Lindrick, Eng. - (UPI) - The United States regained the Curtis Cup Saturday when a colorful group of American girl golfers playing on foreign soil for the first time overwhelmed Great Britain in four of six singles matches for a 6 1/2 to 2 1/2 victory in the nine-match series.

One American gained a half point by finishing dead even with her British foe after 36 holes and only one was beaten as the U.S. gained possession of the International trophy for the first time since 1958.

Judy Eller, 19-year-old "baby" of the American team from Old Hickory, Tenn., applied the clincher in the fourth match of the day with a 4 and 3 triumph over Ireland's veteran Philomena Garvey.

Judy Bell of Wichita, Kan., and Joanne Gunderson of Kirkland, Wash., won the first two singles matches and Barbara McIntire, 1955 U.S. champion from Lake Park, Fla., rallied to tie the third. That, coupled with yesterday's 2-1 lead fashioned in foursomes play, set the stage for Miss Eller's clincher.

Six up after 27 holes, Miss Eller briefly lost her concentration and dropped three holes in a row starting at the 30th but she closed out the match on the 33rd with a curling six-footer.

Anne Quast, 1958 U.S. champion from Marysville, Wash., won the fifth singles match and the only American loser was Joanne Goodwin of Haverhill, Mass., who was beaten by Ruth Porter, an English sub, 1 up.
