The Medical Roundup by Walter Alvarez. Emeritus Consultant in Medicine. Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Clinic.

Does an Infant Understand Sounds and Sights? Psychoanalysts keep telling us that our mental troubles are due to painful sexual impressions we received before we were born, or while we were being born, or in the first year or two of our life. As I have pointed out in this column, many physicians cannot believe this because they cannot believe that the unfinished and only partially developed brain of an infant could notice or understand or be distressed at such a thing as seeing his parents naked.
