

Visitors -- Travelers

Orjan Sviden (at right) is spending the summer in Medford as a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Flanagan, North Pacific Highway. The young man, who lives near Stockholm, Sweden, is shown here with one of the Flanagan's sons, John. The two students became friends while attending Lewis and Clark college, Portland, last winter. Young Sviden came to the United States under the provisions of a basketball fellowship and was at first enrolled at Grant High school, Portland. Finding that his courses in Sweden had already covered the material being presented in his classes, he was admitted to Lewis and Clark college. The young man will leave in about two weeks for home, first stopping in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, D.C., and New York City. He has been working at Elk Lumber company since his arrival in Medford.

Robert Littrell (at right) is shown conferring with Travel Agent George Lewis just before leaving last week for a tour of Europe. Mr. Littrell, who lives at 34 Fair Oaks drive, left from San Francisco by jet airliner June 21 and will spend a month in Europe. Returning to the United States with the traveler will be Gunther Muser, Duisberg-Hanborn, whom the Medford man is sponsoring for residence in this country. Mr. Lewis earlier this month was in New York City for a tour of the new Italian liner, the Leonardo Da Vinci, after the ship's arrival here on her maiden voyage.

Mrs. Myron Root recently returned to her home at 28 North Berkeley Way after spending two months traveling in Europe. Mrs. Root, who was in Oberammergau, Germany, for the opening of the 1960 production of the Passion play, reports that visiting this little town in the Alps and seeing the famous village play was one of the most memorable events of her life. Later the traveler was in Italy, spending two weeks in Florence. She heard Renata Tebaldi give a concert in Rome and attended various other musical events.

Chris Jarvi, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sim Jarvi, former Medford residents now living in Monrovia, Calif., is spending several weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bradshaw, Bradshaw lane, Eagle Point. Chris is shown here with Dana, the Bradshaw's young daughter, as the two enjoyed a rest between dips in a neighbor's swimming pool.

A Medford pianist, Miss Sanja Peterson, will represent Oregon in the president's invitational recital to be a part of the annual convention of the Western division, Music Teachers National association, which opens in Eugene today. Miss Peterson, who was graduated from Willamette university in June, was a princess in the May Festival court and is pictured during the event. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Peterson, Jacksonville highway, and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Summertime means vacation and trips for Medford families. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Matthews, 601 Dakota avenue, with their two daughters, Anne (at right) and Sarah, and their son, Vince, 7, returned home recently after a motor trip to Washington, D. C., where they formerly lived. The Matthews were accompanied by Mr. Matthews' mother, Mrs. Ralph U. Matthews of Mesa, Ariz., who joined the family in Salt Lake City. At present the Matthews are busy with the plans of their older daughter to enroll in Lewis and Clark college, Portland, for the fall term. Miss Matthews was graduated from Medford High school in June as an honor roll student and was awarded the substantial Max D. Tucker scholarship. She will study languages. Sarah will attend McLaughlin Junior High school in the fall and Vince is a Washington school student.
