

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FRANK SHUSTER of the comedy team, Wayne and Shuster, tells of a young Cuban intellectual who was suddenly appointed head executioner in a certain district by Fidel Castro. He had but-terflies in his stomach the first time he led a prisoner forth to be shot, but asked the doomed man formally enough, "Would you like a cigarette?" "No," was the answer. Then he asked, "Would you like to be blindfolded?" Again the prisoner spat out "no."

The officer barked, "Ready," and "Aim," but just then the prisoner cried out a defiant "Down with the tyrant and scoundrel Castro!" The officer ran over and shook him. "You fool," he admonished. "Are you just trying to cause more trouble for yourself?"

The Southland experienced an unexpected and devastating blizzard early in 1960, during the course of which an associate of producer Garson Kanin phoned him in New York to report, "This snow has paralyzed traffic down here. I'm literally stranded in Alabama."

"Ah," nodded Kanin knowingly. "Immobile, eh?"
