

Miss Janet Young, Medford, won second place in the three-gaited class at the recent Eugene, Ore., horse show. She is shown on "Stonewall Madge" the horse which she rode in the show. Miss Young rides in many Oregon, Washington and California shows. Mrs. Albert F. White, also Medford, drove "My Buddy" in the hackney pony class, taking third and fourth places.

Sorority Chapter Winner Of International Award

Alpha Lambda chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha of Medford won the first place trophy for its educational program at the recent international convention at Phoenix, Ariz.

The topic, "Fascinating Lady in a Wide, Wide World," has been used by the chapter for its program the past year and the award was based on description, sources of information, imagination in presentation, group participation and a composite of the phases shown in the group's scrapbook.

The first place award was the first ever received by an Oregon chapter at the international convention. Two other chapters from Oregon placed second and third in the same category and a total of ten awards was won by Oregon. It was the largest number ever received by a single state.

Mrs. Robert Shangle, president of the Southern Oregon district council, was one of the 14 delegates from Oregon. She represented Alpha Lambda and Delta Omega chapters of Medford and was a guest of Mrs. Tom Makris, former member of Alpha Lambda chapter now residing in Phoenix.

Mrs. Leon Landry, Eugene, was elected international treasurer for the coming year.

Oklahoma City was chosen as the site for next year's international convention.

Members of Alpha Lambda have scheduled their next meeting for July 11 at the home of Mrs. William Cox, 341 Sutter avenue.

Mrs. Anderson and the guests left this morning for Eugene, Ore., to attend the annual department convention of the United Spanish War veterans and the annual grand convocation of the Military Order of Lizards.

Organist To Present Concert

An organ recital will be presented Tuesday, June 28, at Westminster Presbyterian church at 7:30 p.m. by Mrs. Mildred Waldron Gilbert, Portland, a member and past dean of the American Guild of Organists.

The electronic organ was recently donated to the church and is to be dedicated today during the morning worship service at the church. The concert is open to the public without charge but a good will offering will be taken.

Mrs. Gilbert was staff artist of a radio station in Boston, music director at St. Paul's school, Walla Walla, Wash., and has served as faculty member of the Multnomah college, school of music. In addition to her private instruction she is organist and music director at First Unitarian church, Portland.

The recital will include both religious and secular music. The Allen electronic organ has tone and characteristics which rival a pipe organ. Although the organ console controls and the resultant music are traditional, the method of production of sound is vastly different, it is stated.

When notes are played, tiny electrical currents are relayed to modern electronic components instead of wind blown pipes. When an individual transistor receives this impulse, an oscillation is begun which is actually a minute musical vibration. This vibration is then processed by additional circuits, the musical tone is properly shaped to blend with others, and then amplified.

The organ is heard through a system of eight speakers, the sound is gyrophonic and full range. The gyrophonic effect is obtained through unique speakers that actually rotate as the organ plays, creating a dispersion of tone and an additional feeling of depth. Full range is derived through the use of the full spectrum of high fidelity equipment.
