Luncheon Given At Trail Home; Daughters Away

Shady Cove - Trail - Mrs. George DeBloss, the former Thelma Reining, Shady Cove, was honored at a luncheon given by Mrs. Allan Rodgers, Trail, and Mrs. Dale Sawyer, The DeMoss-Reining wedding was an event of July.

Guests were Mrs. Ranaid Axtell, Mrs. Frank Dolenshek, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. Robert Chamberlain, Mrs. Eda Richardson, Mrs. William Brewster, and the guest of honor. She was presented a gift from the group.

Kathleen and Patricia Murphy, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murphy, Trail, are spending a vacation in San Francisco as guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Sharp. They plan to be gone several weeks.

The Murphys recently had a surprise visit from their nephew, James Kothe, Anchorage, Alaska, who flew in. He is an engineer for a petroleum company. Another unplanned visit was that of two young men who came to their door and asked the Murphys if they might sleep out in their field. The two boys, David Jeffrey, Gahanna, Ohio, and Hunter Marvel, Manhattan, N.Y., were making a tour of the U.S. The boys slept in the field and had breakfast with the family the next morning.

House guests of George Elliott, Elk Creek, Trail, have been his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elma Elliott, Napa, Calif. Other guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rush, Reno, Nev., who have also been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Estel Jones, Elk Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Fields, Los Angeles, recently spent some time with Mrs. Fields' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nicholson, Shady Cove. Other recent visitors of the Nicholsons were Mr. and Mrs. Milo Holister and daughter, San Pedro, Ariz. Mr. and Mrs. Fields have rented a house in Medford and are living there for the present.

Mrs. James J. Sawyer, Trail, recently received a visit from a long-time friend whom she had not seen for 22 years. Mrs. Ruth K. Manthey, Hyannis, Mass., who was organist for the ceremony when the Sawyers were married in Minnesota, was the visitor. The two women also taught school

The advertisements and the news stories from New York, Rome and Paris say it's time to plan and buy ones fall and winter wardrobe. Others may be able to do this, but with the thermometer around 100, this female finds it difficult to become interested in heavy wool coats with big fur collars, or bright red wool suits with matching stoles or scarves. Of course, come the first October frosts and crisp autumn days, we always wish we had goaded the editorial spirits and frame into doing our shopping earlier.

Some of the fall fashion notes do sound intriguing. Did you know that make-up will be in the brown tones this fall? You shudder at the idea of brown lipstick? Well, so do we, but the fashion writers say that in truth it is more pleasing than the so-called white lipstick. One expert wrote that the brown is that of the lips of Negroes and Indians, and said that on many women it is exceedingly attractive. Hosiery companies are also advertising that brown will be the best color for fall, and such shades as "teakwood" and "toast of Paris" are advertised to complement the new "blackened browns" which it is said will be seen in suits, coats and dresses.

For the luau at Rogue Valley Country club Saturday night, many of the women wore the colorful, splashy print frocks which are island-inspired. They added flowers in their hair and ropes of shell beads as well as the traditional leis. Mrs. Ray Frisbie and Mrs. Wayne Saffley, who with their husbands headed the party committee, both wore the pretty island-type attire, and Mrs. Lloyd Brooks and Mrs. Parker Woods, who poured punch from a huge bowl at "the fountain of youth" both wore grass skirts and leis. The fountain bubbled away inside of a structure which the committee constructed to look like an out-sized coconut, they thought but everyone else said it looked like a little grass hut.

At any rate, the committee was highly praised for the clubhouse party decor, a la Hawaii.

Many of the women at the Presbyterian tea Tuesday afternoon at the Otto Frohmayer home were wearing summer pastels and fluffy white hats which gave an impression of welcome coolness on a day when the merciful sun and hot wind made actual coolness an almost impossibility. Mrs. Frohmayer, flitting about from kitchen to tea table and trying to greet all the guests, didn't wear pastel but looked particularly becoming. Her summer frock was of thin black cotton and she had added a wide pink leather belt, ropes of pink beads and the fashionable large, looped earrings. Her shimmering pink lipstick was precisely the right shade.

Circumstances alter cases, we often hear. And circumstances alter answers too. A UPI story from Chicago today quotes Mrs. Richard Nixon as saying she likes the prospect of being First Lady of the U.S. A few months ago another story about the same subject was written. Mrs. Nixon was asked what she thought about being First Lady and she reportedly answered, impulsively, "I can't imagine being in the White House—it would be too presumptuous."—O.S.

Pat Nixon Would 'Like Job' Of Being U.S. First Lady

By HELEN THOMAS United Press International Chicago (UPI) - Like her husband, Pat Nixon has spent at least eight years grooming for the White House.

To slim, auburn-haired Mrs. Nixon, the only drawback to being first lady of the land is "if you don't like the job."

Mrs. Nixon would like the job—just as she has liked the job of being the nation's second lady.

She also relishes a political fight. Her only regret during a campaign is the time she must spend away from her daughters.

The Nixon girls are Tricia, 14, a serious type according to her mother, and Julie, 12, who's gay and "wants to make everybody happy."

Mrs. Nixon was at her husband's side, watching the convention on television in their hotel suite.

Just as Nixon became an international figure during the Eisenhower administration, so did his 48-year-old wife. At the President's request, she has flown over 141,000 air miles with her husband and done her own job of personal diplomacy for the United States.

She found that people all over the world want to shake the hand of an American leader's wife. She visited homes for the aged, hospitals and charities wherever she traveled. Her schedule became as hectic on the human side as her husband's on the political-diplomatic front.

Mrs. Nixon says the rewards have been on her side. The world leaders she met, her opportunities to talk to persons from all walks of life all over the world have made her more aware of peoples' needs.

Mrs. Nixon was born in Ely, Nev. She worked her way through the University of Southern California and she tried her hand as a teacher, an X-ray technician and a bank teller before her marriage.

Chicago—"Great Ladies" of the Republican Party modeled 100 years of the most fashionable gowns worn by GOP First Ladies since the Party's inception at a fashion show Wednesday during the "Great Ladies of America" luncheon. The event was attended by 1,400 Republican women and wives of delegates attending the convention. Mrs. Howard Baker, (left) daughter of Sen. and Mrs. Everett Dirksen, Illinois, models the Mary Todd Lincoln gown of purple velvet; Mrs. Fred Seaton, wife of the Secretary of Interior, is modeling the Lucy Webb Hayes gown, and Mrs. Charles Halleck, wife of the House minority leader, wears the Helen Herron Taft gown. Reproduction of 12 First Ladies' gowns were modeled by wives of Cabinet members, Senators and Representatives. (UPI Telephone)

Group Returns To Eagle Point From Mid-West

Eagle Point - Mrs. Lester McFall and Mrs. G. David Hannaford and children Janet, Jimmy, and Jerry returned Tuesday after spending three weeks with friends and relatives in the middle west. The Eagle Point residents left by car June 28 and drove through Yellowstone National park to Sioux Falls, S. D.

Mrs. Hannaford and children remained in Sioux Falls with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ree, while Mrs. McFall continued to Kansas. After visiting with her mother, Mrs. Laura A. Murphy, and brother, Harold Murphy in Abilene, Kan., Mrs. McFall left for Larned, Kan., where she was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Smith and family. She continued to Wichita to see her aunt, Mrs. N. J. Daventport, and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. McFall returned to Abilene where she toured the Eisenhower museum and the Old Abilene Town which has been restored. Mrs. McFall and her mother left July 14 for Oregon, stopping at Omaha to visit Miss Doris Woolverson, a girlhood chum of Mrs. McFall whom she had not seen for 20 years.

There they joined Mrs. Hannaford and her children, and Mrs. Mona Brewer and children of Shady Cove and the two cars travelled back together as far as Boise, Idaho, where Mrs. Brewer departed to visit friends in Richland, Wash. The Brewers had been with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Scott in Sioux City, Iowa, for five weeks.

En route home, the McFall party stopped at Nyssa, Ore., to visit one of Mrs. Murphy's long-time friends, Mrs. Bessie Boughner. Mrs. Murphy plans an extended visit with her daughter and grandchildren in Eagle Point. She made a stay here 10 years ago. While with her parents,

Mrs. Hannaford and her mother and sister, Arlene Ree, visited all but three of her eight brothers and sisters in Cottonwood, Balaton and Minneapolis, Minn.

Plan Dinner
Weatoka council, degree of Poehontas, will hold a potluck dinner Friday, July 29, at the Redman hall on Apple street at 6:30 p.m. A business meeting will follow at 8 p.m. and a card party will close the evening's program.

New York—Cherry coconut sauce makes a colorful topping for vanilla pudding. Blend 1/3 cup of flaked coconut with 1/4 cup of chopped maraschino cherries (about 10 cherries), and 2 tablespoons each of grated orange rind and maraschino cherry juice. Serve over pudding prepared from one 3 1/4-ounce package of vanilla pudding and pie filling mix.
