Russian Radar Said To Pick Up U.S. Spy Flights

Washington (Science Service) - Russian radar must be able to pick up American flights over the USSR, Army officials here believe.

One said, "They could not be that far behind. We can pick up a dime miles away in space."

Army Signal Corps officials add that radar has only two limits: the power of the radar facility and the radar waves' inability to bend. In this second limitation, radar waves are like television signals. They cannot follow the curvature of the earth as do AM radio signals.

The officials said that American radar could quickly disclose a Russian plane over U. S. territory. And a "friend or foe" radio system linked with radar would tell whether the plane were an enemy or not.

Similar System
The Russians probably have a similar system.

Possibly, Russian radarsmen might fail to properly interpret the radar signals, officials here said, adding that "this is unlikely."

Thus, if the U.S. has been regularly sending survey planes over the USSR, failure to destroy the planes probably would not be the fault of radar.

Russia's failure to destroy American planes most logically would be caused by a decision to leave the survey planes alone, the officials indicated, or by a lack of weapons to do the job.

Property Tax Levy for City Could Decrease in 1960-61

Should the city's assessed valuation increase by $1 million, the total property tax levy would decrease from this year's 28.6 mills to a levy of 27.9 mills for the 1960-61 fiscal year.

Other general fund revenue comes from licenses, permits, fines, forfeitures, penalties, utilities and others, most of which will show a slight increase next year.

But these increases coupled with the $21,000 increase in city property tax revenue, are not nearly enough to cover the higher cost of city services and the proposed pay raise for next year. Total cost of the one-step pay hike alone is estimated at $43,000. This will give each of the 165 city employees a pay increase of $10-$25 a month.

Because of this the city has had to come up with several new sources of revenue in order to keep the quality of its services from declining.

A good example of new sources can be found in Judge Alan B. Holmes' municipal court.

The court has been in dire need of a full-time clerk for some time as it has outgrown the use of a part-time police department secretary.

Some $16,000 a year was being budgeted from the general fund for use by the sewage treatment division. Instead of budgeting money from the fund for sewage treatment this year, the city heads decided to increase the individual sewerage charge (which customers pay with their water bill) and release this money for other general fund expenditures.

The building department was also able to cash in on the idea of developing new sources of income by charging a small fee for "plan-checking" - formerly a free service.

Other than the court clerk, new expenditures for the city next year include a policeman in the police department, a part-time secretary in the finance department and increased insurance coverage for the city.

Several cuts were made, which include the elimination of one plumbing inspector in the building department and a reduction of secretarial man-hours in the city manager's department.

In February when Duff asked the department heads to submit their requested budgets to him, he cautioned them that there would be no money for "extra" next year. Nearly all of the 21 department and division heads did submit what Duff calls "realistic" budgets and few cuts had to be made in those.

Each of these heads could have found many uses for additional money and probably justifiably so. For instance, the city would like, and needs, to employ a full-time city attorney instead of a part-time one as it is now doing. But, it was a foregone conclusion that there would be no money for this, and the legal department did not even bother to request it.

However, one or two of the department heads did go a little overboard in their requests, one of them even asking for a relatively large sum for capital improvements, which are "taboo" in next year's budget.

But this department head, after a meeting or two with Duff and Administrative Assistant Gil Gutzjahr, found his budget reduced from a requested $223,247 to a more realistic $45,029, a cut of some $178,218.

Most of the departments had only a few thousand dollars knocked off their requests and the total reduction from all department requests was some $190,000.

None of the city's departments will be able to noticeably expand their services to the city's citizens next year over this year, but because cost and demand of city services are increasing at a faster rate than city revenue, the city administration has done well just to hold the line.

Participating in the memorial were Master Lloyd Lacy, Chaplain Mrs. Cyr, Flora Mrs. Sol Cox, Secretary Mrs. Lloyd Whiteside and Mrs. Amos McDaniels, acting musician.

The service was in memory of Mrs. Hazel Fish and John Perl, who died during the past year.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hockersmith were elected as alternate delegates and will attend the Oregon State Grange to be held in Roseburg, June 13 to 17.

The serving committee was made up of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Baker.

Staph Believed Taken Home by New-Born Babies

Boston, Mass. (Science Service) - Infants in a hospital nursery during an outbreak of staphylococcal disease may not immediately fall sick but have a strong chance of becoming ill after they have been taken home. These infant carriers may also infect their parents and brothers and sisters.

These are the conclusions of Drs. Valerie Hurst and Moses Grossman, faculty members at the University of California Medical Center, San Francisco, who report their work in the New England Journal of Medicine published here.

The study was made 16 months after impetigo, caused by a type of staph that resisted antibiotics, broke out in the Center's nursery. Drs. Hurst and Grossman studied 94 families with infants that had been exposed to the impetigo outbreak. They found that 65 per cent of the families had members who had become carriers of staph or had experienced the disease itself.

Only about half of the babies found to be carriers at the time of the home visit were known to have had the disease while in the nursery. Forty-four percent of them had developed staph weeks or even months after discharge from the hospital. Of their 164 brothers and sisters, 12 per cent contracted some form of the disease. (Nineteen had boils). Ten of the fathers had contracted carbuncles, abscesses or recurrent boils that appeared to be caused by the nursery infection. Twenty of the mothers had similar experiences.

Vacationer Finds House Ransacked
Portland - UPI - Attorney Dan Hartley returned home from a Memorial week end trip to find his house ransacked by vandals with heavy damage to furnishings.

Hartley told police intruders smashed a television set, ripped upholstered furniture with a knife, plugged the drains in the bathtub and wash basin and opened the water taps, and poured acid over clothing in two closets and on the floors.
