Two Guests Invited For Exhibit

Two Klamath Falls artists, Gordon Kessler and his wife, Barbara, have been invited by the Southern Oregon Society of Artists to exhibit with society members at the annual Greenwich Village art show in Medford Library park.

The group holds two shows each year, one in the Medford park and another in Ashland Lithia park during the Shakespearean festival.

Mrs. Kessler is a graduate of the Art Institute of Chicago with a bachelor of fine arts degree in painting. She has worked as a commercial artist in Chicago and as a freelance artist. Her work has been shown in Chicago, Hawaii and in major exhibits of the northwest. She had a one-man show in Chicago and a joint show in Portland with her husband.

Mr. Kessler received his master of fine arts degree from the art institute and has been supervisor of art for Klamath Falls Elementary Schools the past seven years. He has also exhibited in Chicago and the northwest. A joint exhibit was held last summer with Howard Schechter in Bellingham, Wash., where he taught at Western Washington college of Education.

The Medford show is set for July 16 from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Sculpture exhibits have been added this year and persons attending will be invited to vote for their favorite art work in each medium.

Another addition this year will be organ music by John Lusk. Brochures with artists' names, their works' titles and prices will be available. Many pictures are sold each year at the events.

The brides and bridegrooms have taken over this small Society edition today. They're crowded Potpourri right off the page. But Potpourri doesn't really mind. There's always another day and another issue.

This is written just as the make-up men began to struggle with the business of putting 14, or maybe it was 15, weddings and pictures, as well as anniversaries, receptions, three installation ceremonies, visitors, parties and meeting notices all in four pages.

If the story you brought in isn't in the paper, don't blame the society gals—just look at all the pictures of the pretty brides and the handsome husbands and wait until the first of the week to find your story.—O.S.

Impromptu Concert Held For Orchestra

The Senior Center orchestra heard an impromptu concert at their Thursday practice last week given by three grandchildren and a daughter of one of their active members, Mrs. Edith Whillock.

Mrs. Wayne Crews of Palo Alto, Calif., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Whillock, brought her three sons, Joel, 12, who plays the clarinet and piano; Robin, 11, who plays the trumpet, and Aiden, 7, who plays the flutophone, to visit "Granna's Orchestra" and brought their instruments with them.

Mrs. Crews, who accompanied them on the piano, also played two of her original compositions for the group.

Edward Root, conductor and teacher of the orchestra, has reminded members to attend each practice as the group has been asked to play July 18 at the noon luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce roundtable at the Jackson hotel. Miss Julie Johnson, Eugene, executive secretary of the Oregon State Council on Aging, will be the featured speaker.

The art class also is preparing to take part in community activities during July and is finishing their paintings for their exhibit as guests of the Southern Oregon Artists association in their Greenwich Village Art show in Medford Library park, Saturday, July 16.

All former members of the art classes conducted at the center since October, 1958, are to take their pictures to the center on Tuesday, July 5, between 1 and 3 p. m. or to call in to the center, SPRING 3-4163.

No pictures will be shown on Monday, July 4, but for the rest of the month, every Monday is already scheduled for the Arm Chair Travel group, according to Dr. Frank Roberts.

Those who missed seeing Col. H. J. Meiring's colored slides last Monday can see them on Monday, July 25, when he will repeat his complete showing of scenes in Thailand. Due to a projection breakdown last Monday, the show could not be completed.
