Postal Workers Lobbying Hard for Salary Increases

Washington - (CQ) - Back in 1925 the Postmaster General of the U.S., a gentleman named John McLean, bluntly stated that he had no intention of paying postal employees a decent living wage. This little-known fact was brought to light recently in a pamphlet published by the 125,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers entitled "Crusade for Economic Equality."

According to the letter carriers, and about 400,000 postal workers, the current Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, and his colleagues in the Eisenhower administration share the tight-fisted philosophy of McLean. Since the Eisenhower administration took office in 1953, the postal lobby, which has the reputation of usually getting what it wants, has been able to get only two pay raises for postal workers, a paltry figure for them compared to the five increases they got during the eight years of the Truman administration.

In addition, the postal lobby is still smarting from the sting of the presidential veto. Three times - in 1954, 1955 and 1957 - President Eisenhower has refused to approve Congress-passed pay raise bills on the grounds that they were excessive and irresponsible.

Asks 9 Per Cent Increase

As the 1960 session of Congress advances into its final stages, the postal workers are lobbying hard for a bill that would raise the salaries of about 1.6 million federal employees by 9 per cent, at a cost of $850 million a year. Once again, however, they have encountered stiff oppo-

Most Film People Declared Decent

Hollywood - (UP) - The National commander of the American Legion says most motion picture personalities are decent, law-abiding citizens.

It's only a small percentage of filmland residents that are guilty of publicized indiscretions, according to Martin B. McKneally.

"Because of the glamour attached to Hollywood, any departure from conventional behavior takes on an inflated importance," McKneally said Monday. "The small number who behave badly are censured as much by their Hollywood fellow workers as by any other group."

McKneally said at a press conference he based his conclusions on consultations with Los Angeles area religious leaders.
