A five-run sixth inning upsurge turned the victory trick for the Medford High school Black Tornado yesterday afternoon in a 6 to 5 practice game decision over the Southern Oregon college baseball junior varsity.

Medford lagged 1 to 5 when it came to bat in the frame. Dick Ragsdale drew a walk from raider twirler Al McKinnis and Ken Jensen was hit by a pitch. Then, Lowell Dean singled to center field to bring home Ragsdale. Mike Parsons hit to blast in both Jensen and Dean.

Quinney hit safely and Wayne Thompson followed with a two-base wallop down the first base and right field lines to punch over the tying and winning counters.

The other Tornado tally had been scored in the first canto on Ragsdale's walk and stolen base and Lowell Dean's single.

SOC got one run in the second inning when Mike Conley was given a base on balls, advanced to third on McKinnis' hit and an outfield bobble and came home on a bad throw on an attempted pick-off at third base. One-base swats by John Kopacz, Ray Endicott and Bob Johnson gained another tally in the third inning. In the fourth panel McKinnis tripled

Frick Raps Kefauver Sport Bill

New York—(UPI)—Sen. Estes Kefauver's new sports bill has attracted mixed reactions from baseball and football leaders.

Commissioner Ford Frick led baseball's attack on the measure, insisting that congressional approval of the bill would "impede baseball's healthy and normal development and confine it to a legislative straight jacket."

However, Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football league, hailed the proposed legislation and said it will be "an aid to pro football."

Other baseball bigwigs, including President Warren Giles of the National league and American league proxy Joe Cronin, shared Frick's opinion of the bill but William A. Shea, one of the founders of the new Continental league, greeted it with enthusiasm.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly sub-committee, formally introduced the bill in Congress Thursday. The Tennessee Democrat said the measure "will correct the inequity which was created by the decisions of the Supreme Court," which twice has ruled that baseball is exempt from the antitrust laws.

Frick was especially upset over a provision of the bill which would limit to 100 the number of players a big league team could contain.

Will Pastrano Fights Johnson

Louisville, Ky.—(UPI)—Willie Pastrano, an old pro of the ring at 24, will be out to show Alton Johnson that old pros don't make the same mistake twice tonight when they stage a Derby Eve light heavyweight 10-rounder.

Pastrano came out of a four-month layoff here last July 24 by letting the less experienced Johnson slow him down with a stiff body attack in the early going, and wound up by losing a close though unanimous decision in a distinct upset.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

There is going to be quite a change in the lives of those intrepid rock jumpers who call themselves fishermen when they go to seek out the salmon and steelhead of the Illinois river this coming fall. Each year these anglers find many fish waiting for high water so that they may negotiate the falls and move upriver. For those with patience and knowhow, the waiting fish provide easy sport and too many are caught due to lack of enough rain to raise the river to a falls-jumping height.

A BOOST AROUND
The game commission now has the funds for construction of a ladder with the purpose of getting the salmon and steelhead around the falls and into the upper river. Bids will be called for on May 25 and the commission plans to have the ladder completed by this coming fall. The ladder will be of a vertical baffle type construction. This means that each pool will have a vertical slot cut in at one side which will enable the fish to move from pool to pool without jumping. The total length of the ladder will be about 175 feet and it will carry a minimum flow of 50 cubic feet per second. The ladder will begin approximately 30 feet below the falls and will snake around to end in a large pool above the falls against the south side of the river.

NO SNAGGING
(Note to the "Illinois Falls Snagging club.") One innovation that may not be appreciated by the club is the method of protecting the fish while they are in the ladder. The ladder will be covered its entire length by a concrete slab. During extremely high water the fish could not use an open type ladder and would have to fight their way over the falls. By covering the ladder the fish are able to use it during all water conditions except extreme summer-time low and will also be protected from the lawless meat hunter. (It is hoped the club will now be disbanded and attempts made to rehabilitate them—like teaching them how to catch fish legally.)

AN OPEN RIVER
The commission hopes that the ladder will have the effect of opening up the entire river to angling pressure that was concentrated below the falls. There are many excellent spots between the falls and the deadline at Pomeroy dam that should be fished by the increasing horde of steelhead fishermen. With fish no longer being held up at the falls, the upper section should hold fish much earlier in the season than formerly.

NO FISHING
The game commission took over the Medco pond on the first day of this month and wishes to inform the public that the pond is closed to any and all fishing. As soon as the engineering work has been completed to clear it of all fishlife and then will be put to use as a rearing pond for migratory fish. It can't happen too soon to suit us.

THE ANGLER'S LOG
The spring chinook salmon situation is such that all sorts of theories are now in order to try to explain why we aren't catching any. The mouth of the river is producing more fish than they have seen for five years but the fish aren't getting here yet. Hansen's board, which was doing so well some time ago, hasn't caught a fish in over a week. They must be below Mule Creek. We wish they would hurry.

Food Lake—Has had very good fishing. Lots of limits. Fish running up to 17 1/2 inches. Best bet is still fishing with single eggs. Medium color-og-riant size. Some luck trolling with FF&worms.

Klamath River—Good catches on night crawlers or flies. There has been a fair bag hatch and the fish are primed for feathers. Either California or Oregon side should do it. Lots of competition.

Squaw Lakes—Has been good all week. The road is in good shape. Best bet seems to be FF single eggs—fluorescent red. Green or frog flatfish also does the business.

Willow Creek Res.—Has been slow with most catches consisting of small fish. Still fishing with cluster eggs has been doing the most business. Met-1 fly does fair on a troll. Fish are starting to jump and a few have been taken on a fly. It should improve in a couple of weeks when the big ones finish spawning.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER
It is hoped that when and if the engineers find Lost creek dam able to provide water for the migratory fishery that the valley is still in accord as to what kind of a river we want the Rogue river to be. It will set quite a precedent for the government to build a dam with this as one of the primary purposes but the Rogue river is the best river for this type of precedent.

Anyone interested in finding out how to hunt moose, grizzlies, or caribou in Canada can easily find out this coming Monday night. Come to the Isaac Walton league meeting at the Red Cross building by Hawthorne park and get the word from Jay Geise. Harold Sexton will be there to tell us all the good things about Agate dam reservoir. Refreshments will be served.

GOOD LUCK!

Parents Irked Over Paddling of Children
Knoxville, Tenn.—(UPI)—Parents of 20 seventh grade pupils threatened today to file charges against a science teacher who paddled their children, unless he is transferred to another school.

Spokane Keeps Lead By Twinbill Split

By PETE COLEMAN
United Press International
You can get close to the Spokane Indians, but you can't pass 'em.

At least that's the way it's been in the Pacific Coast league so far this season. The Indians, who have owned all or part of first place since opening day, have had their backs against the wall every night this week, but come morning, they're still on top.

Sacramento twice since Tuesday had opportunities to move into the PCL penthouse, but the Solons couldn't beat Seattle and Spokane, although beaten once and rained out two times, stayed in front.

Sacramento finally got by the Rainiers Thursday night, 4-0, and when the Indians lost the first game of a double header to Tacoma, 3-1, it looked like the California team would take over.

Errors Hurt
But the Indians opened up with their howitzers in the nightcap, buried the Giants, 12-2, and this morning, there they were in first place by half a game.

In other action, Salt Lake and Portland battled for four hours and 43 minutes before the Bees won in the 15th, 8-5, and San Diego blanked Vancouver, 4-0.

Two 15th inning errors cost Portland the ball game against Salt Lake when Bee's catcher Chuck Brockell reached first on a miscue and Don Rowe came in as a pinch runner. Another flub by the Beavers led Rowe home with what proved to be the winning run.

Sam Miley added two more for Salt Lake when he cleared the bases with a triple. Dave Jimenez, the fifth pitcher for the Bees, was given the win. Chuck Buehler had two homers for Salt Lake and Chuck King another.
