Nixon Virtually Assured of GOP Nomination

Washington - (UPI) - Vice President Richard M. Nixon apparently has clinched the Republican presidential nomination unless a lot of delegates to the GOP convention change their minds.

Nixon gained 26 Florida and 28 Tennessee votes Tuesday which gave him a total of 722 delegate votes definitely committed on expressing a preference for him.

He needs only 666 votes at the convention to win the nomination.

Goldwater Runner-up
Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) is runner-up to Nixon with 29 pledged votes. Many delegates have yet to be chosen but most are expected to go to Nixon barring some dramatic political upset.

Goldwater, not regarded as a serious presidential contender, frequently has been mentioned as a possible running-mate for Nixon. However, many other figures in speculation for second place on the GOP ticket.

Logical Nominee
Nixon long has been regarded in Republican circles as the logical presidential nominee in view of his widespread activities on behalf of the administration during his 7 1/2 years as vice president.

President Eisenhower has entrusted him with missions abroad and has given him domestic assignments never before tendered a vice president. Unlike many of his predecessors, he never was absent for long from public attention.

Segregationist Wins in Florida

Miami - (UPI) - Florida today acclaimed Farris Bryant as its governor-to-be and furnished solid endorsement of his deep-South approach to any racial problems that may arise in the next four years.

Bryant rolled to victory over state Sen. Doyle Carlton Jr. in Tuesday's decisive second Democratic primary with a margin of better than 85,000 votes. Bryant carried 55 of the state's 67 counties.

Unofficial United Press International returns from 1,940 of the state's 1,971 precincts gave Bryant 492,171 votes and Carlton 406,909.

Although pledging to keep Florida's schools open, the 45-year-old Bryant took a firm stand throughout the campaign to maintain segregation and the state's rights under the federal constitution.

OSC President Helps To Eject Demonstrator

Four students put on a banner - carrying demonstration against compulsory military training during an armed forces review featuring the ROTC units of the college.

About 150 persons, including the governor and the heads of the ROTC department were in the reviewing stand.

One youth was taken firmly by the arm by Dr. Strand when he refused to heed the president's order to leave.

When he showed resistance, three ROTC cadet officers guided him behind the stand.

Carried Sign
Gov. Hatfield gave no indication he noticed the incident. The youth carried a sign that read: "Military indoctrination is not education for Democracy."

Baker Not To Get AFL-CIO Convention

Baker - (UPI) - The state AFL-CIO convention will not be held here as planned, AFL-CIO State President J. D. McDonald said Tuesday. Instead, he said, it probably will be held in Pendleton.

Reason for the change, he said, was that Baker was short at least 100 housing units. The convention is expected to draw about 1,200 persons.

Huson Promoted in Grants Pass Bank

Grants Pass - Roy L. Huson, formerly of Medford, has been promoted assistant manager of the U.S. National Bank's Grants Pass branch. He was loan counter assistant here.

Huson joined the bank system in Medford in 1945, and became loan counter assistant in Medford in 1952. He was transferred to Grants Pass in 1956.

He attended Medford schools and Southern Oregon college. He has completed courses with the American Institute of Banking and holds membership in that organization.

Satellite To Make U2 Planes Look Amateurish

Washington - (UPI) - The world could well and truly measure today from events at the United Nations and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., how far its diplomats lagged behind its scientists.

A Midas satellite launched from Cape Canaveral was circling the globe every 94.34 minutes, beeping out its taunt that U.N. debate on spy planes may be academic.

"Open skies" are at hand, the satellite seemed to be saying, whether U.N. diplomats ever get around to agreeing on them or not.

Midas, meaning missile detection alarm system, was lofted into a near-perfect circular orbit just before the U.N. resumed debate Tuesday on Russia's doomed motion to condemn America for U2 flights.

Midas, Debate Drones On
The Security Council debate droned on, and so did the two and one half ton satellite - first of a string of military spacecraft that will make the U2 look like a dime store detection kit.

In the council four small nations urged a resolution calling on East and West not to stop negotiating in the wake of the summit collapse.

American Confidence Climbs
Midas had circled the globe three times, increasing American confidence with each circuit, when the Security Council finally took notice of it.

It was Italian Ambassador Egidio Ortano who said there should be an end to U2 talk and action on "constructive proposals such as the open skies plan."

The Midas which Ortano dramatically called to U.N. attention is labeled, not quite correctly, a spy in the sky. The real spy in the sky will be its companion, the Samos photo reconnaissance satellite, slated for test launching next fall.

The two are designed for a constant surveillance job - the Samos handling long-range intelligence and spying out menacing military movements, the Midas detecting missiles the instant they leave their launching pads and flashing a 30-minute warning of attack.

Atomic Energy Money Vote Due

Washington - (UPI) - The House was expected to vote today on final passage of a $3,914,798,985 money bill to finance atomic energy, water resources and public power projects.

The measure was tentatively approved Tuesday after attempts to boost and cut the spending total failed.

Rep. John Taber (R-N.Y.) called the appropriation wastefully high but his view was not held by the majority. The bill includes $58 million to push work on an atomic powered airplane, which Rep. Joe L. Nevens (D-Tenn.) said could have been launched several years ago if government officials had not dragged their feet.

Court Congestion Said Worse in Asia

Portland - (UPI) - Glenn R. Winters, Chicago, executive director of the American Judicature Society, says court congestion is not confined to the United States, in fact, he says, it is worse in Asia.

Winters told the Northwest regional meeting of the American Bar Association Tuesday that in most countries population increases more or less automatically. But the number of judges and courtroom facilities are increased only as governments and legislatures take heed of the need.

He recently returned from a 10-week study of courts in 11 Asian countries.

Russian Complaints in UN Declared Trivial in Light of Midas Satellite

United Nations, N.Y. - (UPI) - A majority of the Security Council was reported agreed today that Soviet complaints about U.S. spy planes were trivial in the light of the new American Midas II satellite.

U.N. sources predicted a 7-2 vote against Russia in its demand that the United States be condemned for the "aggressive acts" of its air reconnaissance teams, with Ceylon and Tunisia abstaining.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge pushed for a verdict by late this evening so the 11 nation council could take up President Eisenhower's new plan for an "open skies" inspection system under U.N. control.

The Midas "spy-in-the-sky" satellite, hurled into orbit from Cape Canaveral Tuesday, was known to have a key role in the plan, which would subject strategic areas of the world to constant surveillance, thus guaranteeing all nations against surprise attack.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was expected to make one more speech in the council before allowing a vote, in which case it was likely Lodge would present a rebuttal.

However, Italian Ambassador Egidio Ortano appeared to sum up majority opinion in the council Tuesday night when he said the U2 issue "would appear to have lost most of its significance in view of the performances of the satellites."

"Instead of dwelling on the U2 type of flight, we should address ourselves to constructive proposals such as the 'open skies' plan," Ortano declared.

That the Soviet stand in the debate was destructive rather than constructive was the opinion voiced Tuesday by Great Britain, France, Argentina and Nationalist China, as well as Italy.

Only Communist Poland took the Russian side in the argument that American aerial reconnaissance flights over Russia were a "threat to universal peace."

Ike's Bid to Delay Tax Cuts Approved

Washington - (UPI) - The House ways and means committee approved without change today legislation granting President Eisenhower's request to postpone for one year $4 billion in tax cuts scheduled for July 1.

Supporting the administration's plea against "piecemeal" tax cuts, the committee shouted down efforts to cut telephone and travel taxes.

Then, by voice vote, it approved a bill to continue temporary taxes at present rates for another year and fix the national debt ceiling temporarily at $293 billion, as the administration requested.

The temporary ceiling of $295 billion was scheduled to drop to $285 billion July 1.

The legislation the committee approved would prevent scheduled reductions in taxes on corporation earnings and in excise levies on liquor, beer, wine, cigarettes, new automobiles and auto parts.

It also would forestall for another year repeal of the 10 per cent on telephone calls and a reduction to 5 per cent of the existing 10 per cent tax on train, airline and bus tickets.

Amendments Barred
The legislation would maintain corporation income taxes at 52 per cent instead of permitting them to drop to 47 per cent. And it would block scheduled tax reductions of $1 a barrel for beer, $1.50 a gallon on distilled spirits, and one-cent a pack on cigarettes.

The veto-proof measure will be brought to the House floor under a procedure barring amendments. However, it will face a determined effort in the Senate to write in amendments to repeal the telephone tax.
