

Educational Program Is Suggested by Committee

The Jackson County Water Pollution Fact Finding committee, in its report to the county court this week, recommended that an educational program be started as a means of eliminating some of the pollution of Bear creek and its tributaries.

The committee's report, which followed a year-long study of the problem of pollution, was accepted by the county court Wednesday.

An educational program, the committee suggested, should be started to impress orchardists and others using spray products that such materials can be toxic over a long period of time.

Use of insecticides should be restricted, the group said, where pollutants can be carried into tributaries or the main stream.

Recommend Checks

The committee recommended that regular and periodic checks be made of fruit and vegetable processing plants to determine the degree of pollution and its effects.

One of the greatest sources of potential pollution of Bear creek, the committee noted, is from the manifold problem of irrigation. The group suggested that extreme care and discretion be used with chemicals in cleaning irrigation ditches.

A guaranteed minimum stream flow should be maintained at all times in Bear creek, the committee suggested. Excess water from the Talent Irrigation district may provide constant stream flow as far downstream as McAndrews rd. diversion dam, the group said.

No Guarantee

However, the committee noted that there is no guarantee of a minimum stream flow as long as irrigation districts retain the right to use all the water from the stream.

Run-off from livestock areas should be eliminated, the report noted. It was suggested that stock be kept away from stream areas, and barnyards should be cleaned where water and waste are allowed to drain into Bear creek or its tributaries. Drainage and lagoon type settling basins could solve some of the problem, the committee said.

Log dumping or loading near streams should be discouraged to prevent disturbance of the stream bed. Mill ponds, the committee said, should be sprayed to prevent toxic materials from draining into Bear creek and its tributaries.

Attempts also should be made, the committee noted, to prevent the flow of sewage into the streams and the casual dumping of gasoline and oil by-products. Casual dumping of oil and other residue into storm sewers in Medford is sometimes a problem, the group noted.

Pollution Injurious

The committee said that pollution of county streams, especially Bear creek, is injurious or potentially injurious to the county in many ways.

From a health standpoint, public education, a clean-up campaign and increased stream flow. Present laws, the group noted, seem to be adequate, but in some areas there is a lack of supervisory personnel to enforce present laws.

Members of the committee included Neal P. Smith, Donald E. Faber, Robert G. Germer, Charles Jack Hanel, Harvey J. Parrott and Russell W. DeForest, chairman.

FINE LIQUOR DRINKERS

Washington-AP-The Federal Aviation Agency reports seven airline passengers have drunk liquor from their own bottles while in flight. It did not identify the seven passengers.

Illegal Liquor Shipment Seized

San Francisco (AP)—Federal authorities announced Wednesday that 50 cases of liquor, brought into this country without being declared to customs, were seized at the home of a retired Navy admiral.

The U.S. attorney's office said the liquor was found July 1 at the suburban home of Rear Adm. William L. Erdman, 58, former deputy commander of the Naval forces in the Marianas.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Donald B. Constance said the Department of Justice had agreed to withhold prosecution pending a Navy investigation.

Constance said the liquor was estimated to be worth about $4,400 in the United States, but that Erdman probably paid about $1,000 for it in the Marianas.
