

Super-Strong President Needed, Rockefeller Says

Burdick Visions Election Sign of Midwest Revolt

Bismarck, N.D.—(UPI)—Democratic Rep. Quentin Burdick, who combined romance and politics through one of the closest campaigns in North Dakota history, said today his apparent victory in the state's special senatorial election forecast a Midwest revolt against Republican farm policies.

Burdick, already the first Democratic congressman in North Dakota history, ended 77 years of GOP Senate rule with a thrilling, razor-thin triumph over Republican Gov. John Davis.

With all but one of 2,313 precincts counted, Burdick held an 865-vote lead. He had 104,157 votes to 103,292 for Davis.

A recheck of all precincts took away some votes previously credited to Davis.

If Burdick's margin holds up through an official canvass and a possible recount, he will become the second Democratic senator in North Dakota's history and the first to win without GOP support.

Burdick, beaming at the latest news from Bismarck, revealed to Washington reporters Thursday that he is as successful in love as in politics.

The 52-year-old widower announced his wedding Thursday to Mrs. Jocelyn Peterson, a Fargo widow, thirtyish, mother of two children—and a Republican.

House Leaders Propose Extension

Washington—(UPI)—House leaders proposed today that a controversial recess which Congress is expected to begin Saturday be extended to continue until Aug. 15 rather than the Aug. 8 date agreed to by the Senate.

Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) announced the stand to House members in response to widespread protests against the earlier date for reconvening. The recess is aimed at allowing congressmen of both parties to attend the political conventions.

Asked whether the changed date had been cleared in advance with Senate leaders, McCormack said it had not. He said the resolution simply would be amended and sent back to the Senate.

POLITICAL POW-WOW—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), left, poses with Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) at a fund-raising cocktail party in Washington, held to help repay a $30,000 debt owed by Humphrey from his unsuccessful campaign in the primary elections. The thumping victory scored by Kennedy in the West Virginia presidential primary prompted Humphrey to withdraw from the race. The cost of that election and the earlier Wisconsin primary drained the Humphrey resources and friends decided he needed help to finance his Minnesota campaign for reelection to the Senate this fall. Arlington Meeting Watched In Development Proposal

The Dalles, Ore.—(UPI)—With entrance of Idaho into a Northwest space industry scramble, a meeting of six north-central Oregon county delegates in Arlington next Tuesday has taken on added significance.

The meeting was scheduled as an executive caucus after representatives of four north-central counties, port districts and Chambers of Commerce were unable at their third meeting to arrive at a declaration of purpose for a regional planning and development agency.

To Outline Purpose
The executive committee has been given the job of outlining the proposed agency's purpose so positive steps forward can be taken.

Watching closely the committee's attempts to forge a region-wide master plan will be state and local interests, the Rathdrum Prairie site near Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, also are under consideration by Aerojet.

Aerojet Firm Prospect
The Boardman range is in the process of being transferred to Oregon from the Navy for industrial development.

Tenants for the space park is the present problem facing Boardman developers. Aerojet General Corporation of Sacramento, manufacturer of rocket engines, has been mentioned as one of the hottest prospects.

Aerojet's president, Dan Kimball, has let it be known his firm is interested in locating a missile fuel plant in the Northwest. The Boardman site is one reported under consideration. At least three areas in Washington state plus the Rathdrum Prairie site near Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, also are under consideration by Aerojet.

Gov. Mark Hatfield and members of his planning and development commission have encouraged organization of the proposed six-county agency if they will actively promote their region as well as plan for its future.

Decisions made at Arlington next week could make Oregon's case for industrial development east of the Cascades a stronger one.

Milwaukie Man Killed in Crash

Portland—(UPI)—Matthew M. Hawksley, 63, Milwaukie, was killed in a three-vehicle accident in north Portland Thursday, bringing the city's 1960 traffic death toll to 23.

Streamlined Government Said Necessary

Washington—(UPI)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York told a Senate hearing today that the nation needs a super-strong President and a streamlined government to make the vital foreign and domestic decisions which lie ahead.

The Republican governor told the subcommittee studying federal policy machinery that America's economic rate of growth could be increased 25 to 50 per cent by more effective government organization.

Indirect Reply
This was an indirect reply to Vice President Richard M. Nixon's recent criticism of what Nixon called the "growthmanship" school of economics, which favors government spending to increase expansion of the nation's economy.

Rockefeller said the greatest challenge facing the United States is whether it is ready to assume a permanent, active role in a Free World confederation. He described this grouping as an organization of free nations on a regional basis or an Atlantic community basis.

Two Aides Proposed
Rockefeller proposed giving the President two new top-level aides—a cabinet "first secretary" to coordinate national security policies and an executive assistant to head a new office of executive management.

There is need for "strong leadership at the top," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller, in other testimony, questioned whether this country can afford new wage increases and shorter working hours in light of growing foreign trade competition.

Competition Said Serious
Hinting strongly that this might be the time for American labor to pull in its belt until productivity picks up, Rockefeller said foreign competition is "extremely serious—more so than recognized."

The governor also accused the administration of "overweighting" budget and fiscal factors when more consideration should have been given to planning new programs in various fields.

"I think our economy can afford whatever is necessary for our survival," Rockefeller said.

Stocks Get Mild Support at Finish

New York—(UPI)—Stocks met mild support toward the finish today.

Volume drifted lower as many in Wall Street made an early break for the long July 4 week end.

Steels improved in the late buying. Youngstown, off around 2 points at its worst, finished with a small gain. Republic also firmed, while U. S. Steel and Bethlehem eased.

Auto shares had gains of around a point in American Motors and a half in Ford. General Motors picked up a small fraction.

Industrial stocks were helped in their average by gains of around a point or more in Du Pont, General Electric, Proctor & Gamble and Good-year. Vending machines firmed in the late trading, as did electronics and drugs.

Somalia Wins Independence

Mokadishu, Somalia—(UPI)—The independent East African republic of Somalia was born today in pride and poverty.

The infant nation, tied firmly to the West through pledges of long-term economic aid, merged Italian and British Somalilands with a total population of about three million.

Italian Somaliland, for the past 10 years a United Nations trusteeship, had represented the last remnant of an overseas empire built and soon lost by Fascist Dictator Benito Mussolini.

The United States, Italy and Britain pledged $6.2 million in aid to Somalia in its first year. This and a crude agrarian economy were about the only immediate assets of the youngest of the large crop of African states to reach independence in the last 15 years.

All cares were forgotten today, however, as dignitaries mingled with farmers and nomadic tribesmen in colorful ceremonies under a blazing hot sun.

Unlike the sprawling and potentially rich Congo which attained independence Thursday, Somalia was not threatened with any heated tribal disputes or political discord.

Wearing Apparel Needed in Chile

Wearing apparel is now urgently needed in Chile, according to Peter Ruef, local Red Cross Chairman for Chilean relief.

Items wanted include men's and children's heavy coat sweaters and women's stoles. Ruef said individuals, church groups, community organizations and youth groups can help meet a real need by purchasing or making this type of clothing.

Because stoles are an integral part of the Chilean women's attire, they are important, he said.

Individuals and groups interested in participating in this emergency project are asked to contact the Red Cross office at SPRing 2-4405 for further information.

The local chapter will handle shipping.

ALAN KEATON
Hospital's Extern

Hospital Starts Extern Program

Alan Keaton, a junior at the University of Oregon Medical school, Portland, recently was appointed as Rogue Valley hospital's first extern.

Sponsored by the medical staff, the extern program is designed to give a medical student practical training through observation while under the supervision of a licensed physician.

During the summer months, Keaton will be rotated through the various medical services of the hospital in order to acquire a basic knowledge of procedures followed in a community hospital.

According to the local hospital, Rogue Valley is the first valley institution to adopt this type of educational program, described by the medical staff as "one more phase in a long-range program whose ultimate aim is to sponsor a residency affiliation."

The medical student, a native of Junction City, is married to the former Suzanne Reichstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reichstein, 132 Greenway Circle. She is a registered nurse serving on the Rogue Valley staff.
