In the Bag

Anyone need 143 plastic bags?

They're yours for the asking. Every last one of them. This once-in-a-lifetime offer is possible, indirectly, through the courtesy of a couple of local laundries. The bags, which formerly contained shirts, have accumulated over the past 7 1/2 months—and I do mean accumulated. They were stuffed in the closet, puffing out of every drawer in the bureau and kept popping up unexpectedly in other areas of the apartment.

The other day, however, I conducted a Clean Up The Plastic Bags Campaign and shoved them all in a large paper sack. I thought maybe I could palm them off on a door-to-door salesman.

"Good afternoon, Sir. Would you like to buy a set of sterling silver cookie cutters?"

"No. Would you like to have 143 plastic bags?"

"No."

"Fine. We're even."

The bags, as you can see, are great for getting rid of salesmen, but the problem now is getting rid of the bags.

Any takers? *

Some Medford 20-30 club members were a bit red-faced after two of the contests at the recent Catfish Derby. Seems a 17-year-old boy and a 16-year-old girl walked off with the prizes in the "youngest married couple" and "youngest father" contests before someone discovered they weren't married.

A couple of 20-30ians trying to track them down encountered the teen-agers as they were returning to the judging area. The kids said their consciences got the best of them and they decided to return the prizes, which they did.

Another "youngest father" winner was selected but Derby officials decided to skip the second contest, which probably was a good idea. It would have been anti-climactic.

Tiller-Drew Correspondent Viola Rogers has submitted numerous stories about an organization called Club 227 and a few days ago Great White Father asked the inevitable question: "Why is Club 227 called Club 227?"

Mrs. Rogers, we await your reply.

Shortly after I arrived in Medford, Mr. R. E. Nealon expressed surprise at my age, which isn't exactly an astronomical figure. Several others reacted similarly and I was beginning to get a complex because I still had all my hair and most of my teeth and wasn't a grandfather.

But no more. Today I reached the 26-year mark and am now middle-aged. Four more years and I'll be 30.

Good grief. *

Today also is the first day of my vacation. After reading Star Gazer, I suppose it's a good thing.

"Don't put anything on paper," it said. "Seek legal advice."

Now they tell me.

CP 4-H Pre-Fair To Open June 29

Central Point - The 4-H home economics pre-fair will be held Wednesday at the H. P. Jewett Elementary school.

Exhibiting will begin at 8:30 a.m. About 18 clubs are expected to attend.

The afternoon's activities will feature demonstrations and judging.

Four-H pre-fairs give members experience in showing and judging before the opening of the county fair. Entrance is voluntary and is not necessary for entrance in the county fair.

EP Ladies Meet For Exercises

Eagle Point - Several ladies turned out for the first day of exercising last week. Exercises for ladies over high school age, directed by Mrs. James Wilson, are being offered as part of the Eagle Point summer recreation program.

Mrs. Wilson said that the exercises being done are recommended by doctors for almost everyone, including women in their first eight months of pregnancy.

Rural Reflections

By MAUDE ZIEGLER

Applegate Valley - There are those in Jackson county who got their start in reading and writing when Mabel Wertz, the tractor driving ranch woman of Climax featured in the Sunday Mail Tribune, taught at Uniontown school in 1916-1917.

Some of these include Mrs. Ernest Holbrook (Virginia Cameron) of Talent, Mrs. Edwin Goodwin (Venita Anderson), Truit and Emmett Cantrill of Medford; and Melvin Arnold of Butte Falls.

Those were the days of the one-room school with the stove in the middle of the room and raids at recess on the water pump on the grounds. It also was the day of a dozen double seats and desks, and everyone sat with a partner.

Those were the times of high top shoes, sometimes buttoned, black bloomers, pig tails or curls, and teacher wore her hair up and "rattling" was a method of keeping it tidy.

The teacher boarded with a family, and Mabel stayed with the Paul Andersons and also at the Frank Cameron home, and joined the children and sometimes a family dog in walking to school, lunch pail in hand. Mabel became Mrs. Wertz while she was teaching. Before that she was Miss Hensen.

By MARY KELL Mail Tribune Correspondent

Gold Hill - Ham radio operators of the Rogue Valley Radio club and their families made up a mobile caravan to Grants Pass last week, where they joined members of the Grants Pass ham radio club.

The two groups held a picnic in the park and a transmitter hunt in the vicinity of the city later in the day.

Donald Lacy, Medford, received first place for the least number of miles involved to find the transmitter. Bernice Young, Gold Hill, placed second. Both men are members of the Rogue Valley club.

Foot Race Winner A foot race was won by Miss Glenda Ross, Gold Hill.

Those participating in the Rogue valley club caravan to Grants Pass were Mr. and Mrs. George Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Lacy, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Young, and daughter, Miss Bernadine Young, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Aggers, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Ross, Miss Glenday Ross, Richard Ross, and Earl Casebolt.

The group returned to Gold Hill where they stopped at the Young home to see his ham radio equipment.

The previous week, seven ham radio operators and their families made up a mobile caravan to Gray Back park where a picnic was held. Among the group were two novice operators, Donald Gail and Dick Ross who received their training through amateur radio classes taught by Allen Hill and Marvin Stone at Hanby Elementary school in Gold Hill.

Darrell Ross, president of the Rogue Valley Ham Radio club, said that the public is invited to the regular meetings held at the club house in the Camp White area the first and third Thursdays of each month.

He announced that the annual Oregon Emergency Net state picnic has been slated for July 24 at TouVelle state park. The Rogue valley club will be host for the affair.

Citizens Group Discusses Siskiyou County Minerals

By BESSIE FRASER Mail Tribune Correspondent

Actna - The development of Siskiyou county mineral resources was discussed last week at a meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee for Siskiyou County Development, mines and minerals branch, in Actna, Calif. About 20 miners, including six women, attended.

Miners declared that as much gold as has ever been taken out lies 40 feet below the surface. Most of the miners were of the opinion that no single generation discovers all of the gold.

Chairman Edward C. Latcham said, "We must depend upon past history to know what to do in the future. We must paint a picture as to what Siskiyou county has produced and hope that outsiders will be interested in coming in to scratch."

Latcham stressed that the miners should organize. This didn't result in much discussion since everybody agreed with him.

Discussion showed that a citizens committee has no official status and, therefore, is unable to obtain government loans for surveys. These surveys would develop the mining industry by showing where minerals are deposited.

The group decided that it is a matter of record that minerals other than gold will maintain the mining industry until gold comes back. Siskiyou county minerals, in order of importance, are pumice, gravel, and gold.

Legion Post Holds Joint Installation

Executive board members are Mrs. Irene Sturgis, Mrs. Ivel Clayton, and Mrs. Fred Salvage.

Installing officer was Mrs. Jessie Friend, retiring president of District 13.
