

Two of the older wedding gowns modeled at a recent style show of the Christian Women's club at the Rogue Valley Country club were worn by Miss Jean Forrest (left) and Miss Charlotte Roberts. The gown modeled by Miss Forrest was of ivory satin and lace and is an exact copy of the wedding gown of the late Mrs. Reginald H. Parsons, mother of Mrs. John Day. Mrs. Parsons was married in 1901 in Colorado Springs, Colo. The satin in the dress was later replaced and worn by Mrs. Day at her wedding. The other gown pictured was the oldest in the show. It was worn by Miss Martha Burr, sister of Miss Elizabeth Burr, at her wedding in 1889. It was later worn at the inaugural ball of President Benjamin Harrison in Washington, D. C. The style show included wedding gowns of yesteryears and tomorrow.

Show of Wedding Gowns Held

Wedding gowns of yesterday and tomorrow were modeled during a style show at a recent meeting of the Christian Women's club at the Rogue Valley Country club. Oldest gown modeled was loaned by Miss Elizabeth Burr, which was worn at the wedding of her sister, Martha, on February 26, 1889. During the honeymoon in Washington, D. C., it was worn at the inaugural ball of President Benjamin Harrison. The dress was modeled by Miss Charlotte Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Roberts, 2722 Springbrook road. Among the other gowns shown, was a copy of the 1901 wedding dress of the late Mrs. Reginald H. Parsons, the mother of Mrs. John Day, who loaned the gown for the show. The dress was modeled by Miss Jean Forrest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forrest, 861 Harmony lane, Ashland. Other dresses shown included the 1942 wedding gown of Mrs. Lester Wilcox, modeled by her daughter Miss Carol Wilcox; Mrs. Tom Winniford, who wore her own wedding gown of 1951, and Mrs. S. W. Morrill, who wore the wedding dress of Mrs. Charles Brooks who was married last year. Tomorrow's bridal gown was worn by Miss Beverlee Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, 605 Berrydale avenue, who was married the following day, July 2, to

Simple Rules Prevent Cook-Out Catastrophes

By PATRICIA McCORMACK United Press International

New York - Don't let the picnic spirit overwhelm your safety know-how, when rallying 'round the charcoal grill. The National Safety Council now includes the cook-out catastrophe on its summertime hazard list.

"If you know what you're doing, you can have burgers without hazards in your backyard," Phil Dykstra, said in an interview.

"But cook-out accidents are increasing and it's a safe assumption that more than a few cook-out chefs don't know what they're doing."

Barbecue Burns

The accidents are the burning kind - causing injury to persons and property.

For the cook-out, Dykstra suggested the following safety rules:

-do you cooking in the open, away from anything that might catch fire. -situate the grill on solid footing, preferably near a hedge or foliage that will help break the wind. Don't put it in a place where it will block traffic.

-to get the fire started the safest way, use the time-honored wood shavings.

-never use gasoline, kerosene or lighter fluid to start a fire.

-keep a bucket of sand near the grill. Use it to douse any fire caused by the flaring up of grease.

-keep only one pint of liquid fire starter on the premises at one time. Only adults should use such liquids.

-dress for the job, wearing a large, fairly heavy apron, pot holder type gloves and nothing frilly. A denim apron is best.

Dykstra said most barbecue burns are caused by the flare-up of fire touched off by the tipping and splattering of grease.

Wind Whips Coals

Other accidents are caused by strong blasts of wind whipping the hot coals into flames and directing them toward the cook.

Where the children are concerned, Dykstra suggested the firmest parental discipline. Toddlers most often burn themselves by touching or tipping the grill.

"The children should be taught that the grill is off-limits until they are old enough to realize the danger," he said.

Francis B. Elder, associate director of the American Public Health association, made additional suggestions.

Sharp-pronged cook-out tools shouldn't be left in a place where a person can trip over them. Don't let guests - adult or juvenile - use the tools for horseplay.

"It's all meant in fun," he said, "but a playful jab with a long-pronged fork can go wild and injure an eye."

Electric Grill

Elder urged caution when using an electric grill that's hooked up with extension cords from inside the house.

"When the grass is wet or the hands are wet, grabbing a makeshift connection may cause electrocution."

The experts warned against hitting the panic button, if an accident does occur. If clothing catches fire, don't run. Roll on the lawn.

If the accident is a little one, causing a minor burn, cleanse it and apply ointment or petroleum jelly. More serious injuries require a doctor's attention to head off possible infection and after-scarring.

Garden Club Has Installation

Cave Junction-New officers of the Illinois Valley Garden club were installed at the June 25 meeting at Kerby.

Mrs. Harry O. Smith was installing officer.

Mrs. Les Archer is the new president; Mrs. Wesley Valrenwald, vice-president; Mrs. Edward Oliver, secretary; and Mrs. Wayne Petsch, treasurer.

Slides of iris were shown. Mrs. Smith was appointed to assist Dorette White and Carolyn Hays to organize a junior garden club. Visitors at the meeting included Mrs. Richard Rians and sons, Miss Rae Thrasher, Miss Claudia Hays and Miss Donna Mills.

Hostesses were Mrs. Oliver and Mrs. C. L. Eastman.

Cave Junction Group Holds Meet

Cave Junction - Thirteen members attended a recent meeting of Blue Star Mothers. Mrs. Albert E. Weber, Los Angeles, was a visitor. Mrs. Cora Prentice was initiated as a new member.

Mrs. Paul Lerchert was elected secretary in place of Mrs. Clifford Davis. A total of $78.20 was turned in for work at Camp White domiciliary and a total of $160.50 for welfare work.

The group plans to send a canteen book to Richard Mock in the Veterans hospital, Portland. Coin cards are to be turned in at the July 19 meeting.

A surprise birthday cake and ice cream were served in honor of Mrs. Evan Kubil.
