Methodist Women Attend School Session

Four women from this area are attending the 17th annual school of missions and Christian service of the Methodist church which opens today at Camp Magruder near Rockaway. They are Mrs. Jerry Igo, Mrs. Walter Higgins, Mrs. Richard Jewett and Mrs. Ross Youngblood, who is secretary of missionary education.

The school will continue through Friday, July 22. Those in charge expressed the hope that at least one representative of each of the 152 societies in the state will attend.

Wesleyan Service guild, Methodist organization for employed women, will hold its 15th annual guild week end there July 22-24.

One purpose of the school is to prepare teachers for study courses to be taught throughout the United States during the coming year.

The name gingham is thought by some historians to have originated in a town in Brittany called Guingamp.

Women's Wear Daily reports that Emilio Pucci, the Italian designer, is searching for a dream fabric to use in fashioning an invincible corset. He's looking for a seamless, flesh colored fiber with the resistance of a steel rope to make the foundation which only the wearer herself would know she had on. He calls such a corset invisible because it would "invisibly" change the figure, shaping it naturally so that the existence of the corset is not apparent.
