H. P. Jewett School

An assembly was held at the Jewett school last Wednesday. Mrs. Grace Cline's first grade students dramatized a story of "A Spring Picture" for the assembly. There were big flowers, ducks and squirrels, and a real looking tortoise among the characters of the picture.

Boys and girls in Mrs. Katherine LeRoy's room performed a rhythm band activity.

Mrs. Viola Schwab's room contributed some musical exercises.

Reading library books in Mrs. Rhoda Hopkins' first grade class will consume much of the reading activities for the rest of the term. A trip to the Central Point library has also been planned for the boys and girls since they have become interested in library reading.

Farm animals and their habits have been studied by the first grade in Mrs. Zelma Spoke's room and Mrs. Oakley Moore's room. The boys and girls are anticipating a visit to a farm next week.

Mrs. Frances Tomlin's students have been studying about spiders in preparation for a film on spiders. Live spiders have been brought to the room as well as a sheet and microscope to observe the microscopic world of spiders. Many different spiders have been found in books in this library.

All the first grade classes have been working hard to complete the work for the year to be ready for the second grade next year.

A field trip to the Medford Library and to Josephson's dairy was taken by Mrs. Betty von der Hellen and Mrs. Alice Gray's classes.

The children in Mrs. Olivia Ryerson's room are making paper sock hand puppets. Breakfast was served Wednesday morning as a combination activity of the health unit in Mrs. Alice Gray's room. The breakfast was planned and served by teachers and pupils together. The children brought baskets so the toast and eggs could be prepared in the room. The children learned by first hand experience, the foods that make up a well balanced and nutritious breakfast.

Kliever said the gift would be erected next fall. Receiving the presentation was Mike Phillips, associated student body president-elect and junior class president.

Joseph Walker, NASA pilot, again was at the controls of the flight officials had hoped would break the acknowledged world record of 2,084 miles an hour set Sept. 27, 1956, by Air Force Capt. Milburn Apt, who was killed when his plane disintegrated after setting the mark.
