Feeding the Family

By ZOLA VINCENT Food Editor

Paper Products Are Perfect for Picnicking
Take it easy this summer. Enjoy picnicking both indoors and outdoors. No longer are paper plates, bowls, cups, place mats special stuff for totting to picnics in remote places. They're at home in the house and in the backyard; for feeding the family and for fancy parties. There are designs and colors to match the occasion, your house, garden, personality.

A word about buying paper cups and plates. Hot cups are especially designed for hot drinks such as sipping soups as well as the usual hot beverage. Some are plastic coated to make them china-like in quality. Cold drink paper cups are waxed to hold cold drinks efficiently. There is a price difference so it pays to read the label and have the proper cups handy for desired use at all times.

Sizes in "cold" cups vary from the fruit juice size to the tall nine-ounce cups for using for anything from first course to tall refreshing beverage. Hot drink cups come in sizes from six to nine ounces.

Paper plates come in all sizes from six to 10 inches and with compartments too, for every conceivable use. Use plastic-coated plates for hot moist foods, uncoated ones for finger foods.

There are lidded paper containers in four-ounce, pint and quart sizes; plastic-coated containers for both freezing and heating foods and for carrying.

Cherry Custard Is Superb Hot or Cold
Make the most of fresh cherries right now. Their season is so short. Cherry custard on zwieback crumb crust makes superb eating when served either hot or very cold.

For crust, combine and work with fingertips until well blended, 1 1/2 cups zwieback crumbs, three-fourths cup sugar, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup melted butter. Press crumbs on bottom and sides of nine-inch oven-proof baking dish to form shell less than one-fourth inch thick. This shell may be filled at once but is much better when chilled for several hours.

Cherry Custard. Fill shell with this mixture: Beat three eggs, one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup dairy sour cream, two cups pitted and drained cherries; bake in moderate oven, 325 degrees, until custard is firm.

Ham Sauce
Ham, ready cooked, ready for cooking and canned; all are surprisingly low priced right now. Here is a made-in-a-minute sauce: Combine one tablespoon prepared horseradish and two teaspoons instant minced onion with one-half cup heavy cream beaten until stiff. Add sugar and salt to taste.

Plentiful Make Meal Planning a Breeze
Looking for menu ideas? These should make meal planning a pleasure. All are in plentiful list; can be fixed in jig-time as outdoor activities beckon.

Corn-on-the-cob, of course! Sliced cucumbers in dairy sour cream. French fried summer squash. Broiled green beans with touch of grated onion. Fried, broiled or barbecued chicken, hot or cold. Sliced cold meat loaf. Fresh or frozen salmon steaks, hot or cold with plenty of lemon wedges on the side.

Cottage cheese with sliced tomatoes, green pepper rings, sliced peaches, melon slices or any of the berries. Or make a mound of cottage cheese surrounding an ice cream scoop; surround base with apricot or plum halves and top with seeded grape halves cut-side down.

Deviled eggs as snack, appetizer or salad can be given new slant with seasonings all summer long; curry powder, celery seed, savory, deviled ham, crabmeat, prepared mustard, salad dressings galore. A quick casserole is made by arranging deviled eggs around heating thoroughly in a savory sauce.

Tomato aspic can be sliced, cubed or sliced and fruit. Vegetable gelatin molds are so easily made, so handsome to look at, so good to eat.

Berry muffins, Boysenberry cobbler, fresh raspberry sherbet, peach shortcake, any kind of berries with cream, soft ice cream or sour cream. Chilled

Helpful Accessories
Invest now while summer is young in inexpensive, light but solid trays for lapping and for carting stuff indoors and outdoors. Have handy a huge but attractive waste basket for outdoor eating area. Train the family (well you can try) to use it.

Plumped Prunes. Ho! plumped prunes, spiced or not, are an unusual and flavorful a c k e d accompaniment for roast lamb, beef or broiled chicken.

Fresh Peach Dessert Has Crisp Caramel Ring
Luscious fresh peaches are increasing in supply right along. Here we put them in a crisp caramel ring using frosted flaked corn cereal. An easily made, very attractive dessert to serve six home folks or "company."

Crush six cups sugar-frosted flaked corn cereal. Mix with one-half cup brown sugar (firmly packed) and toss together with one-third cup melted butter. Pack firmly into nine-inch ring mold. Allow to stand two hours to harden.

Invert over serving plate being careful to gently loosen the retain mold form. Fill with peeled and sliced fresh peaches using five or six peaches that have been sugared lightly to prevent discoloration. Top each serving with soft ice cream, whipped cream

Farm Chemicals Without Harmful Residues Sought

Washington (UPI) - The agriculture department has mapped a $1,500,000 attack on the "critical" problem of development farm chemicals that will not leave harmful residues in human food.

A house appropriations subcommittee made public closed-door testimony in which a top department official declared the residue problem is becoming "increasingly urgent."

Dr. T. C. Byerly of the department's farm research service said the incidents in which cranberries and poultry were seized because of chemical residues had alarmed the public and created "serious marketing and production problems."

Stringent Laws Enacted
Complicating the situation for the farmer, he said, is that more stringent laws have been enacted in recent years governing the safe use of pesticides and other chemicals in crop and livestock production.

He asked congress to boost the department's appropriation for the next fiscal year to provide for stepped-up research on agricultural chemicals. American farmers spend an estimated $1 billion a year for them.

Byerly said one line of research which would be explored is the possibility of controlling insects by making them sterile.

FIRE DESTROYS HOMES

Medan, North Sumatra - More than 100 homes have been destroyed by fire at the Pangkajene Brandan Main Pertamina Oil Co. drilling station, leaving nearly 1,000 persons homeless. It was reported today. The Pertamina compound was not burned. Cause of the fire was not determined.
