

Plywood Prices
At Post-War Low

Portland (UPI)—Plywood prices Tuesday were reported at a new post-war low of $60 a quarter-inch AD grade, after several weeks at $64.

One of the biggest independent plywood producers, Roseburg Lumber Company, confirmed the $60 price, Kenneth Ford, president of the firm, said "they have been merchandising plywood at that price for the last couple of weeks."

Other major producers had

"no comment" when asked about pricing plans.

Industry sources said the $64 price had resulted in layoffs and more may be forthcoming. North West Door of Tacoma has said it would shut down for a week beginning June 13; Washington Plywood at Everett, Wash., said it would operate only one shift for awhile; Simpson Lumber Co. which operates a plant at Olympia said it has gone to 50 per cent production, and the Diamond Lumber Company at Tillamook, Ore., said it plans production curtailment which might affect 75 to 100 men.
