

Porter Sees No Action on Oregon Seashore Park

Washington - Congressman Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.) today said it had become plain that "we will not be able to get any legislative action on the proposed Oregon National Seashore during the 86th Congress, even with the August session." He said he felt that the establishment of national seashore parks within the United States had been bogged down by the failure of the Department of the Interior to report on individual park bills.

"The House committee favors individual action," Porter said. The Interior Department has reported favorably on the Saylor bill which names three proposed park areas. The department has not yet reported on Porter's amendments to the Saylor bill as it refers specifically to the Oregon Dunes area.

In a comprehensive speech appearing in the Congressional Record of July 2, Congressman Porter discussed the Oregon Dunes in perspective and in detail. He placed special emphasis on the recreational crisis facing the nation at the seashore and elsewhere.

Use Increases
Using statistics to show the rapid use increase at public parks and recreation areas, Porter said population increases plus more time for leisure assured even more use of recreation facilities. In Oregon, for example, a short term estimate based on information available prior to the 1960 census projected more than a one million increase in population between 1960 and 1975.

Porter cited figures in his remarks to show the increase in attendance at Corps of Engineers, National Park Service, Forest Service and Bureau of Reclamation projects. No increase was less than 85 per cent in the period from 1950 to 1958. Out-of-state yearly travelers visiting Oregon in 1960 are expected to have increased from the 3 1/2 million of 1957 to 7 1/2 million. Congressman Porter believes it will be possible to resolve the legislative problems early in 1961. He said he would be conferring again with residents in the proposed park area which first was suggested by the late Sen. Richard L. Neuberger. He added "through discussion I believe this legislation can be written so that almost everybody will support it, thereby helping assure for Oregon a national seashore park of prime recreation and economic value."

In his remarks he listed amendments he had proposed, not yet officially reported on by the Interior Department, which could iron out such matters as the need for in-lieu-of-tax provisions, sand dune stabilization and fair property ownership provisions.

Finch-Tregoff Jury Choice Slow

Los Angeles - Little hope was seen today for completing selection of a jury before the end of the week in the Finch-Tregoff murder trial.

A new panel of 50 prospective jurors was sworn in Tuesday after the first 50 veniremen were exhausted in the slow-moving questioning by defense and prosecution attorneys.

Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 43, and his sweetheart, Carole Tregoff, 23, are accused of plotting and carrying out the July 18 gunshot slaying of his estranged wife, Barbara Jean, 33.

The first trial ended March 12 in a mistrial when the jury failed to reach a unanimous verdict.

Search Continues For Missing Plane

Bodo, Norway - U. S. Air Force search planes today had covered a total distance equal to three times around the equator without finding a trace of a U. S. Stratofortress reconnaissance plane missing with six men aboard.

"There is nothing new to report but the search goes on at full strength," an air rescue spokesman said as the hunt went past 100 hours.

ARREST GESTAPO CHIEF
Munich, Germany - (UPI) - Erich Deppner, former Gestapo chief in The Hague, Holland, who was charged with the murder of 70 Russian prisoners of war in 1944, was arrested earlier this week by West German police. Deppner, 51, also is suspected of killing 49 Dutch political prisoners during the war. Police said Tuesday he has been living here under an assumed name.
