X-Ray Finds Clots In Blood Vessels

Los Angeles – (Science Service) – Two physicians have located clots in the blood vessels of animals' lungs by X-ray and removed them by surgery. This may point to similar techniques for humans.

Dr. William S. Stoney of Vanderbilt University School of Medicine in Nashville, Tenn., described the procedure at the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association and the American Trudeau Society.

Pulmonary embolism – a clot that floats – has been the cause of innumerable deaths because it shuts off the flow of blood in a vessel too small to allow its passage. Although only animals have been used so far, the technique of pinpointing clots may be applicable to human beings.

A chemical is injected into the external jugular vein, after which X-ray shows the embolus, or clot, in the circulatory system. Surgical removal before the blood flow is cut off has been successful in 50 per cent of the operations on animals, Dr. Stoney said.

Co-author of the paper was Dr. Jesse E. Adams, also of Vanderbilt University.

Detroit –(UPI)– Funeral services were to be held here today for Mrs. Willie E. Yerby, 64, mother of novelist Frank Yerby. Mrs. Yerby died Monday.

Big Bank Robbery

Middleton, Ohio – A robber snatched his loot at the First National Bank and made a clean getaway. Police went to investigate a report that $8 worth of crochet thread had been stolen from the ladies' lounge.
