

Foreign Aid Request Whacked Further by Appropriations Committee

GETS PASSPORT—Oliver Powers, 55, of Norton, Va., father of the captured spy-pilot Francis G. Powers, is questioned by newsmen as he leaves the passport office of the State Department in Washington, D. C., after obtaining a passport. He said he was going to Russia to see his son in about 60 days and, in a voice choking with emotion, asked reporters to stop bothering him. —(UPI Telephoto)

$701,800,000 Trimmed Despite President's Plea

Economic Aid Also Feels Axe

Washington—UPI—The House Appropriations committee, rejecting a last-minute plea from President Eisenhower, today cut an additional $701,800,000 out of his already-trimmed request for new foreign aid funds.

At a closed session, the committee affirmed the cut in the face of a warning from the President that free world defenses would be jeopardized by the action. Eisenhower expressed this view in a week end message to congressmen just before his departure for the troubled Far East.

Funds Earmarked
The curtailed aid funds are earmarked for continued American military and economic support for anti-Communist countries for the year starting July 1.

In an authorization bill passed earlier, Congress pared the President's $4,175,000,000 request by $87,000,000. Today's recommended reduction in the actual money further cut the requested funds to $3,384,500,000.

More than half the cut—an even $400 million—was applied against military aid, for which $2 billion was sought. The request was imposed on requests for economic assistance in various forms.

Group Rebuked
In sending the big money bill to the House, the committee rebuked the International Cooperation Administration, which administers the economic end of the aid program, for an "overly optimistic attitude" on how much it can effectively spend; for disregarding the committee's slow warnings last year; and for spending $2,500,000 on an "investment incentive" project specifically rejected by Congress.

City Police Start Move Into Three New Offices

Medford city police officers were busy this morning moving desks and filing cabinets into three new offices in the police department. The offices—which will give the department some of the "elbow room" it has long been needing—were completed during the week end.

Two of the new offices will house the detective division and the third will serve as a report room.

Room for the new offices was made by partitioning off a portion of the city jail with a reinforced concrete wall. Cost of the project was approximately $2,800 and was started a little over a month ago.

The decision to enlarge the department's office space was made by the city council after a study of the department and its problems was made by Lt. William P. Beall of the Berkeley, Calif., police department, late last year.

One of Beall's chief findings was that the department was over-crowded and should be enlarged.

Beall's recommendation confirmed what Chief of Police Charles P. Champlin and his 37-man force had known for a long time.

The department had no interrogation room; the three-man detective division had been working in one small office at one desk; and the report room was doubling as a roll call room.

Central Point Police Get New Call Setup

Central Point—An improved telephone system for the Central Point police is now in operation, according to Chief Wally Bowen.

Installed by Pacific Telephone-Northwest, the new set-up will be used during night hours when patrolmen are not always readily available to answer phone calls.

An automatic answering and recording machine will inform callers of another number to call on emergency business and ask if they leave their number if it is not an emergency.

All incoming phone calls will be signaled by a flashing light located at the Pine st. intersection so that officers on patrol will know when there is a call waiting them.

Job Number Increases To Set Record for May

Washington—UPI—The number of jobs increased by 1,049,000 last month to reach a record of 67,208,000 for May, the government announced today. Unemployment fell by 201,000 to 3,459,000.

The Labor Department reported across-the-board improvement in the nation's job picture, except for a marked weakness in steel and machinery industries which experienced continued layoffs.

Spy Pilot's Father Gets Passport for Visit to Russia

Washington—UPI—The father of captured spy-pilot Francis G. Powers, obtained a U. S. passport today and said he was going to Russia to see his son in about 60 days.

Oliver Powers, 55, a Norton, Va., cobbler, was asked whether he had assurances that he will see the younger Powers who was shot down while piloting a U2 plane over the Soviet Union last May 1.

"Yes, I do," Powers told reporters. But he said only "that's my business" when asked how he had extended these assurances.

The elder Powers wrote Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev asking his help. The Russian leader offered to aid him to see his son but Khrushchev refused to interfere with the trial of the U2 pilot.

Confers with Officials
Powers left the passport office to confer with State Department officials and the Soviet Affairs Division. He said he would seek a visa from the Soviet Embassy later today.

Then, his voice choking with emotion, the father read a statement asking reporters to stop bothering him.

He said that newsmen already have delayed his trip for at least two months.

Grants Pass Man Drowns in River

Grants Pass—Kenneth Raymond Grover, 45, Grants Pass, drowned Saturday about 2:15 p.m. in the Illinois river.

Authorities said that the accident occurred while Grover and his brother, Len, were floating downstream on some inner tubes in the Illinois river canyon. Len, manager of the Josephine county chamber of commerce, told sheriff's deputies that Kenneth lost the inner tube on which he was floating in the first riffle.

He tried to grab him but was unable to do so, authorities said. Deputies said that the two men had planned to float down to Oak Flat, several miles away, where their families were to meet them.

The body was recovered by sheriff's deputies about 6:45 p.m. in a pool not far from where Grover was last seen. The water was reported to be about 30 feet deep.

The two Grover families were spending the week end at a cabin of a friend on the river, authorities said.

Kenneth Grover was a school district employe in Grants Pass.

State Forestry Has 11 Lookouts Manned

Lookouts are now at all 11 stations of the state department of forestry in Jackson county.

Roscoe Smith, Ashland, took the post at Buck Rock today, the southwest district office of the department reported.

A one-tenth acre grass fire in the vicinity of the Sams Valley Grange hall yesterday morning was extinguished by two forest patrolmen. The district office reported that a trash fire spread, igniting the grass.

Debris Closes Jackson Pool

The city was forced to close the new Jackson park swimming pool all day Sunday in order to clear out mud, rocks and other debris which was thrown into the pool sometime Saturday night.

The pool was opened for public use Friday.

Parks and Recreation Superintendent Robert Haworth said the debris was probably thrown into the pool by children. The dirt clods created the main problem, he said, because they settled to the bottom of the pool and would not circulate through the filters.

Normally the debris would easily be removed by a large swimming pool vacuum cleaner. However, the vacuum cleaner has not yet been delivered, he said.

Haworth said the city borrowed a small pool vacuum cleaner from the contractor, who built the pool to clean it out after Saturday's vandalism. The pool was scheduled to reopen at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

Haworth said 315 persons used the new pool on Friday and 255 persons on Saturday. Opening of the new pool has apparently taken some of the load off Hawthorne pool, he said, although it is a little early to tell yet for sure.

A total of 538 persons used the Hawthorne pool on Friday, 558 on Saturday, and 674 on Sunday. This Sunday figure reflects the increased use of the pool because of Sunday's shut-down at Jackson pool.

The Hawthorne pool has a capacity of 450 bathers at any one time and the Jackson pool 250.

Bloodmobile to Visit In Medford Tuesday

Only 25 appointments have been made for the Tuesday visit of the Bloodmobile in Medford. Red Cross officials announced today.

Needed for the visit are 350 donors for the quota of 290 units of blood, they said. The Bloodmobile, which visits the county quarterly, will be at the Red Cross chapter house, 60 Hawthorne ave., June 14 from 1 to 6 p.m.

Drop-in donors are welcome, it was reported.

The Bloodmobile is in Ashland this afternoon at the Elk's club and will be open for donors until 6 o'clock, officials reminded residents.

TUESDAY SPEAKER

Ashland—Mrs. Betty Garrison, case worker for the Jackson county public welfare commission, will be guest speaker at tomorrow's noon luncheon meeting of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce at Omar's. She will discuss aid to dependent children.

Youth Injured in Boating Accident

A motorboat injured a 13-year-old Medford water-skier Sunday on Howard Prairie reservoir, according to the Jackson county sheriff's office today.

Michael Thornhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Allen, 1390 Dixie lane, was to be released this morning from Sacred Heart hospital after being treated for a number of cuts and abrasions caused by the boat propeller. A sheriff's deputy said the blades ripped the boy's swimming trunks, scraped his chest and caused cuts on his left thigh.

Diana Gail Roberts, 18, of 2595 Victory lane, Medford, said she was pulling the water-skier when he fell. She cut the boat engine and pulled alongside of him. When the boy said he would swim for shore a short distance away the girl then gunned the engine. A witness reported the girl must have backed her boat engine by mistake.

Superintendent for Fair Art Show Named

Salem—UPI—A part-time art instructor at the University of Oregon, Ronald R. Neperud, Eugene, was named superintendent of the Oregon State Fair art show here Saturday.

He succeeds Mrs. Laneta King, Salem, resigned two weeks ago in a protest involving modern and traditional art.

"I Don't Know What's Getting Into These New Yorkers"

Ashland—School Superintendent Stanley Jobe said today the Ashland school board hopes to award contracts for furnishings for the new junior high school at its meeting tonight but that final decisions may be delayed pending further inspection of bidders' merchandise.

The board will meet in school district headquarters at 7:30 o'clock.

Under discussion will be bids on furniture, typewriters and a single set of bleachers needed for the million-dollar school which is due to be completed by Sept. 1.

SAFE OPENED

Burglars broke open a safe in the Zion Lutheran church, 516 West Fourth st., sometime Sunday night or Monday morning and took $10 in cash, according to Medford police. Entry was gained by picking the lock on a basement door.

Bloodless, Short-Lived Army Revolt Crushed by President of Argentina

Buenos Aires, Argentina—President Arturo Frondizi crushed a bloodless "pocket revolt" by military forces in the city of San Luis in western Argentina today, just six hours before he was to leave for Europe. Not a shot was fired.

Most of the rebels fled, leaving in the hands of the government Gen. Mauricio Gomez, self-styled commander of the "army of the Andes" and one of the two highest-ranking officers in the uprising.

Gen. Fortunato Giovannoni, a 66-year-old retired officer, had been named "provisional president" by the rebels and the "capital" of Argentina proclaimed by them as San Luis.

But the revolt scarcely got off the ground, and Giovannoni disappeared with most of the rest of the rebels, including the "ministers" of his short-lived cabinet.

Eisenhower Leaves Alaska for Orient on Second Leg of Trip

Cast List Posted Today For 1960 Festival Season

Cast lists were posted this morning in Ashland for the 1960 Oregon Shakespearean Festival.

After a three-day audition period, the directional staff convened last night at the home of Founder and Producing Director Angus L. Bowmer to balance the 40-member acting company through 120 roles in the five Elizabethan productions.

Many of the season's key roles have been assigned to actors making their initial Ashland appearances, while other top parts went to names well-known by previous Festival audiences.

Among the returnees, Shirley Patton of Medford (Nerissa in the '58 "Merchant of Venice") has been given the key roles of Carlotta in "Duchess of Malfi," Miranda in "The Tempest," and Portia in "Julius Caesar." Director Richard Rizzo, applauded last year for his Sir Andrew Aguecheek, will take the title role in "Caesar" and Ferdinand in "Duchess."

Producing Director
Veteran Director Robert Loper (who will be acting producing director this summer during the Bowmer European tour) will return to the Ashland stage as Prospero in "The Tempest."

Stage Manager Ed Brubaker (Gower in the '57 "Pericles") will be seen this year as Calliban in "Tempest."

Other remembered names and their 1960 roles are: William Nye as Alonso in "Tempest"; Mark Hammer as Stephano in "Tempest," Northumberland in "Richard II," and Christopher Sly in "The Taming of the Shrew." Charles Whitman will be Aumerle in "Richard" and Marullus in "Caesar." Keith Fowler (Lorenzo in the '58 "Merchant") is set for Mark Antony in "Caesar."

Newcomers
Taking top honors among the newcomers were several personalities coming to Ashland from a wide background of theatrical experience. Ann Hackney, from the Dallas Theatre center, will debut here as Kate in "Shrew" and as the title role in "Duchess." Shirley Cox, coming here from the University of Colorado, will be Julia in "Duchess," the Queen in "Richard," and Calpurnia in "Caesar."

Several new men received strong casting for 1960, topped by Tom Vall of Portland, doing the Cardinal in "Duchess," Antonio in "Tempest," Bushy in "Richard," and Octavius in "Caesar"; Christopher Newton of Kent, England, set for Bosola in "Duchess," Bolingbroke in "Richard," Hortensio in "Shrew," and Casca in "Caesar"; Graham Woodruff, from the University of Bristol in England, will perform as Ariel in "Tempest," Bagot in "Richard," Grumio in "Shrew," and Lucius in "Caesar"; Gerard Larson of Sacramento will do the Duke of York in "Richard," Petruchio in "Shrew," and Cassius in "Caesar."

Receiving the coveted title role in "Richard II" was William Kinsolving, popular young Stanford actor making his initial Ashland appearance. Other new names gaining important roles include: John Dobbs of New York as Ferdinand in "Tempest"; William Livingston of Humboldt State college as Gonzalo in "Tempest" and Gremio in "Shrew"; Don Essary from University of Texas doing John of Gaunt in "Richard," Baptista in "Shrew," and Marcus Brutus in "Caesar."

Other new names in the "Shrew" cast include: Les Carlson as Lucentio and Milton Fuchs as Biondello, both of New York, and Ellen Parks from the University of Washington as Bianca.

Directors for 1960 and their assignments are: Loper, "Shrew"; Rizzo, "Richard"; James Sandoe, "Tempest" and "Duchess"; and Jerry Turner, "Caesar."

The 1960 season, the 20th for America's First Elizabethan Theatre, opens July 25 with "Shrew." Following in this order are "Caesar," "Tempest," and "Richard." John Webster's "Duchess of Malfi" (first non-Shakespearean Elizabethan production to be staged in Ashland) will be seen on Aug. 22 and 31 only. The shows rotate nightly through Sept. 3. Rehearsals began today immediately after casting was announced.

Man Dies After Auto Accident

Albert C. Johnson, 72, of Tolo rd., Central Point, died Sunday evening at Sacred Heart hospital from injuries received late Saturday in a one vehicle accident.

According to state police, a car operated by Johnson left Tolo rd. about 9 p.m. Saturday approximately one mile west of Blackwell rd. He was thrown from the car, officers said.

A passenger in the car, Clarence Edward Michal, 28, also of Tolo rd., was not injured, police said.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Conger-Morris, funeral directors.

Johnson is the ninth person to die this year as a result of Jackson county traffic accidents. This time last year 13 persons had been killed in county traffic accidents.

Eleanor Roosevelt, Stevenson Differ On Candidate Role

New York—UPI—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Sunday that Adlai E. Stevenson was a candidate for President. Stevenson immediately said she was wrong.

The disagreement seemed to center on what was meant by "candidate."

Mrs. Roosevelt, who has taken for several years that I will not seek the nomination for President . . .

"Therefore, I am not a candidate."

Stevenson reached at his home in Libertyville, Ill., disagreed.

"My message to Mrs. Roosevelt speaks for itself," he said. "I reiterated the position I have taken for several years that I will not seek the nomination for President . . ."

Stevenson said Sunday that Adlai E. Stevenson was a candidate, because a number of his prominent backers in 1952 and 1958 had switched to Kennedy.

Stevenson sent his reply by telegram, and Mrs. Roosevelt based her interpretation on this paragraph:

"I have declined repeatedly to comment on questions about a 'draft.' I think I have made it clear in my public life, however, that I will serve my country and my party whenever called upon."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that since a "sizeable number" of persons were calling on Stevenson to accept the responsibility of the Democratic nomination, this made him a candidate.

Stevenson, reached at his home in Libertyville, Ill., disagreed.

Other officers elected were John Duffy, Medford, first vice president; Tony Karolovitz, Salem, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Lowery, Medford, secretary, and Mrs. L. E. McMurray, Medford, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors for two-year terms were Sam Evans and Mrs. Gordon Bowman, both of Medford, and Elton Petri, Ashland. Mrs. L. W. Judd, Milwaukie, and Cleveland Leis, Portland, are holdover directors.

Ten members from the local chapter of the organization for the physically handicapped attended the convention, where Chipman was the featured speaker at the Saturday night banquet.

Filipinos Plan Hearty Welcome For President

Stop Scheduled At Wake Island

Anchorage, Alaska—UPI—President Eisenhower flew out of Alaska for the Orient today on the second leg of a tour that will take him to the ancient islands of the Far East and their multitude of 20th century problems.

The President's jet transport took off at 8:41 a.m. (pst).

His first oriental port of call was Manila, metropolis of the Philippine republic, where a million or more Filipinos waited to give him a hearty welcome.

President Eisenhower arrived at the rain-dampened air strip at 6:29 a.m. after spending the night at Elmendorf AFB. With him was Lt. Gen. Frank J. Armstrong Jr., commander of Alaskan military forces.

50-Degree Weather
They stood at attention in 50-degree weather while a military band played the National Anthem and the Marine Corps hymn. The President then inspected a company of air police as well as the band. He chatted with Armstrong while he reviewed the troops and smiled broadly as he boarded the plane.

Undaunted by recent riots in Japan against the U.S.-Japan security treaty, the President still was determined to go on to Tokyo, via Formosa and Okinawa, after his three days as guest of Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia.

Reports that Moscow and Peiping propaganda organs were encouraging anti-Eisenhower demonstrations caused no major changes in the President's plans and for this he received accolades from the European press.

"This man has guts," said the London Daily Mirror.

"We tip our hat because of his personal courage," said the West German newspaper "Neue Presse."

Some revisions in Eisenhower's Japanese schedule were under consideration by the two governments, according to Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, but the basic plan of the visit beginning in Tokyo June 19 remained unchanged. Hagerty, however, may not be able to announce a detailed itinerary for Japan until shortly before the President prepares to leave the Philippines.

Refuel at Wake Island
En route from Alaska to the Philippines today, the President's big silver and orange jet transport scheduled a refueling stop at Wake Island. The flight to Wake, the tiny dot of land in the Pacific that leaped into history during World War II, is expected to take seven and one-half hours.

From Wake the President has another long overwater flight (over six hours) to Clark Air Force Base in the Philippines where he will switch to a propeller-powered plane, the Columbine III, for a short hop into the Manila International Airport.

Salem—UPI—Gov. Mark Hatfield was in Wheaton, Ill., today to deliver the commencement address at Wheaton college.

National Officers Elected for Club

National headquarters of the Chin Up club were shifted to Medford Sunday with the election of Harry Chipman, Medford, as national president. The election took place at the club's annual convention in Portland Saturday and Sunday.

Other officers elected were John Duffy, Medford, first vice president; Tony Karolovitz, Salem, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Lowery, Medford, secretary, and Mrs. L. E. McMurray, Medford, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors for two-year terms were Sam Evans and Mrs. Gordon Bowman, both of Medford, and Elton Petri, Ashland. Mrs. L. W. Judd, Milwaukie, and Cleveland Leis, Portland, are holdover directors.

Ten members from the local chapter of the organization for the physically handicapped attended the convention, where Chipman was the featured speaker at the Saturday night banquet.
