

Restraining Orders Tie Up Fight Purse

By JACK CUDDY

One restraining order against the entire gate receipts, results from a suit by Nunzio Camollo of Boston, who seeks 20 per cent of the net gate receipts as an alleged 20 per cent partner in the man's promoting organization.

Missed Tuneup Fight

The other order was issued at the behest of the Charles Center Boxing club of Baltimore and asks only $9,000 for Robinson's failure to go through with a scheduled tune-up fight at Baltimore May 16.

Increased support for 29-year-old Pender dropped the betting price, favoring Robinson, from 2-1 to 8-5. Robinson's loud yells for a square deal from the ring officials tonight apparently frightened some of his backers.

SOTA Drag Racing Rivalry on Sunday

Drag racing activity resumes this Sunday in southern Oregon on the White City strip sponsored by Southern Oregon Timing association. All activity will be held on Sunday, June 12.

Time trials are scheduled to commence at 9 a.m. with eliminations set for after lunch.

Ladies Summer Program at Y Opens Monday

On June 13, a new program will start for the women YMCA members here.

On Mondays and Thursdays at 1 p.m. ladies will meet in the exercise room for a work out on the machines and tables. Then will follow a swim in the pool. All the swimming strokes will be taught along with some special exercise. Lanell Wilkes will be the instructor.

There will be child care available during the classes from 1 to 2:30 p.m. on Mondays and Thursdays.

At 2:30 p.m. mother and tot class will start. Both mother and child go in the water and Mrs. Wilkes will instruct the mother on how to teach her own children to swim. Artificial respiration and water safety will be stressed during the course.

Every day, except Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to noon the exercise room will be open to women with a competent person in charge. Mrs. Gig Farfan or Mrs. Alice Garrett will be on hand to advise and help.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays at noon a recreational swim is possible by the ladies. Women who wish to take swimming instruction in the evening are scheduled on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. for beginners and 8:30 p.m. for intermediates. Dutch Farfan is the instructor.

All the above classes will be in session all summer, and women with either full year or summer membership may participate.

Medford's Legion Gang Will Play

We'll put nine men out there, anyhow.

That was Coach Cliff McLean's comment when asked about the lineup for the Medford American Legion baseball nine's season opener.

Medford's Coca Cola club tangles with Roseburg on Saturday at Memorial stadium, White City. The non-league doublebill begins at 2 p.m.

The problem of short-handedness because of vacations, Boys State, summer jobs and other activities is faced at least in the opening portion of the schedule as McLean fields a Medford team.

Herb Wheeler and Bob Quinney may be the pitchers for the Saturday action and Art Ruhl likely will handle the catching. Possible infield starters include Tim White, first base; Jim Calhoun, second base; Dan Milnes, shortstop and Craig Laurance, third base.

Bob Quinney will be in left field when not pitching and Dick Ragsdale may play center field if he is available. Mike Neathamer and Miller are other possible outfielders, McLean reported.

The Medford Legion crew is starting later than most others in this area because of the length of the local high school diamond season.

Post 15 nine is to make its league debut on Tuesday, June 14, against Grants Pass at Cheney field. Medford will tussle Central Point Cheney Studs on the following Friday evening.

Salem Rival Of Maids

Rogue Valley Dairy Maids will aim to bust the break-even jinx and sweep a series this week end when they continue play in the Northwest Women's Major Softball League.

The Maids opposed the Salem Shamrocks Saturday and Sunday with both scrapes at Salem.

So far, Rogue Valley has divided each of its series in 1960 loop play and is 4-4 for the campaign. It split last month with Salem in games at White City.

The DM club is away from home for the second straight week end. Its next action in the league in the White City park will be Saturday, June 25, in two games with Port Angeles.

Other games this Saturday are Vancouver, B.C., at Eugene and Port Angeles, Wash., against the Florists at Portland in doublebills and the Portland Martinizers at Bremerton, Wash. The Martinizers vie again on Sunday at Bremerton and Vancouver meets the Florists at Portland.

Most recent statistics in the league showed Janet Pfaff, Rogue Valley, fourth in batting in the league among those who have played most. She has a .454 average. Laura Meele, Vancouver, Bev Wadsworth, Florists, and DeJores Hansen, Salem, each have .500 marks.

Louise Mazzuca, Florists, heads the pitching with a 5-0 status after a no-hit win last Saturday over Salem and a 1-hit victory Wednesday over the Martinizers.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

There was a meeting in Grants Pass last Sunday night. The Oregon game commissioners were there, as well as many of the technical staff, and they met with a group of petitioners together with other interested persons.

The discussion had to do with winter steelhead regulations on the Rogue and what changes would be necessary to reopen the Applegate to Hellsgate portion of the river during the winter season.

CRUX OF THE MATTER

The debate soon brought out the fact that we live on the wrong end of the Rogue river. Migratory fish regulations are designed to have the anglers harvest the salmon and steelhead as they come in from the ocean and then afford the remaining fish all possible protection while they are in the upper river where they spawn. The major difficulty in managing the Rogue river fishery is finding some way of providing fishing here in the upper river without endangering the existence of the resource.

A NEW OUTLOOK

Those who petitioned the commission for this meeting were accepting the need of upstream protection but they felt that the regulations should be such that they restrict all who fish the Rogue for its salmon and steelhead. At present, those who fish the upper river bear the brunt of the restrictions. Without actually realizing it, the petitioners were giving voice to a new concept—the idea that the fishery should be managed for the benefit of all, not just a select group. The concept itself is not new, but it's rare that a group with a selfish axe to grind will give voice to it.

A NEEDED CHANGE

With the increased fishing pressures of today, a catch restriction is the most effective conservation move to save migratory fish. And it is unfair to allow one group to catch more than twice the number of fish allowed another group, as is the case on the Rogue during September and October. If the meeting succeeded in accomplishing anything at all, it did convince the commissioners of the gross inequality existing in permissible bag limits on different sections of the river. A necessary change is one which removes this inequality.

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

Medford's Legion Gang Will Play

There was a meeting in Grants Pass last Sunday night. The Oregon game commissioners were there, as well as many of the technical staff, and they met with a group of petitioners together with other interested persons.

The discussion had to do with winter steelhead regulations on the Rogue and what changes would be necessary to reopen the Applegate to Hellsgate portion of the river during the winter season.

CRUX OF THE MATTER

The debate soon brought out the fact that we live on the wrong end of the Rogue river. Migratory fish regulations are designed to have the anglers harvest the salmon and steelhead as they come in from the ocean and then afford the remaining fish all possible protection while they are in the upper river where they spawn. The major difficulty in managing the Rogue river fishery is finding some way of providing fishing here in the upper river without endangering the existence of the resource.

A NEW OUTLOOK

Those who petitioned the commission for this meeting were accepting the need of upstream protection but they felt that the regulations should be such that they restrict all who fish the Rogue for its salmon and steelhead. At present, those who fish the upper river bear the brunt of the restrictions. Without actually realizing it, the petitioners were giving voice to a new concept—the idea that the fishery should be managed for the benefit of all, not just a select group. The concept itself is not new, but it's rare that a group with a selfish axe to grind will give voice to it.

A NEEDED CHANGE

With the increased fishing pressures of today, a catch restriction is the most effective conservation move to save migratory fish. And it is unfair to allow one group to catch more than twice the number of fish allowed another group, as is the case on the Rogue during September and October. If the meeting succeeded in accomplishing anything at all, it did convince the commissioners of the gross inequality existing in permissible bag limits on different sections of the river. A necessary change is one which removes this inequality.

Arcaro Venetian Way's Rider in Belmont Race

New York — UPI — Bally Ache was withdrawn from Saturday's running of the Belmont Stakes today when he suffered a slight injury in his final workout for the third of the triple crown classics.

New York —UPI— Eddie Arcaro will be aboard Venetian Way, the slightly tarnished hero of the Kentucky Derby, when he shoots for the record seventh triumph in a Belmont Stakes Saturday at Belmont Park.

Arcaro agreed to ride Venetian Way late Thursday afternoon after he first broke a commitment to pilot King Ranch's Disperse Crown classic and then failed to get the mount on Cain Hoy Stable's Tooth and Nail.

Izaak Walton Group To Meet

Sound and color movies of fishing in Alaska and Florida and of speedboat racing will be shown on Monday, June 13, at the regular monthly meeting of Jackson County chapter of the Izaak Walton League at the American Red Cross building.

Robert Mayben, state game commission field agent, will discuss the current status of the deer problem in connection with Howard Prairie delivery canal.

Hank DeVoss will report on last Sunday at Grants Pass on Rogue river winter steelhead fishing regulations.

Members will discuss whether to hold July and August meetings and whether to send a delegation to the national convention.

FLOYD STEPS UP DRILLS

Newtown, Conn.—UPI—Floyd Patterson added an unscheduled three-round sparring session Thursday and jugged six miles in his training program for his June 20 return title fight with heavyweight Ingemar Johansson. Patterson toiled two rounds with Julio Mederos and exchanged jabs with Oliver Wilson in another round.

ROLLS 300

Salem—UPI—Frank Evans of Salem began semi-final action in the West Coast Invitational Match Games bowling championship Thursday night with a perfect 300 game. It was Evans' seventh perfect game but his first in sanctioned competition.

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

Woods, Water, Wildlife

There was a meeting in Grants Pass last Sunday night. The Oregon game commissioners were there, as well as many of the technical staff, and they met with a group of petitioners together with other interested persons.

The discussion had to do with winter steelhead regulations on the Rogue and what changes would be necessary to reopen the Applegate to Hellsgate portion of the river during the winter season.

CRUX OF THE MATTER

The debate soon brought out the fact that we live on the wrong end of the Rogue river. Migratory fish regulations are designed to have the anglers harvest the salmon and steelhead as they come in from the ocean and then afford the remaining fish all possible protection while they are in the upper river where they spawn. The major difficulty in managing the Rogue river fishery is finding some way of providing fishing here in the upper river without endangering the existence of the resource.

A NEW OUTLOOK

Those who petitioned the commission for this meeting were accepting the need of upstream protection but they felt that the regulations should be such that they restrict all who fish the Rogue for its salmon and steelhead. At present, those who fish the upper river bear the brunt of the restrictions. Without actually realizing it, the petitioners were giving voice to a new concept—the idea that the fishery should be managed for the benefit of all, not just a select group. The concept itself is not new, but it's rare that a group with a selfish axe to grind will give voice to it.

A NEEDED CHANGE

With the increased fishing pressures of today, a catch restriction is the most effective conservation move to save migratory fish. And it is unfair to allow one group to catch more than twice the number of fish allowed another group, as is the case on the Rogue during September and October. If the meeting succeeded in accomplishing anything at all, it did convince the commissioners of the gross inequality existing in permissible bag limits on different sections of the river. A necessary change is one which removes this inequality.

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

Woods, Water, Wildlife

There was a meeting in Grants Pass last Sunday night. The Oregon game commissioners were there, as well as many of the technical staff, and they met with a group of petitioners together with other interested persons.

The discussion had to do with winter steelhead regulations on the Rogue and what changes would be necessary to reopen the Applegate to Hellsgate portion of the river during the winter season.

CRUX OF THE MATTER

The debate soon brought out the fact that we live on the wrong end of the Rogue river. Migratory fish regulations are designed to have the anglers harvest the salmon and steelhead as they come in from the ocean and then afford the remaining fish all possible protection while they are in the upper river where they spawn. The major difficulty in managing the Rogue river fishery is finding some way of providing fishing here in the upper river without endangering the existence of the resource.

A NEW OUTLOOK

Those who petitioned the commission for this meeting were accepting the need of upstream protection but they felt that the regulations should be such that they restrict all who fish the Rogue for its salmon and steelhead. At present, those who fish the upper river bear the brunt of the restrictions. Without actually realizing it, the petitioners were giving voice to a new concept—the idea that the fishery should be managed for the benefit of all, not just a select group. The concept itself is not new, but it's rare that a group with a selfish axe to grind will give voice to it.

A NEEDED CHANGE

With the increased fishing pressures of today, a catch restriction is the most effective conservation move to save migratory fish. And it is unfair to allow one group to catch more than twice the number of fish allowed another group, as is the case on the Rogue during September and October. If the meeting succeeded in accomplishing anything at all, it did convince the commissioners of the gross inequality existing in permissible bag limits on different sections of the river. A necessary change is one which removes this inequality.

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

Woods, Water, Wildlife

There was a meeting in Grants Pass last Sunday night. The Oregon game commissioners were there, as well as many of the technical staff, and they met with a group of petitioners together with other interested persons.

The discussion had to do with winter steelhead regulations on the Rogue and what changes would be necessary to reopen the Applegate to Hellsgate portion of the river during the winter season.

CRUX OF THE MATTER

The debate soon brought out the fact that we live on the wrong end of the Rogue river. Migratory fish regulations are designed to have the anglers harvest the salmon and steelhead as they come in from the ocean and then afford the remaining fish all possible protection while they are in the upper river where they spawn. The major difficulty in managing the Rogue river fishery is finding some way of providing fishing here in the upper river without endangering the existence of the resource.

A NEW OUTLOOK

Those who petitioned the commission for this meeting were accepting the need of upstream protection but they felt that the regulations should be such that they restrict all who fish the Rogue for its salmon and steelhead. At present, those who fish the upper river bear the brunt of the restrictions. Without actually realizing it, the petitioners were giving voice to a new concept—the idea that the fishery should be managed for the benefit of all, not just a select group. The concept itself is not new, but it's rare that a group with a selfish axe to grind will give voice to it.

A NEEDED CHANGE

With the increased fishing pressures of today, a catch restriction is the most effective conservation move to save migratory fish. And it is unfair to allow one group to catch more than twice the number of fish allowed another group, as is the case on the Rogue during September and October. If the meeting succeeded in accomplishing anything at all, it did convince the commissioners of the gross inequality existing in permissible bag limits on different sections of the river. A necessary change is one which removes this inequality.

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is the time of the annual shad run up the Rogue. They are in the river as early as March but don't hit a peak until sometime this month. There is very little interest in the lower river because these shad won't take flies in the manner of shad in other Oregon streams. However, it has been observed that the Rogue shad will hit a small spoon, such as the knobby wobbler, and a small safari will be going down to Rainey falls soon to try to keep one on long enough to land him—this time!

Fish Lake—Has been exceptionally good. Loads of limits and anything goes. Trolling with FF&W and still-fishing with cluster eggs or worms seems to produce best. The water is in good shape.

Four Mile—The road is open and free from snow. The kokanee should be biting fair for those who like to fish for them. There are brookies and rainbow available.

Howard Prairie—Fishing is spotty with bank fishing paying off as well as boat fishing. A gob of eggs off the bank or a drifted flatfish from a boat will catch nice fat fish from 12 to 20 inches.

Klamath Lake—Good fishing. Weather and water have been fine. A native pulled in an 11 pounder on FF&W. Freaks and Andy reekers also taking fish. Boats are in by 9 a.m. with limits.

Squaw Lakes—Fair to good. Trolling FF&W or flies can find action. Stillfishing

enjoy

Since Gold Beach is the most favored section of the river, it can be expected that there will be a hue and cry against any change in bag regulations which will deprive the residents, or tourists, of fish. Those people will work hard to keep their privileges, because they use the salmon and steelhead as a means of earning a living, and many tourists come because of the larger bag limits possible. But it's time that the fish hog is discouraged and people are not allowed to use a fishery to the detriment of its existence as a natural resource belonging to everyone.

THE ANGLERS LOG

This is