

Band Concert at Prospect High Draws Big Crowd

By FRANCES RING
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Prospect—A large crowd attended the spring band concert May 5 in the Prospect High school gymnasium. Bands from the fourth through eighth grades and the high school participated. Each band had student soloists. Soloist for the fourth grade was Jackie Parton, and for the fifth grade was Nadine Blaine. Bill Hunt of the eighth grade, accompanied by the band, played a trumpet solo, "Clover Hills."

Highlights of the program were performance of the seventh and eighth grade band and a trumpet quartet from the fifth grade playing an old round called "Brother John". Playing were Francis Odom, Karen Bean, James Garrett and Judy Hedgpeth. Awards for pep band were given to students who earned them at the concert. Letters were awarded to high school students Suzanne Rogers, Jill Hedgpeth, Wally Nye, Dick Wood, Virginia Eastman, and Scott Grievie. Pins were given to Arthur Anderson, Jean Grigsby, Kris Schaffran, Beth Brien, Carole Barnes, Shirley McElmurry, Sandra Garrett, Pat Jefferson, Linda Moore, Dwayne Chapman, Carolyn Valentine, Francis Artimire, Leslie Payne, Ervin Hall, Lois Governor, Andy Maurer, and Marlene Moore.

Program was under the supervision of Larry Drake, school music teacher.

EP Park, Community Building Dedicated

By DOTTIE HARBISON
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Eagle Point—Judge Earl Miller was guest speaker at the Eagle Point Scout Community Building and Park dedication ceremony Sunday afternoon. Miller noted the increase in divorce and juvenile delinquency with the ever increasing population and stated that he was happy to see the entire community dedicating itself in providing a way for some of the expanding energy to be used in a beneficial way.

Eagle Point Mayor Ed Putman unveiled the commemorative plaque dedicating the building to the "Youth of the Community by Its Citizens" and announced that the city council was happy to stand behind and assist the people in their desire to keep one step ahead of the youth in their walk of life. The plaque was made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hanscom and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hanscom. Stewart Hopper was master of ceremonies for the afternoon and introduced the speakers. Mrs. Keith Krambeal and her Campfire girls planted a blue spruce in the park as part of the program. Bill Bigham, Antelope 4-H leader, introduced Ronnie Anderson, who presented a $100 donation from the club for the building fund. Ronnie is president of the Antelope Livestock 4-H club.

Block Price Cut
Building Chairman Harry Hanscom gave a brief summary of how the building idea was started and said both youth and adult organizations have donated money and time to help make the idea a reality. Hanscom stated that $400 had been netted on the benefit breakfast that morning, all of which will be donated to the building fund. This will buy about 1,250 blocks.

Hanscom said price of the blocks had been cut a straight 20 per cent and that approximately 24,000 feet of lumber had been donated by various lumber industries for the building, which would amount to about $2,300 in savings.

He said $1,100 had been spent as of Sunday with about $1,600 still needed over and above the unpaid pledges to complete the block work.

Hanscom stated that the only cost for using the building would be to help pay the lights and fuel, which would be very minor as it would cost about $2 for an all-day session using all of the lights and that the fuel being used was sawdust. Two fireplaces located in two rooms also will provide heat.

Glenn Clymer said the Lions club had given about $450 for the building and that members had spent approximately 12,000 man hours

Out on a Limb

By BOB WALTERS

The atmosphere at Briscoe Elementary school in Ashland fairly tingled with suspense and excitement last Thursday when fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils packed the auditorium to see one of their schoolchums receive an award.

To be presented was a Green Guard award plus a Service Under Fire certificate and a pocket knife bearing the "Keep Oregon Green" slogan. On hand to make the presentations were Al Weisendanger, Salem, state executive secretary of the K e e p Oregon Green committee; Dale Prentice, chairman of the Jackson county committee, and Ashland Ranger Harold (Red) Thomas.

None of the youngsters in the audience knew the identity of the lad to be honored. It was a well-kept secret. Committee and school officials gathered on the stage knew, of course, that the awards were going to Timmy Reeder, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Reeder. Timmy had spotted a new outbreak of Ashland's big forest fire last summer and quickly reported same.

The students were reasonably quiet and the program well under way when confusion developed among the officials. The problem? No Timmy.

Young Mr. Reeder wasn't feeling well and was home in bed. Prentice and Thomas made speedy recoveries and drove to the Reeder home to make the presentations. Timmy crawled out of the sack, dressed, collected the awards and posed for photographs.

Meanwhile, back at the auditorium, Mr. Weisendanger was still filling the air with Timmy's praises. To us, though, it didn't seem too important that Timmy missed the big shindig at school.

After all, he was around when it really counted.

Medford Police Chief Charles P. Champlin, head of the local Parking Ticket Storm Troopers, was caught momentarily off balance at the annual School Patrol banquet at Hedrick Junior High school last Friday.

The chief was passing out envelopes containing patrol badges to the various school captains. The procedure was pretty smooth—present an envelope with the left hand and shake hands with the right—until one lanky young man approached the stage. The lad faked a handshake with his right, took the envelope with his left, shook hands with his right and topped it off by shaking hands again with his left.

Champlin flushed and was a little jumpy for a moment, but we'll have to give him credit for devotion to duty. He handed out the rest of the envelopes without a hitch.

No replies so far to what some of our friends crudely referred to as our "advertisement" for a good-looking, blue-eyed blonde, but we took heart upon reading an item in Monday's classified ad section.

"FOR SALE," read the headline, "JUNE BRIDES." And it went on to say: "...with economy and nesting instincts in mind... don't miss this buy of a lifetime... plus a 4-room home newly renovated, in a top notch neighborhood... $65 mo. rent... please call any time for further information..." Well, now.

Contractors Tour IV Project Site

By KATHERINE SCOTT
Mail Tribune Correspondent
Illinois Valley—The state game commission yesterday conducted a tour of the Illinois river falls fish ladder project site for contractors who may be prospective bidders.

If bids within the engineers' cost estimates are received, construction of the riffle-type ladders may begin this summer. Cost of the ladders has been estimated as high as $100,000.

Construction of the ladders is expected to eliminate the barrier to migrating salmon and steelhead. At present, fish reach the upper Illinois river only in periods of high water.

The project has been under consideration for several years and has support of the Illinois Valley Chamber of Commerce and various sportsman's clubs.

Construction would have to be done during the low water period of the summer months.

Rough and Ready Gets Timber Sale

Illinois Valley—Logs will be hauled over the ridge of the Siskiyou on the Happy Camp road this summer to the Rough and Ready mill here.

This will be the first time a timber sale of considerable size in Klamath national forest has gone to an Illinois Valley firm.

Rough and Ready was high bidder recently on the upper Clouston tract and will harvest about 4 million feet of Douglas fir. Location is about 14 miles south of the crest of the mountains and about one mile of road construction work is necessary.

Rough and Ready also bought the Hamlin mine sale in the Siskiyou forest, which includes about 380,000 board feet of Douglas fir and Port Orford cedar. The tract is located in the Galice district near the Onion mountain lookout.
