

AFL-CIO To Veto Support for Foes Of Medical Care

Washington—UPI—The AFL-CIO will veto political support for any congressional candidate who does not endorse a labor-backed proposal to provide medical care for the aged.

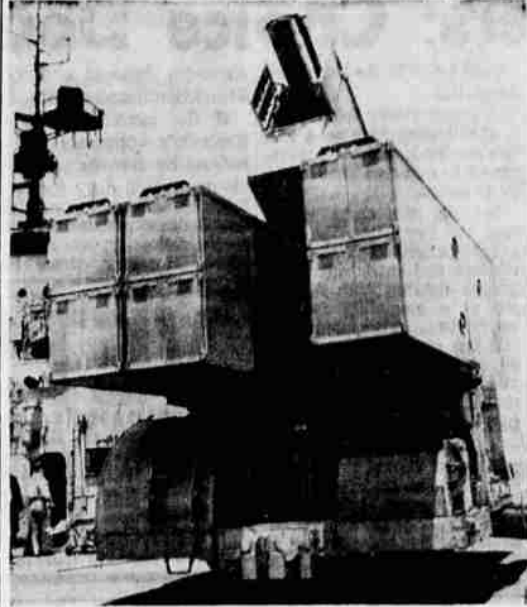

This position is being spelled out by the No. 2 man in the AFL-CIO—Secretary-Treasurer William F. Schnitzer—in a series of speeches.

The AFL-CIO is pushing for enactment of a bill, originally introduced by Rep. Aime Forand (D-R.I.), which would provide free medical benefits for persons over 65 by raising Social Security payroll taxes on nearly all workers.

'Compulsory' Program

President Eisenhower has called the Forand approach a "compulsory" program that would lower standards of medical care. The House is in the process of approving a substitute bill to help the states provide a limited amount of medical care but the AFL-CIO calls this proposal an inadequate handout.

"Any candidate for Congress who refuses to endorse Forand-type health insurance for those over 65 is manifestly unworthy of the support of American workers," Schnitzer declared.

Anyone who balks at supporting this kind of program "identifies himself as a reactionary who would oppose virtually the entire progressive program of the trade union movement," he added.

Schnitzer called it a "clear-cut and conclusive" test for determining labor support.

Foreign Policy in 'Shocking Disarray', Mansfield Asserts

Washington—UPI—Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield charged today that the Eisenhower administration's operation of foreign policy and defense is in "shocking disarray" which "at best borders on national disgrace and, at worst, courts national disaster."

The Montana Democrat, recognized as a foreign affairs expert, said in a stinging speech prepared for Senate delivery that the American people should ask themselves immediately "who runs this administration in the vital matters of foreign policy and defense?"

Plane Incident Cited

He cited the U2 spy plane incident which preceded the wrecked summit and other recent diplomatic developments under Eisenhower policies.

And in a swipe at Vice President Richard M. Nixon's diplomatic efforts, Mansfield proposed that the duties of vice presidents be limited to presiding over the Senate and to ceremonial function assigned by the President with the Senate's approval.

In a 31-page speech, Mansfield also proposed that the U.S. ambassador to Moscow seek meetings with the Soviet Foreign Office and ambassadors of nations "on the periphery of the Soviet Union" regarding the Soviet military threat to attack with rockets any bases from which U.S. planes may penetrate the Soviet Union.

No Direct Control

Mansfield said the Senate foreign relations committee's recent inquiry into the U2 incident shows "that not a single member of the cabinet nor the President exercised any direct control whatsoever over the ill-fated U2 flight at the critical moment at which it was launched."

He blamed the U2 flight for most of the nation's diplomatic difficulties which have followed. Mansfield said "this particular flight owes its origin more to bureaucratic inertia, lack of coordination and control and insensitivity to its potential cost than it does to any conscious decision of political-responsible leadership."

Golfers Save Life Of 4-Year-Old Boy

Kempville, Va.—Four golfers, playing the Kempville Meadows course were interrupted by screams from a house adjoining the eighth fairway.

They rushed to respond and Mrs. Michael Hillegass led them to an enclosed swimming pool where her son, Patrick 4, was lying face down in the water.

One of the golfers jumped into the water and handed the boy out to two others. The fourth golfer, John E. Lippencott, a veterinarian, applied artificial respiration for about 15 minutes until the youngster started breathing again.

Little Patrick was taken to a hospital where he spent the night before being sent home the next day.

Social Tipplers Dislike Whiskey

New York—UPI—Most social drinkers do not like the taste of whiskey but sip it anyway to go along with the crowd, according to a survey of participants in the cocktail hour.

Dr. Frederic Damrau of New York and researcher Emma Liddy, in "A Psychological Study of Moderate Social Drinkers" said that they found as little as two ounces of whiskey often caused a mild hangover.

Along with the hangover, they found morning-after side effects including halitosis, gastric irritation, headache, dizziness and fatigue.

The researchers said that persons tested reacted more favorably to vodka, because it has very little taste. Some even said there was no morning-after hangover after an evening of sipping vodka.

The results of their study were published in "Experimental Medicine and Surgery."
