

West Oregon Milk Distributors Close in Face of Strike

Salem - UPI - Nine western Oregon milk distributors closed their plants early today in the face of a Teamsters Union strike against one of the plants and Gov. Mark Hatfield promised round-the-clock negotiations to try to settle the dispute.

Don Hay of Portland, spokesman for the companies, said "a strike against one is a strike against all." Close to 200 employees were affected, he said.

Hatfield met in his office with representatives of employees and the Teamsters Tuesday night and following the meeting said the matter should be explored more fully today.

"No immediate solution appears available at this time," the governor said.

Hatfield said "we are most hopeful a satisfactory agreement may be reached because of the vital part milk represents to the communities affected. Assurance has been given by both sides that emergency deliveries to hospitals and other points of urgency will be made."

He said round-the-clock negotiations would be undertaken in order to "terminate the interruption in this important public service."

Hay said firms shut down included four in the Salem area, Mayflower Milk Distributors Dairy Coop Association, Arden Farms, Carnation and Curley's Dairy; Medford, Corvallis; Snow Peak, Albany; Sunshine and Farmers Cooperative Creamery of McMinnville, and Timber Valley of Lebanon.

Teamsters local 324 struck Mayflower Tuesday. Contract negotiations broke down here Monday, with the employers holding to an 11-cent pay raise and the union demanding 14 1/2 cents.

Ward Graham, union secretary-treasurer, said the 14 1/2 cents would bring the driver's pay "up to par" with scales in Medford, Eugene, Klamath Falls and Portland.

Newspaper Guild To Continue Talks

Portland - UPI - About 85 percent of the members of the Portland Newspaper Guild eligible to vote Tuesday night instructed their bargaining committee by a vote of 56-4 to continue negotiations with the struck Portland newspapers.

The guild joined a stereotyped strike movement last Nov. 10 against the Oregon Journal and Portland Oregonian after contract negotiations broke down. The guild rejected a verbal offer of the papers as "inadequate in that it is a major regression of conditions under which the guild and management had harmonious relationships for years."

Troutdale Motel Project Approved

Portland - UPI - The Multnomah County Planning Commission has approved plans for a 70-acre motel and resort project near Troutdale.

The approval was received Tuesday by Rancho Helming, a La Jolla, Calif., development company.

Total cost of the development was not part of the discussion but a commission member said he understood it to be in excess of $500,000.

The employer offer contained an $8 per week wage hike, the statement said.

Argentina Continues To Want Eichmann

United Nations, N.Y. - UPI - Argentina declared today President Arturo Frondizi would not agree to a meeting with Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion if Israel continues to refuse to return Nazi Col. Adolf Eichmann to Argentina.

Ben-Gurion announced in Brussels Tuesday that he and Frondizi would meet by the end of this week to discuss the case of Eichmann, the Hitler henchman accused of ordering death for six million Jews in World War II, who was taken from Argentina by Israeli agents to face trial in Israel.

Argentine ambassador Mario Amadeo, opening the case before the Security Council, pointed out that Ben-Gurion, according to press dispatches, confirmed that Israel would not give up Eichmann and said "friendly relations would continue between Argentina and Israel provided Eichmann remains in Israel."

Amadeo said Argentina was "not defending the physical person of Adolph Eichmann" but was protesting the violation of its sovereignty in his apprehension by Israel. Whether Eichmann went with Competing with six other contestants, Dean placed behind William McCormack, South Salem. Topic for the contest was "2000 A.D."

Winner of the contest will participate in the regional contest in Spokane July 9 with contestants from northern United States. In the event that young McCormack is unable to compete, Goddard is an alternate.

the Israeli agents voluntarily or not made little difference, Amadeo said, because the former Nazi leader had "no free choice."
