RAVEMCCO Takes Christianity Into Corners of World

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

If Christianity hopes to win more than a precarious foothold in Africa and Asia, it must learn how to use modern methods of mass communication.

It also must present its universal gospel in "native dress," without the incidental trappings of Western culture which cause dark-skinned people to regard it as a "white man's religion."

These are the guilding convictions of "RAVEMCCO," an interdenominational missionary agency which is developing creative new techniques for the age-old work of Christian evangelism.

RAVEMCCO's full name, which certainly needs abbreviating, is "The Radio, Visual education and Mass Communications Committee of The Division of Foreign Missions of The National Council of Churches."

Operates on Shoestring

It was founded in 1948, with financial backing from 11 major Protestant denominations. Like all missionary enterprises, it operates on a shoestring budget, and always has a backlog of golden opportunities which it lacks funds to exploit.

Despite this handicap, RAVEMCCO has demonstrated that Christianity can reach the rapidly multiplying millions of the underdeveloped countries in the same way that Communist propagandists and soap salesmen are reaching them – namely, through the skillful use of radio, movies, film strips, picture cards and other mass media.

RAVEMCCO seldom sponsors a project on its own. It usually stays in the background, providing technical help and funds for projects that are primarily staffed and controlled by native Christian churches.

One of the most impressive results of this cooperation is Korea's Christian broadcasting system, which now has three radio stations on the air and five more under development. American church contributed capital funds to build and equip the unique network. Korean churches underwrite the operating costs and the salaries of the staff.

Plan to Expand

In addition to religious programs prepared by Koreans for Koreans, the network broadcasts audience – building programs of music, drama and other entertainment, and educational programs such as English language lessons which are popular with Korean students.

In the Philippines, radio station DYSR, operated by the Philippine Federation of Christian Churches, is on the air 77 hours a week. About a third of its programs are specifically "religious." The rest are news, music, entertainment and educational programs. Almost 80 per cent of the programming is locally produced by a staff of 15 Filipino Christians. Three American "fraternal workers" are on hand to help.

Plans are now underway to build a powerful short wave transmitter in the Philippines to beam Christian programs to all parts of southeast Asia, including areas under Communist control.

A similar station will be built in Ethiopia to cover a large area of the Middle East and Africa.

In heavily populated West Africa, which includes the Congo and other areas where traditional missionary methods are imperilled by surging nationalism, RAVEMCCO has helped to get a Christian radio station on the air in the Cameroons. But most of the area is not being reached by Christian broadcasts.

Fellowship Dinner Planned Saturday In Jacksonville

Jacksonville – Saturday at 6:30 p.m. First Presbyterian church, Jacksonville, will hold the church night fellowship potluck dinner at the home of Dr. Bert Elliott on Hanley rd.

The program will include slides of the Junior High camp and the Senior High conference, as well as a special feature by the Junior High young people.

The sermon Sunday by the Rev. King K. Jones, pastor, will be another in a series entitled "Preaching from the Prophets." The sermon title is "The Gospel According to Hosea." Music will be a solo by Mrs. W. A. Worden, singing "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You."

Thursday at 8 p.m. in the church will present the last in a series of films produced by the Moody Institute of Science. This film, "The Stones Cry Out," unveils the marvels of fulfilled prophecy. All the excitement of a Jules Verne novel will be in store for those who travel through the camera to Biblical countries and see modern archaeology reveal the correspondence between the Biblical message and human history.

Music for the evening will be provided by Harvey Field. Refreshments will be served following the film. The public is invited.

New Organ To Be Used by Friends

"The Highest Quest" will be the theme of Pastor Clynton Crisman's message Sunday for the 9:45 and 11 a.m. worship services at the Friends church.

At the first service the youth choir will sing, "Blessed Assurance." Nursery care will be provided both hours. A church-model electric organ, purchased by the congregation for use in the new sanctuary under construction, will be installed in the present building and used for the first time Sunday.

During the opening assemblies of Sunday school at 9:45 and 11 a.m., those who have had birthdays in July will present their offerings for the fund to help transport missionaries to and from the Friends mission field in Bolivia. Two missionary families will be going to Bolivia in the fall.

Christian Endeavor will be held at 7 p.m. and evening praise and worship at 8 p.m., at which time the pastor will preach. There will be a trio number by D'Anne Clark, Pat Leek and Sara Richards.

Some people misunderstand the the Bible, because they accept what men say about it without proper investigation. When we behold the great amount of religious confusion around us, we must agree that some of the things taught in the name of religion are erroneous. The Bible could not be true and teach all of the many diverse doctrines that are abroad in the land. But since we believe the Bible is the word of God, we believe it is true and is the divine standard by which to settle all religious questions. Men can be mistaken about what they teach, but the Bible is always the same and is always right — prove all things; hold fast that which is good. (I Thes.5:21.
