

Kiwanian Dames Present Annual Show

Kiwanian Dames presented their annual luncheon, style show and card party at Rogue Valley Country club Friday afternoon for over 160 women of the valley. "Magic Moments of 1960," the theme, was interpreted through the decorations and styles.

The decorations chairman, Mrs. Curtis Butterfield, and her committee of Mrs. and Mrs. Arthur Savard, Mrs. Wayne Struble, Mrs. Sam Richardson, Mrs. Abner Clark and Mrs. Jack Edson, brought "magic" in black hats to each table. The huge backdrop was of a black hat on white background and brought forth a "magical change" to the styles when a mystery lady waved her wand.

Mrs. Fred Moran, modeling for Burelson's, changed two costumes of black and white from daytime to cocktail dress with accessories from the hat.

Mrs. Jerry Lausmann exhibited a foundation garment under a navy Don Loper coat from Burelson's. As co-chairman of the event, she ended her modeling in a straight jacket from the local police department, walking in a daze across the platform.

Jane Raapke, Lynn, Roger, and Peter Butterfield, Barbara and David Dellenback, wore styles from the J. C. Penney children's department. Jane modeled a pink two-piece party suit and a pink gingham party dress.

Lynn and Roger, dressed in blue and light brown for their Sunday school or party, were joined by brother Peter, ready for a game of cowboys and Indians. David and Barbara Dellenback wore swim coordinates in washable white and colored trim. Little Barbara "stole the show" following the foundation showing by wearing her newest underwear style.

Young models had fun, too, at the annual Kiwanian Dames luncheon and style show Friday afternoon at Rogue Valley Country club. Admiring a hat which Jane Raapke modeled are Peter, Roger and Lynne Butterfield, children of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Butterfield. The young models showed clothing from J. C. Penney's children's department. Jane's mother, Mrs. John Raapke, was commentator. (Knackstedt Photo)

Teen-agers Karen and Linda Moran, modeling for Leon's, and Barbara Mitchell and Cindy Barnett, modeling for Hadley's, showed all the key colors of swim, fun and party fashions. Linda was ready for the opening of the town pool in her aquamarine swim suit. Both Karen and Linda wore leisure clothes of aquamarine, black and orange, complete with beach hat and soft shoes.

Play and Party
Cindy and Barbara, after modeling playclothes in white and blue cotton, donned pink party dresses. Cindy wore a tiny check with small spaghetti straps and full skirt, and Barbara, a printed cotton satin. Barbara wore the only formal frock shown. It was of billowing aquamarine nylon in ballerina length.

Mrs. Paul Mitchell showed a white Lilly Ann suit from Hadley's. With this she wore a copper-colored veiled hat with tiny birds. Later she modeled a black lace tiered dinner dress in short length.

Colorful was the word for the silk print "Around the World" dress modeled by Mrs. William Singler for Burelson's. With it she wore red shoes and gloves.

Mrs. Robert Hart, modeling for Leon's, wore a gay leisure outfit in the new hot orange, and later changed to a black-on-beige rayon linen knit with black patent accessories. Mrs. Richard Lamont, also for Leon's, wore a simple black cotton highlighted with white daisies down the front, and later a blue cotton.

Mrs. Max Millhollin, for Burelson's, wore a light embroidered penguin and gown, and later an eyelet sweater dress in pink with white pearlized accessories.

Mystery Lady
The magic mystery lady, who was revealed to be Mrs. Charles Champlin, was aided by Mrs. Jack Walker behind the backdrop. She was presented an orchid by Mrs. Ray Wise, the president. It was donated by D. T. Bolton, who raises them as a hobby. The prize for guessing the mystery lady was won by Mrs. John H. Tizecker.

Chairman for the prizes was Mrs. Edward Barnett. They were won by Mrs. Robert Wells, Mrs. Tony Manno, Mrs. James Coon and Mrs. Tom Polk.

Chairmen for the event were Mrs. Glen Branlund and Mrs. Lausmann. The commentator was Mrs. John Raapke and music was played by Mrs. Sam Van Dyke.

Proceeds are to be used for payment of new drill recently purchased for the dental clinic in the courthouse. As explained by Mrs. Wise in the welcome, the clinic has provided over 2,000 services to

The identity of the "mystery lady" above was a highlight of the Kiwanian Dames luncheon and style show Friday. Taking part throughout the program, the mysterious guest was revealed to be Mrs. Charles P. Champlin, wife of Medford's chief of police. (Knackstedt Photo)
