

Action Sought Against Fast, Reckless Driving on Beatty

A petition was presented to the Medford city council last night asking that the city do something to slow down the "fast and reckless" driving on Beatty st., particularly between Edwards st. and Central ave.

Presenting the petition was Howard Glascock, 233 Beatty st. He said speeding cars on that street are a danger to some 40 to 50 children who live along that one block alone.

He pointed out that recently a small boy was hit and injured by a car near this location. He said residents have already talked to city police about the matter and they are "doing what they can."

Glascock also protested the throwing of beer bottles on residential property in this area by juveniles. He asked, too, that a red and green light traffic signal be installed at the intersection of Court st., Central ave., and Edwards st.

Refers Items

The council referred the first two items to the city manager's office for action, and referred the request for a traffic signal to the state highway department under whose jurisdiction Central ave. comes.

By a vote of 5 to 2 the council elected to vacate an alley located between Hawthorne ave. and Genesee st. The matter had been deferred from the previous council meeting.

According to an opinion by City Attorney Joel Reeder the alley would be split evenly between the adjacent properties. Councilman Robert Bacus objected to even division of the alley because it will mean the lots facing Hawthorne ave. will be longer than those facing Genesee st. The Hawthorne ave. lots are already longer, it was noted, but Bacus said the even division would make the difference even more so.

Against Vacation

Councilman Ed Hall also voted against vacation.

A public hearing on a proposal to pave an alley in Block 80, Original Town, was deferred to the next council meeting after two petitioners withdrew their names from the original petition asking that the alley be paved.

Those withdrawing their names were the Zion Lutheran church and St. Mark's church. Both indicated that they wanted further time to study the cost of the paving. When they had signed the petition the cost was estimated at $3.50 per lineal foot of paving, but it has since been revised upwards to $4.70 per lineal foot, it was pointed out.

The council gave unanimous approval to the installation of a six-inch water main in the Crestview subdivision on the Crestbrook rd., Ellendale dr., and Highland dr. No one spoke in opposition at a public hearing on the matter.

Hearing Deferred

A public hearing on a proposal to annex an area between Prune and Dakota sts., from Alberts st. to the east city limits line at Columbus ave., was deferred to the next meeting pending additional study.

A proposed airport lease for James Daily to operate the Hertz-Drive service at the municipal airport was deferred until the next meeting pending an agreement between Daily and city administrators as to how much he will pay the city under terms of the lease.

A proposed lease for the Rent-A-Car service at the airport was similarly postponed for the same reasons.

The council voted to quit city interests in water department land on the North fork of Little Butte creek. The state has asked the city to remove its claim since this parcel of land is needed for part of the Lake of the Wooda-Klamath Falls highway. The city water department expressed no opposition to removal of the city's claim.

Public Hearings Called

Public hearings were called by the council on a proposal to annex approximately one acre of land at the northeast corner of Sunrise ave. and Harrison st.; on a proposal to annex approximately five acres of land at the intersection of Crater Lake highway and Delta Water rd., and on a proposed vacation by the city of an alley in Block 2, Tuttle's First addition.

Plans and specifications for paving Benson st. from 10th St. to Prune st. were approved by the council and a public hearing was called for next meeting.

Bids were called for the Crestview subdivision water main and for paving Juniper way from the east line of Black Oak dr., to the east line of Mira Mar ave.

Contract Awarded

A contract was awarded to M. C. Linninger and Sons for paving Black Oak dr. The contractor had submitted an apparent low bid of $35,155.

Paving projects and sanitary sewers on Easy st., Serenity dr., and Melody lane were accepted by the council, as was the paving of Country Club dr., from Sutter st., west 320 feet.

The council approved a planning commission recommendation that a portion of the Rogue Valley Heights Extension subdivision be vacated. There was no voiced objection to the vacation.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

IT'S HARD TO GET angry at Yogi Berra, New York Yankees catcher, but Manager Casey Stengel boiled one spring day when with a man on first and second, nobody out, and two runs needed to tie, he ordered Yogi to bunt. Instead, Mr. Berra hauled off and socked the ball all the way to the center field monument.

"Didn't you hear me order you to bunt?" yelled Stengel to Berra, puffing happily on third base.

"Honest, I meant to," alibied Yogi, "but just then I seen that center fielder creeping in on me."

At the Richeieu restaurant one evening a conceited TV personality suffered a severe coughing spell. "Why," worried a lady a few tables away, "doesn't somebody slap him on the back?"

"We can't do that," explained the headwaiter. "If we do, he'll keep coughing all night!"

Aspects of Low Cost Housing For Senior Citizens Reviewed

Except for 30 units, all of the public housing being developed in Springfield is reserved entirely for use by low-income bracket senior citizens. A maximum annual income of $3,200 will be set for eligibility. If senior citizens make over this amount of money yearly then they have to compete on the private housing market, he said.

By setting this maximum income, he said, the housing authority insures itself that it will not be competing on the private housing market. The people with these low incomes could not afford to buy in that market anyway, he added.

Cost of Renting

Cost of renting the units will be 20 per cent of the person's annual income. The authority has figured that it will need to charge $30 per month per unit to keep the housing development on a self-sustaining basis.

The units are built as a residential area, complete with streets, sewers, water mains and a $35,000 community center building. All of the homes are duplexes ranging from one to three bedrooms.

He noted that the housing is of permanent and not of wartime-type construction. Last about five years, he said, and these homes are built to last 40 years. In addition they comply with all city building and fire codes. Each unit costs about $12,000, he said.

In addition to financial need a minimum age limit of 60 has been set for eligibility. There is an exception in the case of disabled persons, he said, whose age can be as low as 55. He noted that preference is given to veterans, other factors being equal.

Held For Students

Thirty of the 150 living units are being held for use by University of Oregon undergraduates and their families. He explained that this is being done for the reason that having children in the area is a good influence on senior citizens. He noted too that by having younger persons living in the area, it will not give the development the stigma of being called "old-age housing."

Although the area adjacent to the Springfield development is not yet built up it has been designed so that it will be easily coordinated with other residential areas when

Jackson's Selection Paradox, Capitol Correspondent Writes

By A. ROBERT SMITH
Mail Tribune Washington Correspondent

Los Angeles (Special) — The selection of Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington as chairman of the Democratic National Committee is a paradox because it places in a highly partisan position one of the party's most liberal figures.

Jackson, in his steady rise to national prominence, has all but shunned partisanship — and how he has accepted for the 1960 presidential campaign what is often a hatchetman's assignment.

Either the customary role of Democratic national chairman is in for a change this campaign, or Jackson will have to drastically alter his own approach to politics.

Because Jackson was disappointed in not being tapped as Sen. John F. Kennedy's running mate, his appointment as national chairman had the appearance of a consolation prize. Yet Senator Kennedy is regarded generally as too cool and unselfish to feel obliged to hand out condolences in the form of highly important campaign posts. Kennedy undoubtedly feels that Jackson can perform admirably in this role.

Kennedy and Jackson are friends, they know one another well, so Kennedy may have determined that it would be beneficial to his campaign to have as party chairman a vigorous young senator with an image that is respectable among Republicans as well as Democrats, rather than a hot-blooded partisan who would set GOP teeth on edge every time he opened his mouth.

This represents a change from the last two unsuccessful Democratic presidential campaigns, when Adlai Stevenson had two outspoken liberals who were often at war with the more conservative element in the Democratic party, to say nothing of the Republicans. They were Stephen Mitchell, a Chicago lawyer, and Paul Butler, the man Jackson succeeds.

Another Change

Jackson's selection represents a not her significant change. He will doubtless give the party's headquarters a unifying role rather than a divisive role as occurred in the past. Mitchell tried to segregate Stevenson's first campaign from the remnants of the Truman Administration, and Butler tried to keep the leadership of the party from being completely held by the more conservative congressional leaders, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Now, as never before, the Democratic party leadership shifts to the Senate where three sitting senators have taken all the seats of command. Kennedy, Johnson and Jackson represent the cleanest break the party has made with its past leaders — Truman, Acheson & Co. Whether Kennedy wins or loses, a new generation of Democrats is taking hold of the party machinery.

Ticklish Problem

In developing with Kennedy the strategy of their coming campaign, one of Jackson's most ticklish problems may lie in his own state of Washington. Religious factors have not before plagued elections in that state, but this year may test Washington's voters as never before. All the top Democrats on the ticket from Kennedy to Gov. Albert Rosellini through the higher state officials are Catholics.

That is one reason why Washington state Democrats put on such a strenuous campaign in behalf of Jackson for vice president, for they were sure his name on the ticket would offset a ny resistance among Washington state voters to supporting a heavily Catholic ticket.

Jackson has agreed to take this assignment for the duration of the campaign only. But if Kennedy emerges victorious, it is conceivable Jackson will be given a cabinet post, possibly secretary of defense.

Quotes From the News

By United Press International

Newport, R.I. — President Eisenhower, urging a quick meeting of the full U.N. disarmament commission in view of Russia's scuttling of the East-West Geneva talks: "The need for disarmament in the present world situation is too important to set aside at the present time when deliberate efforts are being made to increase tensions."

United Nations, N.Y.—Thomas Kana, Congo's delegate designate to the U.N., praising U.N. action on his country's crisis: "The United Nations will have prevented the Congo from becoming a battlefield, from becoming an excuse for a third world war."

Wall Street Chatter

New York (UPI) — Following up his recent recommendation to switch out of Aluminum Co. of America and into American Metal Climax, Schroeder Boulton of Goodbody and Co. has revised downward his estimate of Alcoa earnings this year to $2 a share, which still assumes a worthwhile pickup in the final quarter.

Until very recently, he says, Alcoa earnings for the full year had been expected to at least equal the $2.52 per share earned in 1959.

Boulton feels that the earnings growth of Alcoa, and also of other major aluminum companies leaves much to be desired. He remains inclined to selling the stock whose present price still is equal to about 40 times estimated 1960 earnings.

This recommendation also applies, he says, to Kaiser and Reynolds Metals, which are affected by much the same economics as those affecting the industry leader.

Thomson and McKinnon reports that plenty of support is evident in the oil group and downside risk in these issues is negligible leading to the assumption that they are in for a worthwhile rally. Another overlooked category, T&M says, is the good coppers with Anaconda currently a "statistical and factual buy."

Bache and Co. feels that the chart action of Martin Co. is particularly significant since the stock closed above its November 1959 high, indicating that an important resistance area has been penetrated. Bache continues to look for further gains.

Three Deputies Are Sworn In

Three men were sworn in as to fill positions recently established and approved by the county budget committee.

The men are Warren I. Paul, 698 Ashland st., Ashland; James Edward Tizeker, 2116 East Main st., Medford; and Carl Wayne Perdue, 812 Beach st., Ashland.

Paul, 37, who moved to the valley with his wife and four children last December, was a policeman with the Santa Ana, Calif., police department for 10 years. He attended Long Beach State college where he majored in police science.

Tizeker was graduated from Southern Oregon college June of this year with a bachelor of science degree. The 23-year-old man is single and was formerly with the Western Detective agency.

Perdue, 24, was formerly employed by Graff and James Construction company. He is married and has one child. The new deputy attended Southern Oregon college and Central Oregon college, Bend.

According to Sheriff Joseph Walsh, they will undergo a six-month probation period during which time they will receive instruction from the other deputies. They will work in the field, rotating as to the shift, it was reported.

Stereotyper To Appear for Sentence

Oregon City (UPI) — Levi S. McDonald is scheduled to appear in Clackamas county circuit court July 29 for sentencing in connection with the Jan. 31 dynamiting of six Wyckoff Transfer Co. trucks serving two struck Portland dailies.

McDonald was convicted in Oregon City June 30. He had previously been sentenced to serve 10 years in the state penitentiary and was fined $500 May 13 in Multnomah county circuit court on a similar charge.

The Multnomah county sentencing came after he was found guilty of masterminding the dynamiting of four Oregon Film Service trucks.

Hi-Fi Company Burglarized Again

Portland (UPI) — A $4,200 burglary was reported at the Hi Fidelity Unlimited Co. here by police Thursday. The burglary was the second of the week at the store.
