Acceptance Based On Assurance of Hot Water Supply

Eugene — UPI — The State Board of Higher Education's building committee Monday approved the so-called "O'Connor" site north of Klamath Falls for a new campus for Oregon Technical Institute.

The site is located about 2 1/2 miles north from the center of Klamath Falls west of U.S. Highway 97.

Committee member Alan Hart said its acceptance was based on assurances of adequate natural hot water supplies now under investigation as a possible heating source.

The board accepted, pending some minor changes of wording, an offer for a site and transmitter tower for the Channel 10 educational TV station in Portland. They are located atop Healy Heights in southwest Portland and were offered by the Bullitt Foundation, Inc., of Seattle, indirectly through Community Television, Inc., of Portland.

Also discussed was a proposed program for establishing a graduate school of social work in Portland. Under the program proposed by a University of Oregon committee the school would be established on the Portland campus of the University's medical and dental schools.

The curriculum committee accepted Chancellor John Richards' recommendation that Portland State College draw up comparative proposals of its own this summer whereby the school would be affiliated with PSC rather than Oregon. A report will be submitted in September.

The finance committee said that up to June 1 of this fiscal year gifts and grants to the state system amounted to $10,223,555.

The building committee said acquisition of additional real property valued at $152,327 would be required by the state system for all campuses prior to June 30, 1961.

State Armory Board Created To Take Place of Local Area Control Groups

Salem — UPI — The Oregon Military Department has ordered abolition of the state's 39 local armory boards and creation of a State Armory Board to replace them, it was revealed Monday.

Latham said the main reason for the move is to "take advantage of the state's purchasing power" for the armories. In dealing with private firms, it was found the various armories were paying more than was necessary for maintenance supplies and other items whereas the state contracts on a bigger scale and gets the supplies cheaper.

Latham said it is hoped the new system will make the armories more self-sustaining. "There was also a lot of inconsistency in rentals, for instance," Latham said.

The state board will inventory all armories and lay down policy in rentals and other matters.

Only personnel on the old armory boards to survive the shakeup are the senior National Guard officers of the occupying unit at each armory. These officers, Latham said, will become armory managers, a non-paying post. They received no money for serving on the old boards either.

The new board's president is Col. Paul L. Kleiver of Salem, assistant Oregon adjutant general. Other board members are Col. William B. Foster of Eugene, vice president; Lt. Col. Clifford L. Sanders, Ashland; Lt. Col. George W. Boyd of La Grande and Lt. Col. Laurence M. Blaisdell of Salem, custodian.

The old armory boards consisted of three larger areas, except in some larger areas where there were four.

Latham said in most other states, the state has control of local armories. He said the action has no connection with Gov. Mark Hatfield's proposals for reorganization of state government.

Portland Man Is Secured as Local Baptist Pastor

The Rev. Ed Stauffer, Portland, has been secured by the First Baptist church of Medford to serve as interim pastor for the coming months.

Mr. Stauffer has been in the ministry in Oregon since 1936. He has served as a Bible teacher, evangelist, and pastor of Baptist churches in Baker and Milwaukie. During his pastorate of five years at Milwaukie the church grew from a membership of 37 to 327, the Sunday School became four times as large, and a new church building was erected.

Prior to his training for the ministry at Northwestern Seminary, in Minneapolis, Mr. Stauffer received a degree in mechanical engineering. He has also had business experience, having been general manager for a national chain store out of Oklahoma City.

Mr. Stauffer once served for seven years as a radio pastor over several stations in the area of Shenandoah, Iowa.

Object 6 Billion Light Years Away Photographed

Eugene — UPI — A photograph has been taken of something six billion light years away from earth, the most distant object ever identified, a scientist said here Monday.

Dr. Rudolph Minkowski of the Mt. Wilson and Palomar Observatories in California told the Pacific division meeting of the American Association of Science that the photograph was of a galaxy or perhaps a pair of galaxies in collision.

The photograph was taken with the 200-inch Hale telescope, world's largest optical instrument.

Fastest Speed Measured

Dr. Minkowski said the pinpoint of light was receding from earth at about half the speed of light, or some 90,000 miles per second. He said it was the fastest such speed ever measured.

He said objects in space beyond our own Milky Way galaxy appear to be rushing away as if hurled by an explosion.

Astronomers said the find was exciting because it may have an impact on theories of the nature and origin of matter in space. One theory says matter is being generated continually throughout the universe which is a stable state. Another pictures the universe as starting with a titanic explosion which is still in progress.

Rains Increase Chile Flood Threat

Valdivia, Chile — Heavy rain in the mountains today increased the flood threat in this earthquake-wrecked city, abandoned by more than half its people in a mass flight from possible disaster.

Reports from upriver said the water backed up by the landslides which plugged the outlet to Lake Rimbue was 36 feet above normal, more than two-thirds of the way to the overflow point.

Although local authorities said the danger point probably would not be reached until June 23, federal police returning from the scene said the natural dam might break at any moment.

The police said the rain in the mountains was so heavy it forced temporary abandonment of efforts to ease the threat to Valdivia by cutting new channels for the overflow from the lake.

Danger of Attack Upon Ike Said Steadily Diminishing

By FRANK H. BARTHOLOMEW President of UPI

Tokyo — UPI — Danger of any attempted physical attack upon the President of the United States, when he arrives here Sunday to be greeted by the emperor of Japan is steadily diminishing, Japanese and American intelligence sources told United Press International here today.

Today's newspaper editorials indicate that a somewhat abashed nation, which has always felt that the minority is entitled to make its complaints heard by public demonstration, was clearly not prepared for the excesses of violence which greeted Presidential Press Secretary James Hagerty and U.S. Ambassador Douglas MacArthur II at Haneda airport Friday.
