

Valley Youngsters Take Forest Trips

By MAUDE ZIEGLER
Mail Tribune Correspondent

Applegate Valley — Local school children really are getting to the bottom of what goes on in the forest service, according to letters of appreciation mailed to Ranger Neil Suttell after he took them on a "show-me" trip into the forest last month.

A typical letter written by Gene Fowler of Applegate school follows:

Dear Mr. Suttell:

I never did know that you had so much show for fires. And that it only took three hours for a ditch to take out a road and make a gully clear to the bottom of the canyon. That the Forest Service plants white fir trees only eight feet apart. I learned what food the fire fighters eat, how heavy their packs are, and that they need much equipment, and that they go in after the fire is out and put every spark out with a little five gallon tank of water.

Sincerely yours,
Gene Fowler.

The fifth and sixth grades from Applegate, accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. E. J. Henderson, room mothers, and the ranger, made the loop trip by bus through Thompson creek and Carberry, observing various forest activities and visiting the placer mine of E. A. Adams on Brush creek.

A similar trip was made by the third and fourth grades from Ruch with Robert Snoch, director of timber management, as their guide. Their teacher, Mrs. Lloyd Shannon, and room mother accompanied them.

The letters were referred to the office of Forest Supervisor Carroll Brown in Medford. They were accompanied by spray prints of various tree species. Each letter mentioned

Out on a Limb

By BOB WALTERS

Over the Coals

If you see a guy with a big hole in the seat of his pants, please have a kind word for him.

It's probably me.

The hole resulted from being hauled over the coals yesterday by a couple of people who weren't what you'd call pleased by Monday's column on parking meter ticket-writers. Both seemed to think I was conducting some sort of anti-Medford police department campaign, which doesn't happen to be the case at all.

The first caller was a gentleman (a policeman's father, incidentally) who said the column probably appealed only to those who are constantly "rebelling against authority." He added that it must have given considerable encouragement to juvenile delinquents.

In short, I'm Al Capone armed with a typewriter. All I need is a moll.

The wife of a police officer was the next caller. She was polite and expressed her views very objectively. She said she and her husband believed I had written the column because he had given me a parking ticket a few weeks ago.

I assured her that wasn't so and I think now might be a good time to go on record with my opinions on parking meters.

Do I like them? No. Who does?

Do I think we need them? Definitely.

Do I get many parking tickets? Yes.

Do I pay them without a fuss? Yes.

Do I think I should be excused from paying them? Of course not.

Now all that was pretty elementary, but those were a few of the questions I was asked.

The column in question was meant entirely in jest. Anyone who read anything more serious into it wound up with a gross misinterpretation.

The gentleman caller said I had gone "overboard." Of course I did, and deliberately. It was done that way so that no one (I hoped) would take it seriously.

The mythical police officer, for instance, refused to stop writing a parking ticket even though a bank was being robbed and the bank lobby was packed with bodies of people who had been shot by the robbers. How anyone could take that seriously is beyond me.

It all boils down, I think, to a cast-iron fact that any newspaperman learns after he's been in the business for a week: You can't please everyone.

If you praise an individual or an organization, there's always someone who disagrees and consequently dislikes the story; the writer, the paper and perhaps the world in general. The reverse also is true.

But that's the way it should be. Life would be pretty drab if we all held the same views. Fortunately, we don't and it isn't.

Whew.

This hasn't been an apology, since I don't think one is necessary. But I do hope it clarified the "issue" for any serious-minded readers who chose to take offense.

One problem, however, still remains.

Great White Father has threatened to assign me to the police beat.

Wonder if I could get the correct time?

Gym Packed for CP Junior High Promotion Event

By DORIS HUGHES

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Central Point—The Central Point eighth grade promotion exercises were held recently at the Central Point Junior High school gymnasium. The gym was filled to capacity with all seats taken and people standing to observe the ceremonies.

The building was decorated by the students themselves. Mrs. C. W. Anhorn furnished several baskets of flowers. The Red Emperor tulip, the class flower, was used in the decor.

After each student received his diploma, he marched down the steps in view of all the members of the audience. Behind the stage, arranged in large letters of royal blue and white, the class colors, was the 1960 class motto, "Forward Ever, Backward Never."

The junior high school band, under the direction of Harry Meyers, played the professional. The Rev. Paul Kroon of the Community Bible church gave the invocation. The band presented two numbers which were followed by two selections by the junior high school girls chorus under the direction of Mrs. Lorna Meyer. Piano accompanist was Mrs. Joanne Sousa.

Bill Anhorn made the presentation of scholarship awards. Receiving special recognition for averaging grades of 2 or better through the seventh and eighth grades were Joyce Anderson, Michael Anhorn, Patricia Beacham, Patricia Ann Bowling, Robert Bruce, Jerry Calhoun, Errol Coffman, Tyrene Evans, James Warren Evernden, Carol Wote, Jacquelyn Glines, Timothy Groshong, Sharon Kelley, Judith Lewis, Terry Mooster, Lynda Merz, Carolyn Mundlin, James Ricks, Dennis Ryerson, Ronald Stith, Carol Straus, Gloria Jean Thompson, Gary Vincent and Charles Young.

James Ricks received the citizenship award, Carol Straus received the honor-scholar award and Lavern Swanson received the student-body president's award.

George Johns, school principal, was the speaker and Charles A. Meyer, District 6C superintendent, made the presentation of diplomas. The band played the recessional.

Eagle Point's New Estimated Budget Less Than Last Year's

By DOTTIE HARBISON

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Eagle Point — The estimated city budget for the 1960-61 year is $222,14 less than the estimated budget of 1959-60, due largely to the estimated increase in the general fund. Eagle Point has only two outstanding obligations at present, the West Main st. improvement bond for $800 and the fire truck series "B" bond for $8,000.

In accordance with the provisions of the local budget law, Eagle Point prepared and adopted on June 2 the budget estimates for the ensuing fiscal year. Four notices have been posted, one on the library door, Little Butte grocery door, post office door, and Eagle market door.

On June 27 in the city hall, all persons may discuss the budget estimates with the budget committee, the levying board of Eagle Point and any person subject to the proposed tax levy or tax levies. These notices were posted June 4 and are required to be posted for 20 days only.

Ted Hoffman was committee chairman, Willard E. Cave, Fred Arens, G. D. Hale, Don M. Geren, S. W. Callaghan, W. M. Hunting, Ernest Gregg, Oscar Frei, Leland G. Meyer, and Don Ashpole committee members, and David Kahl, secretary.

Last year the estimated expenditures totaled $44,328.73 plus the reserve or estimated amounts not to be expended of $7,451.98, which totaled $51,780.71 as the total estimated expenditures. In deducting the total of the receipts expected to take in other than the taxes amounting to $43,746.95, it leaves $803.76 as the amount needed to balance the budget, plus the $803.38 estimated that would not be collected on taxes, bringing the total levy needed to $8,837.14.

The estimated budget turned in by the budget committee for this year gives a total estimated expenditure of $35,294 with a reserve for estimated expenditures not to be expended this year of $13,200 or a total estimated expenditure, reserve and transfers of $48,494. Estimated for receipts other than taxes is $40,662, which leaves the amount of $7,832 necessary to balance the budget, plus the $783 which is estimated as uncollected in taxes for this coming year or a total of $8,614 levy.

Estimated receipts in the general fund amount to $7,251 and the estimated expenditures of $11,416 leave a balance of $4,165 necessary to balance the budget.

The state tax street fund estimate receipts are $6,760 and expenditures, total the same figure. West Main street improvement receipts are $55 and expenditures are $745. Emergency fund receipts are $456 and expenditures are $500. Sewer sinking fund receipts are $6,175 and expenditures are $6,175. Water fund receipts are $12,595, and expenditures are $12,595. Fire funds receipts are $2,286 and expenditures are the same. Fire truck series "B" bond fund receipts are $50 and expenditures are $1,337.

Funds are broken down into individual expense accounts and the amount on reserve in the funds is also listed in the posted notices.

Awards Assembly Ends Year at Elk Trail School

By CAROLINE HARDING

Mail Tribune Correspondent

McLeod — During the last days before the start of summer vacation, a talent show, play day and awards assembly were held at Elk Trail school. Many students from the first through the eighth grades participated in the talent show.

Principal Robert G. Work presented annual awards. Cited for perfect attendance were Judy Lawson, Mary Work, Linda Loper, Kitty Barlow, Jacque Carlton, Carol Ragsdale, James Cuddy, Billy Lawson and Peggy Johnson.

Room citizenship awards went to Douglas Houston, Karyl Ann Robbins, Diane Anderson, Jacquie Carlton, Frank Patrick, Linda Scott and Margaret Houston.

Winners of the achievement awards were Laurance Millard, William Eastman, Clarence Wehde, Tommy Lawson, Wayne Millard, Linda Albert and Patrick Smith. Student council activity awards went to Kitty Barlow, Linda Robbins, Billy Lawson, Cheryl Barlow and Marlene Young.

Principal Leaving

Gary Monical presented music awards and Mrs. Ruth Sawyer gave letters to the girls participating in athletics. Monical, who is leaving to teach music at Phoenix school, was presented several gifts from students and teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Work also received numerous gifts. Work next year will be principal of Eagle Point Elementary school and Mrs. Work will teach one of the third grades at Eagle Point.

Roy Nolen will be principal of Elk Trail school next year and R. Holloway of Banda will be a new faculty member. Remaining teachers are Mrs. Rowena Wilde, Mrs. Eva Johnson, Mrs. Dorothy Hume and Mrs. Ruth Sawyer.

IV Crews Prepare For Fire Season

Illinois Valley — Fire Warden John Moe has reported that men and equipment are preparing fire control measures to be ready for the current fire season.

Until fire season is over, Moe said, burning permits for open fires or fires in incinerators are required before any burning can be done. Permits are confined to the actual time it takes an individual to finish the burning.

Moe also announced that Martin Sachse of Kerby has taken the position as fire lookout at the Waldo fire tower and that Mrs. Freida Thayer is in charge of the Tennessee lookout post this summer.

Family Hosts Young British Farmer

Illinois Valley — A local family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin, this month are hosting John Smith, a 22-year-old dairy farmer from Cheshire, England, as part of the International Farm Youth Exchange program sponsored by the Oregon State college extension service.

Smith is one of eight "ambassadors of good will" who this summer will be guests of Oregon farm families. Four Oregonians will go abroad in the reverse portion of the exchange.

During the past nine years, nearly 160 Oregon families have served as hosts for 70 IFYE visitors from other lands. Purpose of the program is to better acquaint participants with cultural patterns and farming methods of other countries. Youths report their experiences upon returning to their respective countries.

Teachers' Roles Emphasized at Hanby Program

By MARY KELL

Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill — "At graduation, all too little is said about teachers" was pointed out by Ogden Kellogg Jr. in his eighth grade highlights message at Hanby Elementary school's recent promotion exercises.

Ogden, class president of the 1959-60 school year, praised teachers at Hanby for the various ways in which they have enriched the lives of students through activities that correlate with regular classroom studies.

Bob Turner, retiring student body president, gave the opening welcome following several numbers played by the advanced Hanby school band under the direction of Charles W. Cook.

Gilbert A. Mack, principal of the two Gold Hill schools, was master of ceremonies. He was presented the eighth grade gift on behalf of the schools. It was a two-way radio that had been built by students of the amateur radio training class, which was instituted last fall by Allen Hill and Marvin Throne, both Hanby teachers.

Mrs. Ida von Buskirk, dean of girls, presented outstanding awards to two boys and two girls who were selected for the honors because of their scholarship, leadership, athletic and curriculum activities and general attitude. They were Barbara Schatz, Lorraine Hixson, Bob Turner and Gregg Appien.

Leon Myers, varsity coach at Hanby, presented the coaches' trophy to Melvin Johnson. His name will be engraved on the trophy, which will be left at the school. This was the first year that an award of this type had been given.

Scholarship awards were presented to Barbara Schatz, Bob Turner, Dave Force, Gregg Appien, Ben Deal, Karen Peterson, Penny Flenner, and Toni Morrow. Doherty, who made the presentations, said these students had grades of a 2 or above average. Receiving exceptional schol-astical awards were Lorraine Hixson and Ogden Kellogg Jr. for a straight A average. Karen Griggs and Steven Wakeman received outstanding citizenship awards.

Charles A. Meyer, superintendent of district 6, acknowledged the work of C. Norman Gall, who is retiring after serving the school district as director and chairman the past five years.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Elmo Stephenson, president of Southern Oregon college. "Develop Minds To Capacity" was the theme for his message to the eighth grade graduates. He stressed the importance of education, regardless of position in life, and urged students to discover their shortcomings and do something about them.

C. Norman Gall presented diplomas to eighth graders Robert Allen, Robert Allison, Janie Alsenz, Gregory Appien, Barbara Beck, Eileen Booth, Ronald Brown, Ben Deal, Penny Flenner, Dave Force, Karen Griggs, Lorraine Hixson, Cheri Jerolomon, Melvin Kellogg, Sherman Kiger, Larry Maerz, Burrell McCall, Earl Meister, Ethel Merrill, Mark Moehle, Toni Morrow, Karen Peterson, Judie Post, Gall Ross, Barbara Schatz, Gregg Schmidt, Robert Turner, Steven Wakeman, Carol Whaley, and Duane Zander.
