

Incumbents Score Heavily in Election to Oregon House and Senate

Portland—UPI—Incumbent state senators and representatives—and former ones—scored heavily in Friday's Oregon primary election for renomination to the state legislature, assuming that the 1961 session will have many experienced hands. Most incumbents had little or no opposition.

Two for sure who won't be back for next session, however, are Democratic Reps. Vernon Cook, Troutdale, and Harold B. (Hal) Christopher, Portland. Cook tried for the state Senate and lost and Christopher was beaten for the lower house in Multnomah county's south city subdistrict.

Half of the Senate's 30 members, in the middle of four-year terms, are not up for election this year. The 60 House members must stand election every two years.

To Try for Senate
Democrats controlled both houses last year. 19-11 in the Senate and 33-27 in the House.

Several 1959 House members won the right to try for the Senate in November. They are Roseburg Al Flegel, who was defeated for national committeeman, and GOP Reps. J. Pat Metke, Bend; Fayette I. Bristol, Grants Pass, and Portlanders Fred Meek and John D. Goss.

Former Democratic Sens. Lew Wallace and Thomas R. Mahoney won Senate bids as did former Republican Rep. Robert A. Bennett, all of Portland.

Ex-House members who were nominated for another try at their old jobs included Democrats Richard Eymann of Mohawk, Emil Stunz, Nyssa, and Albany Republican Jess W. Savage.

Eymann is secretary of the Legislative Interim Committee on Taxation.

Two other secretaries of interim committees, Democrats Herbert Miller of Salem and James Weaver, Eugene, were nominated for the House. Weaver is with the Agriculture Committee and Miller is on the criminal law committee.

Second Trial of Doctor, Paramour Slated To Start

Los Angeles—UPI—Wealthy Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his paramour Carole Tregoff were scheduled to return to court today for the start of their second trial on charges of murdering Finch's wife for love and money, but defense objections could cause a delay.

The first trial of red-haired Miss Tregoff, 23-year-old former model and receptionist, and Finch, 42, lasted three months and ended March 12 in a mistrial. The second trial was expected to last just as long or longer.

Conviction Favored
The first jury favored conviction for the handsome, tennis-playing physician and acquittal for Carole in the July 18 gunshot slaying of Mrs. Barbara Jean Finch, 33, but the five men and seven women jurors failed to reach unanimous agreement.

Attorneys for Miss Tregoff expected a ruling before the trial's start on their appeal to the California Supreme Court to disqualify presiding Judge Le Roy Dawson. A ruling favoring the defense would delay the trial for an indefinite period until another judge was selected.

To Seek Venue Change
Should the state's high court rule against Miss Tregoff's attorneys and allow the trial to get under way, Finch's attorney, Grant Cooper, indicated he would argue before Dawson that the retrial should be held in another area. He claimed in an unsuccessful change of venue argument before the first trial that Finch was unable to get a fair hearing in Los Angeles or surrounding counties because of widespread prejudice.

Courtroom observers predicted the same intense excitement and interest would surround the second trial as the first—when long lines of the curious waited each day to witness the courtroom drama.

Mitchell Not Candidate for Vice Presidency

Portland—UPI—Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said Sunday he was not a candidate for the Republican vice presidential nomination but added "no man should refuse the nomination if it is offered to him."

Mitchell, a week end visitor here, also told a news conference that he believed 1959 was a good year for the country economically with fewer days lost by strikes, even counting the steel strike.

Asked about the Portland newspaper strike, Mitchell said he had never been directly approached by anyone to enter the strike.

He also was asked if he had noticed any national interest in the strike during his trip across the country. He said he had seen little about it in Washington, D.C., newspapers.

Mitchell said he thought it was too early to say what modifications may be needed in the Landrum-Griffin labor law. In a year, he said, any need for changes should be better understood. He added that finance and reporting aspects of the act may be subject to some change.

He also said Congress may increase the minimum wage to $1.10 or $1.15 an hour, but probably would not extend coverage of the minimum wage at this time.
