Feud Buried to Greet Britain's Prince Philip

Republicans Meet at Exhibition Opening

New York—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller met without shaking hands in public today but buried their sudden political feud long enough to welcome Britain's Prince Philip to an America of "great unity."

Opening a British exhibition here, Nixon said he hoped "we won't have to visit a kitchen"—harking back to his famous debate with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last summer in a model kitchen at the similar U.S. exhibition in Moscow.

In a blistering statement Thursday night, Rockefeller rejected the vice president's invitation to discuss their differences on TV. Rockefeller's declaration, the second in 48 hours, all but confirmed he will challenge Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination.

Have Chance Encounter
The two had a chance encounter just before the formal ceremony at the New York Coliseum. It was their first meeting since the storm broke.

Passing in an anteroom, Nixon walked over and said, "It's good to see you again, Nelson."

Rockefeller replied, "It's good to see you."

The encounter lasted only seconds—the length of a formal handshake. Rockefeller went on to the rostrum. He was applauding when Nixon and Philip entered. Nixon approached close to the governor and paused. Rockefeller went on clapping. Nixon tapped him on the shoulder—the only sign of public greeting.

Apparently no public snub was intended. Prince Philip was the honored guest and Rockefeller was busy applauding his entrance with the vice president.

There was no politicking in the two GOP leaders' speeches. Nixon, in fact, declared that "as Americans there is great unity among all of us regardless of party considerations."

Chat During Tour
When the speechmaking ended Nixon and Prince Philip went off to tour the vast trade fair. The governor joined the rear of the touring party some distance from Nixon.

Nixon, Rockefeller and Philip chatted amiably on the tour although the two Americans seemed to direct most of their remarks to Philip rather than to each other.

After two hours they departed for a formal luncheon.

Glider Pilot's Flight Behind Iron Curtain Won't Help Score in Contest

Cologne, Germany—(UPI)—American glider pilot Richard Schreder learned today that his 20 miles of flight behind the Iron Curtain will not help his score in the world gliding championships here.

Schreder, of Toledo, Ohio, sailed over the border into Communist East Germany Wednesday on a competitive distance flight from Cologne. Soviet authorities released pilot and glider Thursday, "as though all this never happened." He planned to go up again in today's competition flights.

The U.S. embassy and the U.S. Army decided not to interfere in the incident, counting instead on contacts be-

Khrushchev Said Under Fire From Conflicting Groups

By K. C. THALER
United Press International

London—(UPI)—An intense policy battle is going on inside the Kremlin and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is under fire from conflicting groups in the highest councils of the Soviet Union, informed sources reported today.

The reports said his supreme leadership does not appear to be threatened immediately but he is fighting a rear-guard action in an apparent attempt to justify his policies before and after the recent summit conference.

The reports came from neutral diplomats who are in a position to know what is going on inside the high walls of the Kremlin. They refused to permit identification.

The sources said some Kremlin policy-makers have been and still are critical of Khrushchev's foreign policy and his recent furious verbal attacks on President Eisenhower.

Inside Pressure
On the other hand, the diplomats said, is a group opposed to too close relations with the West. Pressure from this group was said to have been partly responsible for the stunning policy switch which torpedoed the summit in Paris last month.

The informants told United Press International the conflict does not bear the familiar markings of past power struggles within the Soviet leadership because there is no single personality who could be considered a serious threat to Khrushchev's top leadership.

The diplomats said the group that pressured Khrushchev into his new tough attitude includes the hard core Stalinists, supporters of Red China's tough anti-West policy, some sections of the army and those who are suspicious of the West.

Khrushchev himself was reported to be in a truculent mood and more concerned now with justifying his past policies before the Soviet leaders than with the possible immediate effects of his actions on the international scene.

Khrushchev apparently is smarting under the open or implicit charge from party associates that he misjudged U.S. policy and allowed himself to be "taken in" by President Eisenhower.

In his recent personal attacks on the President, Khrushchev has gone out of his way to say that he really was not impressed by Eisenhower all along.

Outwardly, every effort is being made to conceal the existence of differences in the Kremlin leadership. Khrushchev himself has denied there is any internal struggle.

Machinists' Strike Threatens 2 Other Unions

San Diego—(UPI)—The machinists union strike against Convair today threatened to spread to two more large aircraft-missile making firms, Douglas and Lockheed.

An attempt to head off Lockheed's involvement in the growing labor unrest with International Association of Machinists members caused both sides to schedule renewed negotiations today in San Francisco.

Lockheed was reported ready to make a new offer after talks between the groups broke down Wednesday. The union had threatened to give Lockheed's Space and Missile Division plants formal five-day notice today of contract termination.

Such notification would allow the IAM's estimated 10,000 members, employed mainly at Lockheed's plants at Sunnyvale and Van Nuys, Calif., to go on strike any time after Tuesday. Membership meetings of Lockheed workers were scheduled for the week end to take a strike vote.

The 4,000 IAM members employed at Douglas' Santa Monica, Calif., plant Thursday authorized a strike by a 96 per cent majority. The union negotiating committee did not set a strike date.

Machinists remained off the job at Convair Atlas installations at four key Atlas missile bases across the country. The union also was striking against Convair plants here and in Pomona, Calif., where the Atlas missiles are made.

The Atlas, an intercontinental ballistic missile, is the nation's only long-range operational missile.

Lockheed makes the underwater Polaris missile and missiles for the SAMOS, MIDAS and Discoverer projects. Douglas makes the Thor, an intermediate range ballistic missile.

Dad Gives Kidney To Ailing Son

Boston—(UPI)—A father who sacrificed many of his possessions and a precious kidney to save his son from certain death began the longest wait of his life today.

Physicians at Peter Bent Brigham hospital said it may be weeks or even months before they will be able to determine if the operation, believed to be the first father-son transplant, was a success.

In the balance hangs the life of 15-year-old Robert Reck of Dayton, Ohio, who suffers from nephritis, a deadly kidney disease. His only hope is that the kidney donated by his father, Police Sergeant Virgil Reck, 43, will function successfully.

Hospital officials said the boy remained in critical condition today while his father was listed as satisfactory.

Ben-Gurion Makes Appeal to Frondizi

Jerusalem, Israel—(UPI)—Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion has appealed directly to Argentine President Arturo Frondizi in an effort to avert a diplomatic split over the Adolf Eichmann case, informed sources said today.

The sources said Ben-Gurion sent Frondizi a cable asking for understanding of Israel's position on the man blamed for the murder of six million Jews during the Hitler regime.

Argentina rejected an earlier Israeli explanation that Israeli "volunteers" contacted Eichmann who was living under an assumed name in Buenos Aires, and that the former Nazi S.S. colonel voluntarily accompanied them to Israel.

It demanded his return by the end of this week. It said it would take the case to the United Nations if Israel failed to comply.

Four Vehicles Are Involved in Mishap

Ashland—A four-vehicle accident involving a logging truck occurred at 6:30 last night here, according to Ashland police.

Automobiles involved were operated by Carolyn Eloise Dickerson, 415 Lit way, Ashland; Sonja Ann Arlington, 1911 Oak st., Eugene; and an unidentified vehicle.

Also involved was a logging truck operated by Danford Andrew Laurance, Dillard, police said.

Officers said the unidentified car was stopping to park on North Main st. when the truck approached the vehicle from behind. Unable to stop in time, the truck swerved from the right hand lane into the inside lane, police said. While doing so the truck side-swiped the Dickerson car and crashed into the front of the Arlington auto.

The log truck then went off the road onto Maple st., broke a power pole, and hit a stop sign, police said.

Although some property damage was done, there were no injuries reported, according to police.

Power was reported out from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the immediate area.

Cop Finds Sack Containing Snake

Jacksonville, Fla.—(UPI)—Police D. C. Coleman, examining a car involved in an accident Thursday, found a white sack in the car trunk. He picked it up, patted it, and threw it back.

Later Coleman went to the hospital to talk with the driver, James W. Furlow, 22, of Atlanta, who was injured in the wreck.

"What did you do with my rattlesnake?" Furlow asked. "Turned out there was a two-foot rattler in the bag."
