elementary years for the child are the most important, he concluded. It is here that the child is trying to integrate the forces from home, school, church, and peer relationships, the period when he is developing a concept of self. "Here is where guidance is important as a preventative measure," he said.

'Control of Cancer' Assembly Slated at Southern Oregon

A special assembly on the "Control of Cancer" is scheduled Tuesday, April 26, at 10 a.m., in Churchill hall, Dr. Alvin Fellers, director of student affairs at Southern Oregon college, Ashland, has announced.

Dr. Earl Lawson, American Cancer society district medical adviser, will show illustrated slides on "X-Ray in the Diagnosis of Cancer." The slides point out the role that radiology plays in the detection of cancer of the entire body.

Phil Selby, Ashland Crusade chairman, will introduce Dr. Lawson and give a resume of the activities of the county in cancer control.

The public is invited to attend, and take part in the question and answer period. At the county Cancer crusade kickoff meeting last week in the Medford hotel, Joseph Urban, regional director of the ACS was guest speaker.

ITURBI FILES SUIT

Los Angeles—(UPI)—Pianist Jose Iturbi filed suit in Superior Court Thursday seeking recovery of $27,000 from New York art dealer Pierre Nes, whom Iturbi charged gave him faked paintings by Raphael as security for loans.

Urban gave a resume of the ACS cycle beginning with 1905, and he pointed out that in 1931 the group was reorganized to stress an educational program to save lives from cancer. He also explained that were 10 years ago 1 out of 7 persons could be saved from death by cancer, now 1 out of 3 can be saved by getting medical attention in time.

In 1945 the ACS was incorporated and there now are over 2 million volunteers in 60 divisions consisting of 2,900 counties. In Jackson county there are over 1,000 volunteers who will make house-to-house calls on May to distribute ACS literature. Money donated will be used for search through facilities in Oregon, a year-round educational program in Jackson county, tumor registries at both hospitals and the service program to patients in the county. About 145 volunteers attended the recent luncheon meeting.

Other speakers at the meeting were Dr. Robert Buck, president of the county unit; Dr. L. Paul Walker, Dr. Abner O. Clark and Dr. Lawson.
